JURY DEADLOCKED IN GALLOGLY MURDER TRIAL; LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT AFTER ASKING RECHARGE

Louisiana Woman Must Die on Gallows Today

LEBOUEF-DREHER LOSE LAST APPEAL TO STAY HANGING

Doomed Lovers Collapse and Lawyers Weep as Judge and Appeals Court Refuse Plea.

GOVERNOR LONG REFUSES REPRIEVE

Children Pay Final Visit to Parents and Fail To See Governor; Executions at 1 P. M.

Baton Rouge, La., January 31.—(AP) Four children of Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef, who is to hang tomorrow at Franklin, sought an audience with Governor Long tonight to plead clemency for their mother. The audience was denied.

Franklin, La., January 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher prepared tonight for a murderer's death on the gallows tomorrow for killing the woman's husband.

They were sentenced to hang for killing James J. Lebouef, superintendent of the Morgah City branch of the Louisiana Public Utilities company, on the night of July 1, 1927. The state contended they murdered Lebouef so he would not interfere with their love affair.

The long legal fight to save the condemned pair from the gallows, which was carried twice to the United States supreme court, was climaxed at New Orleans today when Judge Wayne G. Borah, of the United States district court and the United States circuit court of appeals both refused to interfere with the executions.

Long Refuses Reprieve.

That left Governor Long as the only avenue to save them and he promptly announced that he had reviewed the case thoroughly and did not intend to take further action. "The law will have to take its course," Governor Long said late tonight.

Thus, it appeared tonight that the woman and the physician, who already have received three reprieves, were

SEDAN DEMOLISHED WHEN FIRE TRUCK HITS PARKED CAR

A heavy fire truck from station 6, running wild because of a broken drive chain Thursday morning demolished a sedan parked on Ponce de Leon avenue in front of the Ford factory. B. L. Hancock, owner of the machine, had just gotten out when the heavy truck, which was speeding to a fire on St. Charles avenue crashed into it. J. B. Gossett was driving the truck.

The fire to which the truck was going started at the home of R. C. Patterson, of 911 St. Charles avenue. The blaze burned the roof of the Patterson home, a one-story frame structure and spread to the roof of the adjoining house, home of H. O. Reily, at 917 St. Charles avenue. A brisk wind threatened to send the flames roaring along the whole block and only fast work of the firemen prevented this.

NATION-WIDE FARM CHAMBER FORMED

Ex-Gov. McLean, of North Carolina, Heads Organization Formed at Farm Congress Here.

A national chamber of agriculture, with former Governor A. W. McLean, of North Carolina, as president, was organized Thursday at the farm congress now in progress at the state capitol. It is planned by leaders in the movement to make the national organization a clearing house for farm problems from all sections of the country, with state bodies functioning under its supervision in each state. The congress ended its sessions Thursday night.

Other officers nominated to head the organization included Governor L. G. Hardman, of Georgia; Governor H. F. Byrd, of Virginia, and S. Oenheimer, of Louisiana, as vice president; W. C. Chase, Atlanta, as executive vice president; former Senator Hoke Smith, Atlanta, general counsel; Dr. E. H. Scott, Milledgeville, secretary; Frank C. Lowden, Illinois, chairman of advisory board, and A. W. Dunlap, Ohio; Dr. J. A. Burris, Virginia; T. R. Preston, Tennessee, and Colonel Sam Tate, Georgia, vice chairmen.

Committees To Be Named.

Executive and other committees will be appointed by these officers. It was decided that the executive board should make a full survey of conditions and probable remedies for farm problems, consider all resolutions and other papers brought before the congress here and report back to the officers within 90 days.

Later in the day the Georgia chamber of agriculture, to cooperate with the national chamber, was organized. Following this action the congress, originally called for a three-day session, speeded up its work and adjourned sine die.

J. Frank Beck, of Atlanta, head of the Consolidated Apple Growers' association, was named president of the Georgia chamber, while W. J. Vereen, of Moultrie, was named first vice president. Other officers chosen were R. E. Hightower, Jr., Thomaston, second vice president; Claude Eubanks, Smyrna, secretary; C. L. McLain, Jasper, treasurer, and George M. Napier, attorney general of the state, of Decatur, general counsel.

A board of directors who will later name an executive committee are to be appointed by the president and secretary and it was decided to establish headquarters at the Henry Grady hotel.

The congress was entertained at a smoker in the Henry Grady hotel on Thursday night by the Delco Light company, while they were luncheon guests at the plant of the Sears, Roebuck company on Ponce de Leon avenue.

A motion was passed at the morning session indorsing a movement for construction of a canal across Nicaragua and urging congress to appropriate $100,000 for an engineering survey of the territory.

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, introduced a res-

Party Lines Are Broken as Representatives Refuse To Send Measure to Conference.

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—The first test of strength in the house on the proposal to add $24,000,000 to the prohibition enforcement fund resulted today in a victory for those who have inclined to the views of Secretary Mellon that the money should not be appropriated without a definite plan of allocation.

By a vote of 240 to 141, the house rejected a motion designed to prevent the deficiency supply measure, to which the huge dry law enforcement item was added by the senate last week, from going to conference. A few minutes later without a record ballot it overrode the opposition of those clamoring for immediate approval of the item and sent the bill to conference.

As a result of this balloting the measure now will be placed in the hands of a conference committee on which the house and senate will have equal representation. It is believed by some house members that in view of the large vote by which the senate approved the proposal the senate conferees will insist upon its retention. Whether this is done, it is regarded as probable that other votes will be necessary in at least one of the two houses before the question finally is disposed of.

Parties Are Split.

The house vote today saw a division of party lines and also found a split in what heretofore has been regarded as the wet and dry camps in the house. The ballot was taken late in the day after several hours of debate in which the membership participated freely.

Two days ago an attempt to send the measure to conference resulted in a mixup in parliamentary procedure and adjournment was taken to solve the parliamentary situation. The problem was turned over to the rules committee which group approved a resolution to provide for sending the bill to conference and it was this resolution which was approved by a viva voce vote after those anxious to block such action had lost out on the record ballot.

The motion designed to keep the bill from conference found 194 republicans lined up with 45 democrats and one socialist, Berger, of Wisconsin, in opposition. The move was supported by a combination of 10 republicans, 129 democrats and the two farmer-labor members, Carss and Kvale, of Minnesota.

In addition five republicans and three democrats were paired against the motion while one republican and seven democrats were paired in its support. This accounted for 397 of the authorized membership of 435. Of the remainder, Speaker Longworth voted present—he has a vote only in case of a tie—and 32 were unaccounted for. There are five vacancies.

During debate on the proposal the charge was made on the republican side of the chamber that the move to turn $24,000,000 over to the president—and because of the short time remaining of the Coolidge administration most of the expenditure undoubtedly would have to be made by Herbert Hoover—was a political gesture to "rehabilitate democrats in the minds of their own constituents."

Democrats, on the other hand, chided republican drys and charged that they were in a position of refusing to trust the president-elect with "the money to carry out the noble experiment." They declared that officials of the prohibition enforcement bureaus had testified that they did not have sufficient funds to enforce the law.

2 KILLED, 5 INJURED IN FIRE ON VESSEL, TIED UP AT PIER

Jersey City, N. J., January 31.—(AP)—Two men were dead and five were in hospitals tonight as the result of a fire in the crew quarters of the Dollar liner President Johnson, tied up at a pier here.

A four-hour fight placed the blaze under control early today. Although damage was slight, departure of the vessel on a round-the-world tour was postponed from this afternoon until tomorrow.

Stanley Horton, of Alameda, Calif., and Benjamin Krynck, of Rome, N. Y., both junior engineers, lost their lives in the fire. Horton succumbed when he returned to the quarters to rescue his clothing. Krynck was burned to death in his bunk.

TWO NEW PRISONS TO RELIEVE JAM ASKED IN HOUSE

Minority Report Criticizes Mrs. Willebrandt Severely for "Espionage" on Warden Snook.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, January 31.—In a supplementary report on the investigation of federal penal institutions, made during the summer by a special house committee, Representative John J. Boylan, of New York, one of two democratic members of the body, today scathingly denounced Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, for the action of the department of justice in "planting" federal undercover men in the Atlanta penitentiary in an alleged effort to "bushwhack" Warden John P. Snook.

Representative Boylan's report was made public after the special prison committee had filed with the house earlier in the day its findings on the investigation. Tomorrow it is his purpose to incorporate the supplemental report in the record and enter into a discussion of the Atlanta incident.

Bell to Cite Evidence.

At the same time Representative Thomas M. Bell, of Georgia, the second democratic member of the committee, will present to the house a large part of the evidence taken during the investigation in Atlanta. The special committee while in Atlanta conducted private hearings at some length on the Willebrandt-Snook charges and none of the evidence has heretofore been made public.

Placing the blame squarely on Assistant Attorney General Willebrandt for sending undercover men to the Atlanta penitentiary "to spy on the officials and inmates there," as he put it, Representative Boylan declared that such action "is indefensible on any grounds."

Characterizing the system as "despicable," he charged that it was "contrary to American traditions, the American system of government and administration, as well as a sense of decency." Continuance of the system, he said, would lead to a "nation of spies, snoopers and Benedict Arnolds."

Mrs. Willebrandt Silent.

The language used by the New York congressman in condemning the practice was perhaps the most critical heard in congress this session.

Department of justice officials, including Mrs. Willebrandt, have maintained silence on the Atlanta incident ever since it was first disclosed by The Constitution that federal operatives had been sent to the prison for spy work against Warden Snook. It was charged at the time that the woman assistant attorney general, who is in charge of all federal penal institutions, was out to "get" Snook because of incidents connected with the incarceration of Earl Carrol, theatrical producer. For one thing it was stated that she strenuously objected

Game Refuge To Get Herd Of Fifty Deer

State Game Commissioner To Witness Event Saturday in North Georgia.

Peter S. Twitty, state commissioner of game and fish, will leave Atlanta this morning with a party of prominent sportsmen and conservation enthusiasts, for the north Georgia mountains, where they will witness the release of 50 deer, which are to be turned loose in the state's Cherokee game refuge for the purpose of restocking the wild life of the northern end of the state.

This 'refuge' is located in Union, Fannin and Lumpkin counties and covers an area of 14,000 acres. It has already been stocked with wild turkey, fox squirrel and other wild life, and also some deer. The deer to be released into the refuge Saturday have been held in corral in Pickens county and near Dahlonega for breeding purposes.

Mr. Twitty, after pointing out that north Georgia has no wild deer now, all the original stock having been killed off, stated that his department is trying to bring back the "good old days" in the mountain regions.

"We want to give that section of the state the sport and pleasure their neighbors in the southern part of the state now enjoy," he said.

The party will leave Atlanta by automobile, going first to Dahlonega. They will spend Friday and Saturday nights in a hunting lodge located in the game refuge, returning to Atlanta on Sunday.

HOOVER ATTAINS LIFE'S AMBITION, LANDS SAILFISH

After 25-Minute Battle, Prize of Nimrods Is Conquered; Quits House To Write on Boat.

Long Key, Fla., January 31.—(AP)—President-elect Hoover today realized his long-cherished ambition to catch a sailfish.

After less than half an hour's battle he landed one of the gamest fish found in Florida waters. It weighed abut 45 pounds and was about six feet long.

The catch was made on the edge of the Gulf stream. Mr. Hoover had as his companions Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone, and Jeremiah Milbank, eastern treasurer of the republican national committee. Fishing from an armchair, the next president trolled for an hour without making a strike. He had as bait a piece of bonito cut in the shape of a fish.

When the sailfish first struck the president-elect let his line out rapidly and then as he felt the sailfish muzzling the bait he made his strike. As his hook caught the sailfish leaped out of the water, then began a long run to escape. Mr. Hoover let out his line rapidly; then checked as his sailfish turned and there ensued a battle of 25 minutes during which the president-elect brought into play all his lore as a fisherman before he landed his catch.

After catching the sailfish Mr. Hoover returned to the shallow waters of the Florida keys and there he added to his catch a number of tuna fish, amberjack, trigger fish and other species. After lunch he returned to the edge of the Gulf stream; hooked another sailfish and lost it.

Returning to his houseboat, the president-elect resumed work on his inaugural address which he plans to complete before returning to Washington late next month. He finds here during his evenings even a greater isolation than he might have even at his Florida vacation home on Belle Isle.

INCREASED TARIFF ON COTTON ASKED

Mills and Manufacturers Want More Duty on Gloves, Hose, Blankets and Handkerchiefs.

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—Higher tariffs on cotton gloves, hosiery, blankets, handkerchiefs and other manufactured cotton articles were sought by a dozen witnesses appearing today before the house ways and means committee considering the tariff revision.

Meyer Kraushear, New York, filed a brief on behalf of handkerchief manufacturers, in which increased protection was sought for all kinds of handkerchiefs. Imports from Europe were growing more and more each year, he said, while values per unit have declined with a consequent demoralization of the American market.

In place of the 10 per cent ad valorem duty levied in addition to the rate paid upon cotton cloth when handkerchiefs are hemmed or hemstitched, he suggested a 25 per cent tariff to care for higher production costs in this country.

Change Is Asked.

A compound duty of 40 per cent ad valorem and 4 cents a handkerchief, also was proposed instead of the present 75 per cent duty on embroidered handkerchiefs. The annual domestic production of handkerchiefs was valued at $31,500,000.

Germany had practically driven out of business American manufacturers of cotton fabric gloves and children's hosiery, representtives of these trades claimed in asking higher tariffs.

In urging a duty of $4 a dozen, or 50 per cent, ad valorem based on the American selling price for cotton fabric gloves, P. L. Gerety, of Derby, Conn., contended American manufacturers could have produced all of the 26,000,000 pairs that came in from Germany in 1927 had an adequate tariff been provided.

H. O. Lloyd, of New York, representing importers, sought a reduction to 50 per cent in the duty of 75 per cent now applying on embroidered cotton gloves, contending these gloves could not be produced in the United States at a cheap enough price.

New Duty on Hosiery.

On behalf of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, J. N. McCullaugh, New York, proposed a duty of 45 cents a

SHIPS TO EQUAL BRITAIN—JOHNSON

Senator Says U. S. Naval Experts Out-Generaled and Power Lessened at Armament Meeting.

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—A demand that America be made more powerful at sea rumbled through the senate chamber again today as Senator Johnson, republican, California, spoke of a "world drama" which he said would be played in future upon the Pacific. He pleaded for enactment of the warship construction bill now awaiting action.

The naval program is vital to America's safety, declared the Californian in a two-hour address which consumed the full time allotted for debate on the bill. It is necessary to give this nation a parity with Great Britain in sea strength, he said, and approval of the program also is necessary to bring about any future conference for the limitation of armaments.

Protection Not Aggression.

Great Britain with her sea strength was the particular target of Senator Johnson and he charged that nation with a violation of the spirit of the Washington arms conference in building cruisers since the naval limitations treaty was ratified.

But he called for a larger American navy for the "sole purpose of protecting America and not for fighting any other nations." He said that "realizing as I do what the future holds for the Pacific coast I want this bill passed and passed in its present form. I realize it will be only a brief period, as the time of man goes, until the world's drama will be played upon the Pacific ocean."

Johnson insisted that the United States had been misled into an unequal naval basis with Great Britain in the Washington conference and in this contention he was joined by Senator Reed, democrat, of Missouri, who declared that America's quota of capital ships was 20 per cent less than Great Britain's by virtue of that conference.

Fights Time Clause.

Senator Nye, republican, of North Dakota, was prepared to wage an attack on the bill, but deferred his address when the hour became late.

Johnson urged approval of the naval bill with the time clause voted by the house, whereby the ships would be laid down before 1931. He said any other course, including that proposed by President Coolidge for elimination of this clause, would make the measure a "mere gesture."

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, a friend of the measure, asked Johnson, "Isn't it significant that the first time we hear Great Britain talking of cruiser limitation

WALTON BUILDING ANNEX IS PLANNED

Walter Candler Purchases Site Adjoining North Side of Structure for $45,000.

Plans for erection af an annex to the Walton building, 10-story office structure on the northeast corner of Walton and Cone streets, were disclosed Thursday at the office of Walter Candler, owner of the building. While details have not been worked out, according to the statement made at the Candler office, it is understood the project will involve expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars when put into effect.

Purchase of the site of the proposed annex, consisting of the vacant lot on Cone street adjoining the north side of the Walton building, was completed Thursday afternoon, following several months of negotiations. According to details of the sale, announced by Adams-Cates company, agents handling the deal, the lot has a frontage of 40 feet on Cone street, situated in the center of the block, between Walton and Poplar streets, and extends back 90 feet. The consideration was $45,000, establishing a price of more than $1,000 per front foot.

Mr. Candler bought the lot from A. D. Adair & McCarty Bros. and other interests holding the parcel in the name of the Cone street Realty company. The sale was handled by J. C. Baldwin, Jr., of the Adams-Cates company. Approximately one year ago, Mr. Baldwin sold the Walton office building to Mr. Candler. The price paid was $400,000. Subsequently Mr. Baldwin advised purchase of the adjoining parcel as protection to the large office building.

According to reports the Walton building is now more than 90 per cent occupied, which is considered above normal in office building renting. The structure is said to be showing highly profitable returns on the investment. The building was originally designed by the architects, Marye Alger & Vinour, to permit of the addition now being contemplated.

The Adams-Cates company Thursday also announced sale of the three-story warehouse on the northwest corner of Markham and Mangum streets to W. S. Loftis, plumbing concern, for the Fulton National bank, trustees. The consideration involved was $40,000. The structure, which occupies a large site on the corner, was formerly occupied by the Gate City Coffin company. It is to be used by Loftis as a warehouse.

The sale of the Markham and Mangum corner was negotiated by Hunter Perry, of the Adam-Cates company. Examination and insurance of titles was by the Atlanta Title & Trust Co.

JUDGE RECALLED AFTER HE LEAVES COURT FOR HOME

Recharge Will Be Delivered This Morning When Jurymen Resume Their Deliberations.

SPECTATORS AWAIT VERDICT FOR HOURS

Boykin in Speech Demands Death Penalty and Reuben Arnold Then Makes Plea for Youth.

Failing to agree on a verdict after three hours of deliberation, the jury trying Dick Gallogly for murder in connection with the death of Willard Smith in the holdup of a pharmacy October 16 of last year was locked up for the night at 10:30 o'clock Thursday night after it had asked Trial Judge Virlyn B. Moore for a recharge.

Judge Moore will recharge the jury at 9 o'clock this morning when deliberation will be resumed.

The case was given to the jury at 6:27 o'clock. At 10 o'clock Judge Moore asked if there was a chance for an immediate verdict and was told that if given 15 or 20 minutes more a decision might be reached. However, half an hour later the 12 men reported they still had not come to an agreement. It was then that the court ordered the recess until this morning.

Jury Sends for Judge.

After Judge Moore, members of the prosecuting staff, defense counsel and a crowd of spectators which had filled the courtroom had started home word come from the jury room that the judge was wanted. A bailiff hurried out of the courthouse and caught Judge Moore just as he was starting to drive home. When the judge returned to the courtroom and learned that a recharge was desired he decided not to present it until this morning and the jury was taken to the Henry Grady hotel for the night.

A number of rumors, all unfounded, had the jury standing firm at various counts. No authentic information was available. Before beginning its deliberation the jury had been taken to dinner and from the time it returned no one went near the jury room until Judge Moore sought to learn the status of the case at 10 o'clock.

Wait for Verdict.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin, his chief aide, Ed A. Stephens, Lowry Arnold, Paul S. Etheridge and Sam D. Hewlett, of defense counsel, members of Gallogly's family were in the patiently waiting crowd when Judge Moore ordered the recess. Mrs. Mary Belle Smith, widow of the man for whose murder Gallogly is on trial, waited nearly two hours for the ver-

Three Possible Verdicts Left Open by Judge Moore

Three possible verdicts were left open to the jury trying Dick Gallogly for alleged participation in the murder of Willard Smith by Trial Judge Virlyn B. Moore in his charge. One was guilty of murder, carrying the extreme penalty, the second was a verdict of guilty carrying a recommendation for mercy and the third was acquittal.

This charge will be amended by Judge Moore when court reconvenes this morning.

Charge to Jury.

Judge Moore in his charge to the jury said:

"Gentlemen of the Jury:

"This bill of indictment charges Richard G. Gallogly with murder.

"In this indictment two persons have been indicted, George Harsh and the defendant now on trial, Richard G. Gallogly, and Gallogly is now on trial under this indictment and you are concerned only with the case as alleged against him.

"To the charge of murder, as made in this indictment, he pleads not guilty, and that forms the issue for you to try and determine.

"The defendant enters upon the trial of this case with the presumption of innocence in his favor.

"You are the sole judges of the credibility of the witnesses.

Charge Is Murder.

"The charge against this defendant is murder. Murder, as defined, is the unlawful killing of a human being, in the peace of the state, by a person of sound memory and discretion, with malice aforethought, either express or implied.

"Express malice is that deliberate intention, unlawfully to take away the life of a fellow creature, which is manifested by external circumstances capable of proof.

"Malice shall be implied where no considerable provocation appears and where all the circumstances of the killing show an abandoned and malignant heart.

Intentional Killing.

"In other words, gentlemen, murder is the intentional killing of a human being, or the killing of a human being by the intentional use of a weapon that, in the manner in which it was used at the time, is likely to produce death, and a killing also without either justification or mitigation.

"A conspiracy is defined as a combination or agreement between two or more persons to do an unlawful act. The existence of a conspiracy may be established by proof of acts and conduct as well as by proof of an express agreement.

"The rule is, that when individuals associate themselves in an unlawful enterprise, any act done in pursuance of the conspiracy by one of the conspirators is, in legal contemplation the act of all, and is subject to the qualification that each is responsible for the acts of the others only so far as such acts are naturally or necessarily done in pursuance of and in furtherance of the conspiracy.

Acts of Conspirator.

"When and if a conspiracy has been established to your satisfaction beyond a reasonable doubt, the acts of one of the conspirators are the acts of all, and each is responsible for the acts of the others only so far as such acts are naturally or necessarily done pursuant to or in furtherance of the conspiracy.

"If two or more persons form a common intent and purpose to go to the place of business of another and commit a robbery at such place of business, and if in pursuance of such common intent and purpose to commit a robbery, such person should go to the place of business of the person where it is contemplated that a robbery would be committed, and if in pursuance of such common intent and purpose to commit a robbery, one of those persons aiding and abetting in such effort to commit a robbery, and acting with such intent and purpose, if such should be the case, should shoot and kill the person sought to be robbed, then in that event, the act of the one shooting and killing the other would be attributable to and is the act of all present aiding and abetting in the effort to commit such crime, and each and all would be equally guilty under the law, if they went there with the common intent and purpose, and in pursuance of such common intent and purpose a crime was committed and they were all present aiding and abetting in the commission of the crime.

"If you believe beyond a reasonable doubt that this defendant, in the county of Fulton and state of Georgia, at any time prior to the date of finding and returning of this indictment into court by the grand jury, did form a common intent and purpose with another to commit a robbery, and if you should further believe that in pursuance of such common intent and purpose, the defendant himself, and such other person went to the place of business of another, with such common intent and purpose—that is to say, with a common intent and purpose to commit a robbery—and if you should further believe that in furtherance of such common intent and purpose, and with the intent and purpose to commit a robbery, one of those present shot and killed the person named in this bill of indictment in furtherance of a common intent and purpose to commit a robbery, and you should believe that this defendant was there present aiding and abetting in the commission of the act, and that he went there with the common intent and purpose of committing the robbery, as stated, and in pursuance of such common intent and purpose, and in furtherance of such effort, one of them shot and killed the one named in this indictment, without justification or mitigating circumstances, and as stated before, this defendant was there aiding and abetting in the commission of the crime, then and in that event, each and all so present aiding and abetting in the commission of the crime would be equally guilty, and each and all would be guilty of the offense of murder.

"Gentlemen of the jury, section 70, of the penal code, on justifiable homicide, provides as follows, in part:

"There being no rational distinction between excusable and justifiable homicide, it shall no longer exist. Justifiable homicide is the killing of a human being by commandment of the law, in execution of public justice; by permission of the law in advancement of public justice; in self-defense, or in defense of person, against one who manifestly intends or endeavors, by violence or surprise, to commit a felony on a person."

Meaning of "Felony."

"By the word 'felony' the law means any offense for which the offender would be punishable by confinement in the penitentiary and not otherwise. Robbery is a felony. Assault with intent to rob is also a felony.

"Robbery is the wrongful, fraudulent and violent taking of money, goods or chattels from the person of another by force or intimidation. To constitute robbery, it is unnecessary that the taking of property should be directly from one's person; it is sufficient if it is taken while in his possession and immediate presence.

"Assault with intent to rob is where any person shall, with any offense or dangerous weapon or instrument, unlawfully and maliciously assault another, or shall, by menaces, or in any forcible or violent manner, demand any money, goods or chattels of or from any other person with intent to commit a robbery upon such person.

Right of Defense.

"If you believe from the evidence in this case that Willard Smith was at work in a store and had charge and possession of any money or goods in his immediate presence in said store, and that a person or persons entered said store and committed a felony upon his person, or were in the act of committing a felony upon his person, either by committing an assault with intent to rob upon said Smith, with an offensive and dangerous weapon, or by being in the act of attempting to rob the said Smith of any goods or money in his possession, or immediate presence, in said store, then and in that event, I charge you that Willard Smith would have had the right to shoot such person or persons, so committing said offense, if such shooting by Smith was reasonably necessary to prevent the completion of said felony by such person or persons so committing it.

"A bare fear by Smith would not be sufficient to justify him in so shooting, but it must appear that the circumstances were sufficient to excite the fears of a reasonable man that a felony was about to be committed upon his person.

Justification of Smith.

"If you believe from the evidence in this case that Willard Smith shot at George Harsh, acting under the fears of a reasonable man, that a felony was about to be committed upon his person and for the purpose of repelling or preventing a felony from being so committed, he would have been justified, and the said Harsh would not have been justified in returning the shots and in shooting Smith, and if he did shoot and killed the said Smith under such circumstances, he would be guilty of murder, and if this defendant, Gallogly, was present, aiding and abetting in the commission of the crime, if any, as charged you he would also be guilty of murder.

"If you find from the evidence and the defendant's statement that the defendant Gallogly did not enter into any conspiracy with Harsh to rob the drug store of which Willard Smith was an employee upon the occasion in question, and if you believe at or near the drug store, if he was present upon such occasion, was there not as a conspirator to perpetrate a robbery, and was not aiding and abetting in the commission of the felony; but upon the occasion in question, the defendant Gallogly did accompany Harsh to the drug store, where the deceased Smith was employed, not to rob or to aid and abet in robbing the drug store, but for the purpose of pleading with Harsh and persuade him to repent of his intention to rob and to deter, if possible, Harsh from committing the robbery, and was not aiding or abetting in the crime, then, if you believe this to be true, the defendant Gallogly would not be guilty of murder, although Harsh killed Smith, and if you believe this to be true you should acquit the defendant.

No Opinion Expressed.

"Now, gentlemen, the court does not intimate or express any opinion whatsoever as to the facts in this case. The facts of the case are solely and exclusively for your determination.

"You are to take the case, in the light of all the facts and circumstances, as shown by the evidence, giving the defendant's statement such weight and credit as you think it entitled to receive and reach a verdict that will speak the truth, as you find and believe the truth to be.

"If you believe the defendant is guilty, and believe it beyond a reasonable doubt, it would be your duty to convict him.

"If you do not believe the defendant is guilty, or if you entertain a reasonable doubt as to his guilt, it would be your duty to acquit him."

SHIPS TO EQUAL BRITAIN—JOHNSON

is when we float our first cruiser?" Johnson said that put in "plain language" was what he was thinking.

"There is something strange about our diplomacy. I don't want to condemn it, but I would just a little rather it didn't deal with our defects."

Walsh Is Named.

Senator Reed contended that the United States and Great Britain had never been on a parity, even immediately after the Washington conference which established the 5-5-3 ratio. He said the British tonnage then was 628,820 to 525,860 for the United States and on the basis of different computations in the two countries the United States actually was 20 per cent inferior to Great Britain.

The Missouri Senator declared this situation had been brought to his attention by an unnamed American naval official.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, who is opposed to the cruiser bill, declared that the statement of Senator Reed must be admitted as important.

"We were told by American navy officials," he said, "that a parity had been secured. Now we are told otherwise. This is either an impeachment of the ability of our naval experts or an indictment of the integrity of the experts themselves."

TWO NEW PRISONS ASKED IN HOUSE to the publicity attending Carrol's imprisonment.

Ignores Snook Case.

The majority report of the committee, signed by Representative John G. Cooper, of Ohio, republican chairman, made several important recommendations for the relief of federal penitentiaries at Atlanta and elsewhere, but omitted any discussion of the Willebrandt-Snook case. In behalf of the committee it was explained that both majority and minority members felt that the real object of the investigation would be lost sight of if extraneous matters were injected into the report.

Nevertheless, the two democratic members have taken the position that the investigation at Atlanta brought facts which are regarded as too important in their bearing on federal prison practices to be ignored. The revelations are therefore being brought to the attention of the country in supplemental reports.

One of the recommendations of the majority report for the Atlanta institution was that the number of prisoners there be reduced as early as possible to not more than 2,000, as against the 3,107 accommodated there now. Indicative of the congestion that prevails in federal penitentiaries generally, it was pointed out that the normal capacity of the Atlanta pen is only 1,712.

Asks Two More Pens.

As a means of reducing the congestion the committee recommended that two additional penal institutions be established at an early date.

Other sections of the majority report making specific recommendations follow:

The committee found that the Leavenworth penitentiary now has within its walls more than twice the number of prisoners it is able to accommodate. At both institutions there exists the vicious practice of "doubling-up," or placing two prisoners in single cells. Men are sleeping in dark, ill-ventilated basements and corridors; improvised dormitories are in use; the kitchen and mess facilities are overloaded to more than twice their proper capacity. Not only do these institutions house more than can properly be accommodated, but they have now almost reached their absolute physical capacity, and the committee does not see how any further prisoners can be jammed within their walls.

States Relieve Wardens.

Practically all of the states have established independent parole boards, relieving the wardens and local physicians from service upon such boards and the committee believes that a law should be enacted by congress establishing such a board and giving it full authority to act on parole applications without requiring the approval of the attorney general.

The committee believes that under no circumstances should the federal institutions at Leavenworth, Atlanta and McNeil Island be enlarged to accommodate more prisoners, but that as quickly as possible the prison population in Leavenworth and Atlanta be reduced to not more than 2,000 in each prison.

The committee believes further that there should be two additional penitentiaries established as soon as possible. One should be in the northeastern part of the country, located as near as possible to the center of commitment from the federal courts, and the other at such place as a board of experts may determine.

olution indorsing the McNary-Haugen bill "as a side-door entrance to the tariff on raw products"; urging a prompt downward revision of freight rates and calling on congress to do something with Muscle Shoals "to enable the farmers to secure more and better nitrogen on a cheaper scale."

Chase S. Osborn, former governor of Michigan, and now a resident of South Georgia, sent a telegram regretting his inability to attend the congress and suggesting as farm remedies a revision in transportation rates, better and cheaper fertilizers, an adequate protective tariff for cotton and drainage and rural health surveys.

The newly-organized national chamber of agriculture is to act as a clearing house for agricultural problems and is to be modeled closely upon the national chamber of commerce. Each state may have a separate unit working in coordination with the national body. The chamber will study questions affecting agricultural progress, including marketing, storage, transportation, distribution and other economic problems. Results of their survey will be released to the press for distribution. One of the main objectives will be to obtain necessary legislation for the farmer from the federal government.

Working Out Problem.

Dr. Scott pointed out that basic problems and questions will have to be worked out between the landlord and tenant farmer, inasmuch as a large percentage of farmers are of the tenant class. Proposed legislation would have little effect unless such coordination was effected between the two, he asserted.

He brought out the need of central committee in Washington to keep in close touch with the situation throughout the country and work toward necessary legislation in congress. It was agreed that such committee should cooperate with the various special agricultural organization officials stationed in the capital.

Installation of Officers And Report on Year's Work Feature Chamber Banquet

Completion of Stone Mountain Memorial To Be One of Major Projects, Alston Says.

Installation of new officers, reports of the work of the past year and an outline of the activities for 1929 featured the 63rd annual meeting of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Thursday night, which assembled one of the largest crowds in the history of the organization, some 500 members filling the entire second floor ballroom, necessitating the use of the downstairs assembly hall to accommodate an overflow.

William Alston, newly-elected president, stated that completion of the Stone Mountain memorial would be one of the major projects of the body for the year, with the continuation of the campaign to advertise Atlanta and the securing of adequate airport facilities also coming in for attention. Concerning the Stone Mountain project, Mr. Alston said, "No greater memorial could come to Atlanta than to that which is pointed out by the world as the unfinished and abandoned memorial."

Stewart Introduced.

Following the singing of "America," the invocation by Dr. Witherspoon Dodge offered the invocation, following which Judge William Jackson Bryan, who presided, introduced Walter Stewart, Fulton county commissioner, who brought official greetings from the county, praised the work of the chamber of commerce in the past, and urged continued support and cooperation in all lines of work.

Forrest Ragsdale was high in his praise of the help given him by the chamber of commerce and stated that the organization is largely responsible for making Atlanta the great city of today.

A condensed report of the work of the Atlanta chamber during the year, B. S. Barker, executive vice president, stated that the income of the organization during 1928 was more than $83,000, a gain of more than $7,000 over 1927. Other accomplishments included finding homes for 2,000 Southern railway employees; helping the Atlanta American Legion to secure additional government hospital facilities for the city, and the securing of approximately 400 new members bring the total of those engaged in chamber of commerce work to nearly 3,500.

Dargan Given Bowl.

Milton Dargan, Jr., the retiring president, made a brief talk, thanking those who had cooperated with him in his work as president and giving great tribute to B. S. Barker for holding the organization together. At the conclusion of his talk, he was presented with a beautiful silver bowl and tray by Horace Russell on behalf of the officers and directors "recognition of conspicuous service as president in 1928."

Mr. Alston then gave some figures showing the remarkable work done in the past three years in the bringing of new concerns to the city. "More has been done in the past three years along this line than in any previous 14½years in the city's history," he declared. "During this period," he went on, "560 new concerns have been brought here, employment given to 15,000 men and $26,000,000 added to the pay rolls."

As the concluding number on the evening's program, Dr. D. W. Daniel, dean of Clemson college, South Carolina, gave an address which more than upheld his reputation as a humorous after-dinner speaker and also included a serious appeal to "Look backward and go forward." He concluded his remarks with a plea for teamwork in pushing the activities of the chamber of commerce, an appeal for honesty in public offices, and the development of a clean character which he termed the most important thing in the life of a city or individual.

LOOKING FOR FIRE 2 CALL OFFICERS FIND STILL, BEER

Police Thursday morning answered a fire call to 230 Dunlap street and found there not only some fire but some firewater also and the apparatus for making more of the same, according to police reports.

Call Officers Carroll and Wright found the smoke which was pouring from the windows of the house was from a fire under a 50-gallon still in the basement. The still was destroyed while a small quantity of whiskey and two barrels of beer were confiscated.

WIFE IS IN JAIL, MATE IN HOSPITAL AFTER FAMILY ROW

Miami, Fla., January 31.—(AP)—Edgar L. Hilliard, 45, was in a Miami hospital with a bullet wound in his right lung, and his wife was in the county jail as the result of a shooting in their home last night. Hilliard, a postoffice employee, told hospital attendants that his wife had shot him with a revolver while they were struggling for possession of the gun, which he had hidden.

JURY DEADLOCKED OVER GALLOGLY

dict but went home when the lapse of time indicated that it probably would not be returned during the night.

Gallogly was taken from the courtroom to the sheriff's office immediately after the case went to the jury and not returned. He went back to his cell in the Fulton county tower when the recess was ordered.

Deputies guarding the youth in Sheriff Lowry's office refused to make known his demeanor while awaiting the decision of the evidence by which the state hopes to send him to the electric chair and the defense hopes to win his freedom. He had heard the solicitor general demand his life and his chief of counsel, Reuben Arnold, demand his freedom with no outward sign of emotion and wore the same expression when he was taken in charge by Deputy Sheriff James White for the return trip to the tower.

Solicitor General Boykin closed the arguments for the state. He was followed by Reuben Arnold for the defense. Then Judge Moore charged the jury and the case was in their hands.

Three courses were left open to the jury in the charge of Judge Moore. The court in its instructions defined the charge of murder, its punishments and vindication of the law. It recited that the jury might take into consideration all of the testimony or only that which they believed to be true. It defined conspiracy and its connection when such conspiracy resulted in the death of a person, holding that a co-conspirator was guilty of the acts of the head of the conspiracy.

Courtroom Packed.

The charge of Judge Moore covered eight typewritten pages and was read to the jury immediately after Mr. Arnold had completed his eloquent plea for Gallogly's acquittal and the solicitor general "in the name of society and justice" had demanded that the jury return a verdict carrying with it a sentence of death in the electric chair.

Judge Moore's courtroom was packed to its capacity when the nationally-known Arnold rose to deliver the final defense appeal, the first plea he has made in a murder trial in a Fulton county courtroom in many years. Every seat in the room was filled and hundreds banked along the four walls and crowded into the corners. Nearly a score of sheriff's deputies stood guard against possible demonstrations. Judge Moore warned that at the first outburst the courtroom would be cleared of all spectators.

Arnold Hits Prosecution.

Bitter denunciation of the prosecutors in which he compared Solicitor-General Boykin and his assistant, Ed Stephens, to revenge-seeking, head-hunting Dyacks of Borneo, featured the impassioned plea of Mr. Arnold for the life of "this 19-year-old boy of immature mind." Arnold painted a picture of Gallogly as a youth led by the "bold reckless daring of Harsh," and asked the jury to acquit the defendant, declaring that Gallogly could be re-indicted on a charge of being an accessory after the fact, a felony which carries a sentence of one to three years. "That is the charge on which this boy should have been indicted," he said.

During Arnold's discourse upon the law regarding murder, Solicitor-General Boykin objected that "Arnold has no right to criticize capital punishment. The law condemns such criticism in argument." Arnold replied that he knew the law as well as Boykin does, and Boykin asked Judge Moore to compel Arnold to follow it. Judge Moore ruled that Arnold did not have a right to criticize the law of capital punishment, but could argue on its application.

"Legal Head Hunters."

Classing Boykin and Stephens as "legal head hunters," Arnold referred to "Boykin's enthusiasm for capital punishment. I believe that that is all he does believe in." He spoke of the demand for capital punishment as "a farce." "That is no way to stop crime. The way to stop it is to get into the hearts of men," he said, adding that the influence of "Christ and His disciples will stop crime." Christ repudiated the Mosaic law and said, "Love thine enemies," he pointed out to the jury.

"These boys are not as responsible as older men," the lawyer continued. "We should guide them, instruct them, and give them good examples to follow." He attacked the custom of having target practice in schools, and, later in his address, urged abolition of the pistol as a sure and certain cure for murder.

Arnold declared that he believes "we are getting stronger and more intelligent." He urged that "we not go back to the days of witchcraft when people who stole $2.50 were hanged."

"Harsh wasn't enough victim for you," he asserted, turning toward Boykin. "My heart is out to Smith's widow, but killing this boy who didn't kill her husband will not do her any good. It doesn't do you any good to hate folks and want to kill them. The state is greedy for blood, and I don't believe that you, a jury of kindly men, will send that child to the chair."

Boykin Assailed.

Arnold said that "not until Boykin took office did I ever hear any solicitor ask a jury to hang anybody." He charged that the prosecution was "just a little too ferocious and bloodthirsty," and went into the law on murder, seeking to show that when there was only a technical construction of murder in this case."

"Boykin does not want anything but the chair, because some governor might pardon this boy. 'On what meat has Caesar grown so great?'" Arnold said. Boykin arose, interposing the remark that what he had said was that some governor, "recreant to his duty" might pardon Gallogly if the verdict was life imprisonment. "All right, is all of the virtue just at the state's table?" Arnold asked.

"What sort of impartiality is it that turns Mahoney loose with a pat on the back, and sends this boy to the chair? Mahoney has fascinated Boykin with that girl story. I don't know why they are trying to make a hero out of Mahoney.

"Mercy is an attribute of God Himself. The certainty of punishment and not the severity stops crime," he asserted. "A bold, reckless boy can shame other boys into just such a thing as this," he told the jury, and launched into a condemnation of pistols.

"It is a pity that Smith's bullet did not hit Harsh in the heart and end him right there," Arnold said, and continued his attack upon the prosecution, recalling the days when men were disemboweled, tied to a horse and dragged, or quartered, in old England.

"No Proof of Conspiracy.

Arnold contended that there was no proof of a conspiracy to rob, even up to the time that Harsh and Gallogly left the automobile and started to the drug store. Gallogly did not have to admit that he was there when he made his unsworn statement, Arnold pointed out, adding that "there has been some tall lying done in this case; Mahoney is so far away from the truth he cannot admit the facts, and his statement that they told him to keep on going around the block, if there had been a plan on foot to rob the store, is ridiculous. If Gallogly had been the first to gain the ear of the prosecutors, there would be a different tale told."

Arnold condemned the state's practice of obtaining written statements from witnesses, declaring that "the biggest enemy of getting at the truth is the taking of a statement from a witness and then holding it over him." He charged that Boykin was pulling a "grandstand play" with the statement that the big fellows would not get by him.

Gallogly and Mahoney are equally guilty under the section of the code covering accessory after the fact, Arnold declared.

In closing his plea, Arnold declared that Gallogly "is being tried for something he hasn't done, except by technical construction of law."

Death Demanded.

Straffing the defense with such bitterness as he seldom exhibits in a courtroom, Solicitor-General Boykin demanded the death penalty for Gallogly with the declaration that "no other verdict would suffice."

"If you send this man down to the penitentiary with a life sentence, he'll be there only two or three years before some soft-hearted governor turns him out on a pardon or later a parole," Boykin shouted, shaking his finger across the room toward Gallogly, the defendant sitting visibly unmoved by the plea that his life be taken for his alleged participation in the crime.

"Gallogly is no better than Harsh," Boykin continued. "He went with Harsh to rob the drug store. He stood at the door ready to shout a warning to his co-conspirator in case there should be a danger. When Harsh had fatally wounded Smith, he waited for him at the doorway of the store and helped him get away, helped him get to the motor car which sped him temporarily to safety and to friends who would aid him in caring for his wound."

Stood Guard, Boykin Says.

Gallogly was posted at the door for the two-fold purpose of acting as lookout and standing guard over Tom Kirkpatrick and Johnny Stephens, negro delivery boy, both of whom worked in the store.

"As soon as Harsh got to the rear of the store, he ordered Kirkpatrick to go to the front," the solicitor-general said. "There is no doubt but that he was sent there because Harsh knew that in event of resistance Gallogly could handle him and the negro delivery boy. He wasn't there for the purpose which he says, to keep Harsh from committing the robbery. He was there as a participant and was to share in anything they might have obtained from Smith."

It was the duty of the jury, Boykin said, to bring in a verdict that would answer the plea of Willard Smith's family for justice.

"Death Only Justice."

"And the only justice there can be in this case is a verdict that will take the life of this defendant, just as he and his accomplice have taken the life of the husband of that little lady in black who sits over there, her hopes turned to ashes," Boykin pleaded eloquently as the jury turned its eyes upon Mrs. Mary Belle Smith, Willard's widow, crumpled and weeping on a court bench.

"Smith was there protecting the interest of his employer and living the life of a good citizen which each of you 12 men pay taxes to have the law protect," Boykin went on. "You all are entitled to the same service at the hands of the state when you or yours are put in the same position as Smith and Smith's family. He died a martyr to duty, the protection of the property of his employers and I call upon you now to do your duty and to punish his slayer as the law says he shall be punished, by taking his life just as he took Willard Smith's life."

Stephens Opens for State.

In his opening argument for the state Chief Deputy Solicitor General Ed A Stephens reviewed the testimony offered by the prosecution and asked for Gallogly's conviction on the ground that the defense had offered nothing to refute the evidence beyond the unsworn statement of the defendant.

Mr. Stephens spoke for two hours and 33 minutes, giving most of his time to answering the attack of Wednesday afternoon by Sam D. Hewlett, of defense counsel, on the testimony of Jack Mahoney, the state's star witness, and the reading of a number of supreme court decisions which he said should govern the judge in his charge and the jury in its deliberation of the case.

"Mahoney came voluntarily to the police and to the prosecutor's office and to our knowledge told all he knew of the case," Mr. Stephens said. "The defense charges that he concealed his knowledge and that other state witnesses, Morgan Sutton, Jack D. Wright, W. C. Hightower, Dr. Julian Riley and others also concealed their knowledge of Harsh's participation in the murder.

Concealment Denied.

"This is not so. The law provides that a person may be guilty of concealment only after he has been questioned by an officer of the law concerning the case and has refused to answer. Mahoney, Sutton, Wright and Dr. Riley and all the others came immediately upon request and gave us details of everything they did in this connection."

Of all those who knew of the events of the night of the Smith murder only Gallogly refused to make a statement, Stephens said.

"When Gallogly was asked to tell what he knew of the case he refused to say anything," the assistant solicitor said. "He is the one who concealed his knowledge, not Mahoney nor Sutton nor any of the others."

In his defense of Mahoney, Stephens cited the fact that counsel for Gallogly made no attempt to impeach his testimony other than by the statement of the defendant and the attacks of his counsel made in their argument.

Gore Case Cited.

"Mahoney swore to his testimony. The law says you must believe that which is sworn. It is presumed to be true. No attempt was made by the defense to prove it untrue. I do not know that he was telling the truth, but I presume that he was," Stephens said.

Stephens cited the Mell Gore case as a parallel to the Gallogly case. Gore, an accomplice in the Cheek murder was executed in the electric chair two years ago for his part in the robbery of the Cheek store and the slaying of the proprietor, though the man who is alleged to have fired the shots which killed Cheek, Jack Wilson, never has been apprehended.

The assistant solicitor read from the records of the supreme court the decision upholding the verdict of a Fulton county jury sending Gore to the electric chair and told Judge Moore that he should include in his charge a direction that Gallogly, by virtue of his alleged part in the participation of the attempted robbery of the store in which Smith was slain, also was culpable for the murder.

Stephens did not indicate to the jury just what sort of a verdict would satisfy the state, but said that he wanted "Gallogly found guilty as the testimony showed him to be."

Etheridge Next Speaker.

Stephens, who spoke at the morning session, was followed by Paul S. Etheridge, of defense counsel. Mr. Etheridge spoke for less than an hour, attacking the testimony of Mahoney and answering the argument of Mr. Stephens.

"The only crime of which Gallogly is guilty of is concealment of the knowledge that his friend murdered Smith," Mr. Etheridge said, "and I doubt if there is a grand jury in Fulton county which would indict this boy for having befriended the youth which his own statement said he had learned to like very well in the short time they were acquainted."

"I do not believe that the jury will believe the statements of Mahoney that he did not know a crime was to be executed," Mr. Etheridge added. "I do not think the jury will believe that Mahoney, bosom friend and roommate of Harsh did not know that he was going to rob the drug store. Gallogly admits that he knew it before the two of them left Gallogly's car. The defendant admits that he got out of the car, followed Harsh to the drug store and attempted strongly but vainly to prevent him from entering the store. In fact he declares that even after Harsh started into the store, he got ahold of him by the arm and attempted to hold him back."

Youths' Actions Compared.

If Mahoney, Sutton, Wright and others who assisted Harsh after he was shot are "good Samaritans, as Solicitor Stephens characterized them, so, too, is Gallogly," his counsel said.

"Gallogly did all in his power to help Harsh after he was wounded," Mr. Etheridge said. "He admits that and so do the others who helped the wounded slayer of Smith, but the state comes here and asks that Gallogly be convicted of participation in the murder and uses for witnesses against him only those who did the same thing that he did, conceal the crime and help their friend."

Mr. Etheridge answered Mr. Stephens' court records by quoting a decision from the United States supreme court handed down in 1890, that the jury was not bound to accept the testimony of a witness as the truth merely because it was sworn to on the stand.

"You are not bound to accept the testimony of Mahoney or any other witness as being the absolute truth, even when no attempt was made to deny or impeach it," the counsel argued. "You can, the law says, disregard any person's testimony, sworn or unsworn, and you even may accept the statement of the defendant above all other testimony even though it was not sworn to when made to you from the stand."

The third and final day of the Gallogly trial found the courtroom in which it was being held again too small to accommodate all those who wished to hear the final arguments. Long before Mr. Stephens started his plea to the jury every seat in the room was filled and scores lined the walls and hung over the judge's bench. Judge Moore had issued strict orders to sheriff's deputies to maintain order, and after these had been transferred on to the crowd not a ripple was heard while attorneys for either side were addressing the jury.

LOUISIANA WOMAN MUST HANG TODAY

doomed to die tomorrow between noon and 3 p. m., the time set for the execution by the governor.

When informed here today that there was no further hope, Mrs. Lebouef, the first white woman ever to face the gallows in Louisiana, and Dr. Dreher, her old family physician, burst into tears.

Mrs. Lebouef clung to Sheriff Pecot and begged him to do something to save them. He told her there was no hope and she had better start praying to get ready to die.

Doctor Says He Has Peace.

"How can I get ready to go out there?" she asked. "You know I have been praying all morning. Wasn't I on my knees when you came in?"

Dr. Dreher, who had been informed of his fate by one of his attorneys, was weeping when the sheriff entered his cell.

"I am at peace with God," he said.

The physician reiterated that he and Mrs. Lebuef were innocent of the crime.

"We didn't kill Jim Lebouef," he sobbed.

All preparations for the hanging had been completed tonight. A hangman will be obtained here from New Orleans to perform the executions and the ropes have been obtained and tested. The families of the two prisoners were asked to inform the sheriff what disposition they wished made of the bodies.

Woman to Die First.

Mrs. Lebouef is scheduled to die first, followed by Dr. Dreher. The physician is the father of two daughters and a son and Mrs. Lebouef is the mother of three sons and a daughter. They will not be permitted to see the prisoners tomorrow.

Defense attorneys sought a habeas corpus writ from Judge Borah on the ground that the defendants were not given a fair and impartial trial as guaranteed by the United States constitution. Affidavits of two jurors setting forth that they were intimidated during the trial were presented Judge Borah, a nephew of Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho.

Judge Borah ruled that the "facts and allegations set forth were not sufficient to justify the issuance of this extraordinary process." The attorneys then sought a stay of execution from the court of appeals in order to give them time for a hearing before that court on Judge Borah's action. The court of appeals turned them down.

Informed of this action Governor Long issued a statement which said: "I have reviewed the matter very carefully. I do not intend to take any further action in the case."

Jailers Break Down.

Lying on their cots tonight in the gloom of their steel cages, weeping silently, Mrs. Lebouef and Dr. Dreher turned their attention from the maze of legal technicalities to their spiritual advisors in the hope of preparing their souls for the Great Beyond.

They spent the afternoon in prayer and later received members of their families. As they embraced and whispered endearing phrases, stout hearted jailers whose lives are spent among human woe, turned their heads and wiped their eyes.

Mrs. Dreher, proud, high-bred woman, with her two pretty daughters, came to the jail, shaken and wan, but vainly attempting to hide her sorrow and shame from the public eye. She is loyal to the last to the man who was accused by the murdered man of wrecking his home by familiarity with his wife, the doomed woman.

Children Say Farewell.

Earlier Mrs. Lebouef's sons called and collapsed in their mother's arms, moaning out their hearts. The stricken woman, ill from the ravages of a tumor and strain, forgot her plight and sought to comfort her distressed children. She told them not to grieve as she would be with God and would watch over them from above.

Little Liberty Debouef, the 9-year-old daughter of the condemned woman, came with her brothers and clung to her mother's breast, terrified. The mother showered her with kisses and talked "baby talk" to the little girl.

Tonight marked the last visit members of the families will have with their loved ones, for tomorrow Ada Lebouef and Thomas Dreher will be in the hands of the law. From dawn until the zero hour they will be prepared for the gallows with only the Catholic father and the Methodist minister allowed to see them.

As darkness fell Mrs. Lebouef began calling for her aged mother, but she sent word that she would not visit her tonight.

INCREASED TARIFF ON COTTON ASKED

dozen and 80 per cent ad valorem instead of the existing rate of 50 per cent on children and infant cotton hosiery. Recent years, he said, had seen a reduction from 200 to 53 in the number of hosiery mills due to German competition.

A rate of 20 cents a pound in place of the present duties of 25 and 40 per cent ad valorem, respectively, on cotton blankets and fabrics was urged by William P. Welsh, of Holyoke, Mass., while George H. Goldenberg, New York, requested a reduction from 50 to 35 per cent in the duty on cotton woven labels.

Goldenberg also argued for a change in the marketing law which stipulates that foreign labels bear the name of the country in which they are made on the ground that labels so stamped lead the public to believe the wearing apparel is imported when, in fact, it is of domestic origin and stamped only with a foreign-made label.

Give yourself ample time by commencing now.

In a letter received yesterday by the Southern from a former pupil, who now holds a good position with a big concern up in Kentucky, we quote the following paragraph:

"Our manager asked me if I could locate a young man stenographer who would 'fill the bill.' You see, I am one of his stenographers, and he is evidently sold on Georgia stenographers, especially those from the Southern."

Join the busy crowd next Monday or the next. Catalog upon request. Address or call:

WELFARE WORKERS WILL GATHER TODAY

Pierce Williams, of New York, Will Be Leading Figure in Conference Here.

Relation of business to charitable and community welfare work, and obligations and problems both of the corporation and the social service body, are to be considered at a southern regional conference of social welfare workers today and Saturday, held here under the auspices of the Association of Community Chests and Councils of New York, a clearing house for information and guidance in community chest problems and administrative practices.

A leading figure of the conference, which has been designed to engage the serious interest of business executives as well as of social service workers, will be Pierce Williams, an executive of the national association.

Mr. Williams, here Thursday night in preparation for the conference, related how the problems involved in the relations between corporations and organized welfare work, increasing in importance with the growth of corporation control and decrease of locally-owned establishments, has brought about plans for a national investigation by the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Contributor Disappeared.

"Many community chests found that when a new chain store opened in a community," he said, "it meant the disappearance of some locally-owned and managed business, and oftentimes of a former regular contributor to the chest.

"In a city like Atlanta there are perhaps 300 business institutions which are technically 'non-resident' as far as this community is concerned. With the increasing tendency toward centralization of business concerns having head offices in New York or Chicago grows. Quite evidently, this constitutes a grave problem for community chests unless they can find some logical basis on which a big nationally-organized corporation can determine its fair share of responsibility for supporting welfare work in the various communities in which it carries on business."

Corporation Relations.

Much of the program of the regional conference here today and tomorrow is devoted to discussion of corporation relations to community welfare. Atlanta business men will participate. Eugene R. Black, governor of the federal reserve bank, to serve as chairman of the conference this afternoon, and George T. Marchmont, district manager of the Graybar Electric company, being one of the speakers on the corporation problem.

Attending the conference, sessions of which will be held in the Ansley hotel, are the following community chest executives and directors: H. J. Early, Birmingham; F. M. McBroom, Macon; Bradley Buell, New Orleans; William T. Ritter, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Alex Anderson, Spartanburg, S. C.; E. G. Woolwine, Chattanooga; Gerald Webb, Memphis; H. T. King, Nashville; F. E. Burleson, Norfolk, Va.; Arthur Guild, Richmond; T. C. Rohrbaugh, Roanoke, Va.; Frank Miller, Atlanta; H. B. Skeele, Savannah; R. S. Huntington, Greenville, S. C.; and Dr. C. C. Norton, Spartanburg, South Carolina.

PEDIGREE DAIRIES MERGE WITH GREAT NATIONAL CONCERN

J. B. Tilley, preident of the Pedigree Dairies, of this city, announced Thursday that his company is merging with the United States Dairy Products corporation, one of the largest companies of its kind in the country. Pedigree Dairies, whose modern, sanitary pasteurizing plant is located at 165 Haynes street, S. W., is a large distributor of pasteurized grade "A" milk, cream and other dairy products in Atlanta. Mr. Tilley, who has successful operated this property in the past, continues as president and is in full charge of operations, assisted by the present operating personnel. This group of men have successfully built up this property until today it is one of the most modernly equipped and up-to-date milk plants in the south.

Mr. Tilley states that dairy farming in the south is rapidly developing to the major position it has attained in the north and west and he believes that the merging of his company with the United States Dairy Products corporation will materially assist in development of this area.

Career of Bogus Revenue Agent Ends Behind Bars

A "Mr. Summers," of Americus, developed a splendid business for a week or so. He figured clear profit at $100 or so a day. But now he is retired—unwillingly. He is in jail at Thomson.

This "Summers"—initials unknown—appeared about a week ago at Sparta. At the hotel, where he rested each night from his labors, he said he was a salesman for fire extinguishers. Sparta was the center of his territory.

All went well with "Mr. Summers'" business for a few days. He didn't sell fire extinguishers, however.

He visited small storekeepers and, introducing himself as W. A. Johnson, explained that he was an inspector for the state revenue department, investigating violations of the cigar and cigarette stamp law. Whenever he found goods in stock either without stamps, or, according to his own specifications, improperly stamped, he ordered the storekeeper to appear in court at some later date and—here's the trick—immediately put up a cash bond with him. The bond, according to the financial circumstances of the storekeeper, varied from $15 to $25 or $30 per instance.

"Mr. Summers" made a fatal error when he demanded a $15 cash bond from a storekeeper at Gibson, in Glascock county. For the storekeeper happens also to be the sheriff of the county. The sheriff communicated with the state department of revenue—after paying over the demanded $15—and found that the man was an imposter. There is, as it happens, a bona fide inspector named S. A. Johnson, but no "W. A."

There also is a deputy for the revenue department living at Gibson. He chased "Mr. Summers" all afternoon Wednesday. The department also telephoned sheriffs and police chiefs all around the section. At last, at about midnight Wednesday, "Mr. Summers" was discovered asleep in the lobby of the Sparta hotel. The hotel was full and he hadn't been able to secure a room.

But the sheriff found secure accommodations for him in the jail at Thomson.

VALUE OF LIVE STOCK IN STATE INCREASES

Value of live stock on Georgia farms, exclusive of poultry, showed a slight increase on January 1 last as compared with January 1, 1928, according to the report issued Thursday by the bureau of agricultural economics of the federal department of agriculture. The Atlanta office, with V. C. Childs as agricultural statistician for Georgia, is located in the Commercial Exchange building.

The increase in value is due to an increase in value per head, especially among milk cows, while the total numbers of stock show a decrease. Mules are approximately the same in number, but there are fewer hogs, cattle and horses. Cattle as a whole decreased about 2 per cent, but the numbers of milk cows remained about the same.

The value this year is placed at $76,578,000, compared with $75,218,000 on January 1, 1928.

Hogs showed the heaviest numerical decrease, their total numbers on last January 1 being placed at 1,228,000 compared with 1,365,000 a year ago. Total hog values are given as $10,117,000 compared to $12,880,000 on January 1, 1928.

Horses continued to decrease, the total shrinking from 41,000 to 39,000, while the estimated number of mules was the same for both years, 347,000.

The total value of live stock in the United States is given as $5,952,713,000 compared to $5,512,508,000 one year ago.

BIG THRONG HEARS BISHOP M'CONNELL IN SECOND LECTURE

An audience that packed Thirkield hall, of Gammon seminary, Monday afternoon heard Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of New York, in the second of a series of lectures on "The Wider Significance of the African Problem. Speaking on the subject of "Christian Presuppositions," Bishop McConell laid down two principles as basic to the right adjustment of race relations: (1) A recognition of the inherent sacredness and worth of human beings; and (2) the necessity of believing in and building on the good in people.

"The emphasis on human values," said Bishop McConell, "is one of the distinctive tenets of Christianity. The Mosaic law and the writings of the prophets are full of it, and it was especially characteristic of the teachings of Jesus and of His attitudes toward people. This principle, largely forgotten during the middle ages, had a revival in the philosophy of Kent, who held that 'every man is an end to himself and must not be used merely for the accomplishment of some other's purpose.' It was basic in the French revolution; in part, at least, in the American revolution; and also in the preaching of John Wesley, who taught 'the equality of all men in the sight of God.' It is the basis of our constitutional provision that even criminals may not be subjected to cruel and unusual punishments."

The series of addresses will conclude with two lectures today, at 11 and 3:30, the first being on "Present Trends," and the second on "World-wide Democracy."

$10,500 JUDGMENT IS GIVEN MOSELY AGAINST RAILROAD

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL CONGESTION RELIEVED

Completion of Annexes Will Enable Abandonment of Extra Sessions.

Advent of the second semester in the Atlanta school system will be accompanied Monday by relief of congestion in the junior high schools and abandonment of double sessions, it was announced Thursday by school administration officials.

The relief is possible because of completion of annexes to the junior high schools from 1926 bond funds.

As a preliminary to the second semester, graduation exercises in the junior high and elementary schools were in full swing Thursday and will be concluded today. Although 68 students have completed their courses in the senior high schools, they will not receive their diplomas until June when the entire graduating class is awarded the certificates.

A total of 331 students will be advanced to the senior high schools through graduation from the junior grades, while approximately 900 will be eligible to admission to junior high schools from the elementary classes.

Hoke Smith Junior High school graduation exercises, in which 107 received certificates, were held Thursday in the school auditorium; Bass exercises were held in the Church of Epiphany and 60 got diplomas. Eighty-five are entitled diplomas from the O'Keefe and 79 from Brown.

2 ARE BOUND OVER IN ALLEGED THEFT OF MAIL PACKAGE

Gaines Skinner and W. S. Hales Thursday were given a preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner Griffith on a charge of stealing a parcel post package from a rural delivery mail box near Buchanan, at the conclusion of which they were bound over under bonds of $1,000 each.

Knead the dough lightly on a floured board, roll it out until only a quarter of an inch thick, and cut out rounds or squares about two inches across. Fold over each biscuit into half its size, drop in a teaspoon of Lippincott Apple Butter, press the edges firmly, and bake in a hot oven about fifteen minutes.

Thickening
(½ cup flour and enough water to make a thin paste)

Cook raisins until soft, leaving but little water on. Add Lippincott Apple Butter, sugar, spices—then stir in thickening. Line a pie-pan with pie dough—fill with cooked mixture—then cover with top crust or meringue. Bake about 25 minutes, or until light brown. A teaspoon of vinegar may be added to filling if it is too sweet.

HOLLEMAN IS BURIED; MOB VIOLENCE FEARED

Feeling Grows as Two Suspects in Slaying of Dodge Man Are Taken.

Macon, Ga., January 31.—(AP)—While Sheriff G. C. Rogers, of Dodge county, was arresting two young men this afternoon, in connection with the murder of Lester D. Holleman, 58-year-old filling station operator, friends of Mr. Holleman who were attending his funeral raised $156 to offer as a reward for the capture of his slayers.

Feeling was running high at the funeral, which was held at the Shiloh Methodist church in Houston county, according to reports reaching this city, and when reports were received here tonight that the young men had been taken to the scene of the robbery tonight, there was some apprehension for their safety.

The young men under arrest gave the names of Frank Appleby, 19, and Julian Lunsford, 16, both of Phenix City, Ala. Appleby's mother resides in Phenix City, and his father resides in Dodge county.

According to Sheriff Rogers the young men answer the description of the two bandits who held up and robbed the filling station operated by Mr. Holleman on the Dixie highway, 13 miles south of Macon, on Tuesday night.

Sheriff Rogers stated further that while the youths were in his custody they admitted that they had been in the filling station on the night of the hold up, purchased matches and crackers there, but they denied that they are the ones who shot Mr. Holleman. They said they were catching rides in automobiles and had got as far as Eastman when arrested.

The bandits who robbed Holleman had a sedan car and not only had pistols, but stole Mr. Holleman's shotgun. The two men under arrest had no automobile when taken into custody and they had no weapons.

Tonight Sheriff C. C. Pierce, of Houston county, reached Eastman, took the two young men and started for the scene of the murder. He believed that Mrs. Holleman might be able to identify them. They were expected to reach Perry, the county seat of Houston, after their visit to the filling station, about midnight.

R. E. Dunbar, Z. E. Aultman and George Tucker, friends of the dead man, quietly solicited the mourners at the Holleman funeral. With $200, which the Peach county commissioners have offered, the total reward is brought to $356. Police in Georgia and Florida are on the lookout for the bandit car, thought to be riddled in the rear where Holleman fired as it sped away.

Chief of Police Ben T. Watkins sent out a consignment of circulars asking the detention of the two young men. Copies of the circulars were scattered over Georgia, Florida and adjoining states.

ONE WOMAN SETS AIR MARK, ANOTHER SAVES LIFE IN AIR

Roosevelt Field, N. Y. January 31.—(AP)—Two women, a flying flapper and a flying cashier, won laurels today on Long Island flying fields. One established a new endurance record for women and the other probably saved her own life by quick thinking in the air.

Early this morning 17 year old Elinor Smith came down out of the chill skies at Mitchell field with a new solo endurance flight record for women to her credit. She had been aloft 13 hours, 16 minutes and 45 seconds, beating the record held by Miss Bobbie Trout of California by one hour, five minutes and 45 seconds.

This afternoon Miss Viola Gentry, an older but no less daring aviator than Miss Smith, set about winning back the endurance record she held until Miss Trout took it away from her, and so won her laurels even though she didn't win the record.

Miss Gentry, who is known as the flying cashier because she has worked in restaurants to get the money to finance her flying, crashed in a practice hop preparatory to beginning her endurance flight, but by presence of mind saved her life.

Clear, Colder Weather Seen For February 1

February will be greeted hereabouts by clear skies and slightly lower temperatures, according to the forecast Thursday of C. F. von Herrmann, local weather bureau chief, who says that the threatened showers have been sidetracked for the time being and that Jupe Pluvius will remain in retirement in favor of Old Sol. This fact, however, is not expected to interfere with a minimum temperature figure for the day of 28, or 12 degrees below Thursday's bottom reading. The high point for the day will not be above 35, Mr. von Herrman figures, while Thursday the mercury reached 58.

The month of January just closed showed an excess in the matter of average daily temperature and a slight deficiency in rainfall below the normal amount, according to figures released Thursday by the weather bureau. The mean temperature for the month was 45.4 degrees or 2.8 degrees above the average figure for the month of 42.6. Precipitation totaled 4.22 inches, or .73 of an inch below the normal amount despite the fact that rain was recorded on 14 days during the month. January last year had nine rainy days and a total rainfall of 2.83 inches while the mean temperature for the month showed 42.6, the average figure for this period.

Records of past years reveal that the wettest January on record was in 1883 when 15.82 inches were recorded while the dry honors for the month are held by the year 1927 with a total precipitation of 1.11 inches. In the matter of temperature, January, 1880, shows the highest mean with 54 and the low mark was registered in 1918 with a mean of 35.

During the past month, the mercury in the official thermometer did all its ranging bewteen 23 and 74. Mr. von Herrmann stated that on the basis of these figures, the month could be called extremely mild since the lowest figure reached was much above the low record for the month and even the average of all January minimums, while the high of 74 was only two degrees below the record high for the month which was reached January 21, 1927.

January of last year showed a high and low point of 72 and 1, respectively, while the lowest temperature ever recorded in this month was —2 degrees, January 11, 1886.

COLER DENOUNCES TAMMANY, WALKER IN "SWAN SONG

New York, January 31.—(AP)—Announcing he would retire tonight after 20 years in public service, Bird S. Coler, commissioner of the department of welfare, today denounced Tammany Hall and Mayor Walker.

In the 12 years he served as head of the welfare department, he said, only four of 17 men sent him by the democratic political organization for appointment as deputy commissioner knew anything about their duties.

He accused Mayor Walker of being inaccessible, declaring he had but four conferences with the mayor in the last three and a half years. "Most of the time," he said, "the mayor was too busy to see me."

Mr. Coler said he never again would be a candidate for public office. His remarks were made at a testimonial dinner given by private welfare organizations.

Deceased Prisoner's Effects Unclaimed After Fourteen Years

Disposition of an envelope containing a gold watch, five cents in money, a leather purse and a ring, which has reposed in the vaults of Fulton county since September 10, 1915, will be put up to the county commission at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Henry M. Wood, clerk of the commission, said that the envelope and its contents were turned over to him by C. H. Girardeau, who at that time was county warden, as the property of W. J. Thornton, deceased. There never has been entered any claim for the personal property, and Mr. Wood said that he would present the matter to the commission for settlement.

Secret of Eternal Life Given Impetus by Soviet Tests of 'Artificial Heart'

Co-relation of Mechanical Invention and 17-Year Tissue Test Show Brain Alone Causes Death.

BY JERRY QUINSENBERRY.
United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, January 31.—(United News.)—Slowly but methodically, the secret of eternal life—the fanciful riddle which has seized the imagination of every civilization since the world's beginning—appears to be baring itself to twentieth century science.

While over in Russia a handful of soviet scientists gather in a laboratory to watch an "artificial heart" keep alive the detached head of a dog, a group of American medical experts in the Rockefeller institute daily are watching the culmination of experiments which, while somewhat different from the Moscow discoveries, are equally epochal.

Seventeen years ago this month Dr. Alexis Carrel, the institute's leading research worker, took a tiny sliver of tissue from the heart of an unborn chicken, placed it in a test tube and began to nourish it by artificial means.

Today that bit of tissue is still alive, has produced other tissue millions of times its size and is destined to live forever in its original healthy state so long as it is cared for properly.

Known World Over.

Dr. Carrel's experiment now is familiar to medical students the world over, but the work of the soviet scientists in the last few weeks have placed it in a new scientific light, where it assumes greater importance than ever.

"Death," Dr. Carrel said several months ago after studying the results of his work, "is the price we pay for brains."

What the scientist meant was that it was possible to sustain life indefinitely in the body tissue of animals and human beings, but the brain cells were what caused the body to decay and grow infirm as old age approached.

Dr. Carrel's chicken tissue had been able to live because it was detached and was able to discharge its poisons regularly into the saline solution in which it was kept. His laboratory assistants have given the bit of chicken heart a salt water bath and fed it every morning for the entire 18 years.

But when the cells are combined into bodies controlled by a brain, which keeps down their growth and regulates them in many other ways, they cannot rid themselves of the poisons so easily, cannot escape the brain's influence, and hence grow increasingly weaker until death finally takes them.

Old Age Hits Brain.

Old age, then, makes its attacks on the body through the brain, the famous Rockefeller institute expert has discovered.

The Russian scientists now are on the threshold of new discoveries concerning such functions of the brain as Dr. Carrel mentioned. United News dispatches from Moscow, where a correspondent was allowed in the laboratory of the Moscow scientific chemico-pharmaceutical institute to watch the experiments, revealed that the soviet research students had perfected a mechanical heart of rubber, glass and metal which was able to keep the head of a dog alive several hours after it had been detached from the body.

That achievement would appear to fit in significantly with Dr. Carrel's work, for the Russians now believe they soon will be able to tell how life takes its toll from the brain. By placing various substances in the blood being pumped into a detached brain through the new man-made "heart," they expect to learn what feeds the brain and what toxins cause its cells to break down.

Thus, correlating the knowledge gleaned from these two great experiment, science appears to be closer today to the riddle of life and death than ever before.

Man to Live Forever.

It is still fantastic to say that the men who are quietly working away in the laboratories have found the formula which will enable man to live forever or as long as he wishes. They merely have reached a position which may enable them to determine whether such a formula is within the realm of human possibility.

Dr. Carrel has not given his opinion of the Moscow experiments and probably will not do so unless he should decide to refer to them in a forthcoming scientific paper or address. It is his policy not to comment on the work of any scientist unless he has a first-hand knowledge of all its details.

Similarly, his associates say, he declines to reveal the nature of his own experiments until they are finally completed and proved successful. It is understood, however, that he now is after new facts in the fascinating quest for an answer to the age-old question, "What is death?"

LIGGETT IS GRILLED BY STATE'S COUNSEL

Vigorous Cross-Examination Interspersed With Strenuous Objections.

Nashville, Tenn., January 31.—(AP)—Walter Liggett's version of his six-year acquaintance with Turney M. Cunningham's wife and the gun duel at the rear of the Cunningham home, in which Cunningham was mortally wounded, today was all but drowned out by the barking cross-fire of attorneys.

The state's vigorous cross-examination of the young grain dealer on trial for the murder of the hotel manager October 29, 1928, met furious defense objections at every turn—objections which were frequently upheld.

Asked what he would have done if Cunningham had met him at the back door that October dusk instead of Mrs. Cunningham, Liggett hesitated, and a speedy objection was upheld.

The state, however, gleaned from the defendant that he was frightened when he ran away from the back door and ran into an alley gun duel with Cunningham.

"Had you improper intentions?"

"I didn't know that until I got there," Liggett replied.

"Were you suspicious?"

"No, Mrs. Cunningham was suspicious."

Liggett then answered a series of questions with the statements that Mrs. Cunningham had aroused his fears with her nervous statement "Leave here immediately," and that he was hastening across the back yard at her request and because he was frightened.

Asked if he didn't know that when he went to the Cunniingham home a plea of self-defense was lost to him, the witness was again prevented from replying by his attorneys, and the court ruled the question irrelevant.

Liggett said he went to the home to give Mrs. Cunningham the $50 they had arranged by phone the day previous.

EX-SENATOR GORE LEAVES WITH WIFE ON 72-DAY CRUISE

New York, January 31.—(AP)—Thomas Pryor Gore, former democratic senator from Oklahoma, who is blind, and Mrs. Gore sailed today for a 72 days' cruise of the Mediterranean. It will be Senator Gore's first trip abroad. Mrs. Gore will be his "eyes," he said.

The former senator, noted for his oratory, announced that he would visit the spots where famous orators of the past delivered their masterpieces—The site of Carthage, where Hannibal pleaded with his armies, Rome, where Marc Antony delivered his oration over the body of Julius Caesar; and the spot in Greece where Demosthenes thundered out his speeches.

Mozart or Marbles for Kids

:: TOO MUCH "CULTURE," SAY SOME MOTHERS ::

Raises Chicago School Row

Evanston, Ill., January 31.—(AP)—Whether a child needs more Mozart or marbles, more Haydn or more hide-'n-seek, divided the 200 mothers of the central council of Evanston school clubs today.

"I suggest," suggested Mrs. Oliver Aspergren, president, at yesterday's meeting, "that the children have orchestras and give concerts after school hours."

It was an innocent enough remark, but it precipitated a debate the end of which is not yet.

Mrs. Ferdinand Johnson got the floor.

"This everlasting culture business," she said, "already is overburdening our children. Radio concerts, orchestra concerts, children's theaters, classical dancing—culture this and culture that. The place for a child after school is out playing—and I don't mean playing in an orchestra, either."

The battle was on. One group of mothers held that culture was grand, and that even too much of it wouldn't be half enough. This group looked upon marbles, pom-pom pullaway and follow-the-leader as hangovers from an era when children didn't know any better.

The other group held that Brahms, Beethoven and Bach, while undoubtedly gentlemen of genius and all that sort of thing, could not hope to compete for a place in the children's heart against leap frog, tag and tug-o-war. Vim, vigor and vitality was the motto of this faction.

The mothers finally decided a committee should investigate and report on what their children should do after school is out. The children being the ones who must eventually suffer, or otherwise, are in a quandary. Some of them are having their skates sharpened; some others are rosining their bows, contemplatively.

M. RICH EMPLOYEES LAUDED AT BANQUET

Proclaiming 1928 as a banner year for M. Rich & Bros. Co., W. H. Rich, vice president, Thursday night laid credit for the biggest year in the history of the store to the efforts of every employee, more than 550 of whom gathered at the annual banquet in the tea room.

"Credit belongs to the executives no more than in the sense that they are employees of the company," Mr. Rich said, "for it is the hard work and the conscientious service of every single person connected with the company that has brought great success, and that is the only thing which will make us greater than ever."

Comparing the store of today with the company of 28 years ago, when, he said, he started in the company on the business side of the wash goods counter, and earned for himself the sobriquet of "counter jumper," Mr. Rich pointed out that the growth of the store had been rapid and natural.

"The history of the growth of M. Rich & Bros Co., is no more or less than the growth of the city of Atlanta and the state of Georgia in which we all have shared. Our good citizenship has brought our city and our state to a high pinnacle and our citizenship in the company has made it correspondingly greater.

"Hard work is the education of the successful merchant. It is not the graduate from college who makes overnight a merchant nor is it any other man who suddenly attains to the estate of a good merchant. The department store is a craft and its workers are craftsmen who attain to that estate through apprenticeship."

In an inspirational address urging his hearers to aim for greater success both in personal and business life during the current year, Rev. N. R. High Moor, guest speaker for the evening, compared personal and business life to a ship which each year begins a new voyage.

Passing in the night, at the beginning of the voyage are three bleak an desolate vessels, the ships of lost hopes, lost ideals and lost friendships. With the passing of the night, the new year is begun bright in the face of the sun, with hopes and courages renewed.

Frank Warnock, president of the employees social club, acted as toastmaster, while Paul H. Jones, superintendent of the store, introduced the speakers. Sitting at the speakers' table were T. L. Story, Mrs. W. C. Henson, R. H. Rich, director; W. H. Rich, vice president; Mrs. Virginia Warren, Dr. High Moor, Paul H. Jones, Frank Warnock and the three oldest employees of the company, Miss Pal Strange, J. P. Wingfield and John Crawford, who have an aggregate service of 116 years.

Following the banquet, dancing was enjoyed.

BIGAMY CHARGES FACE ALLEGED WARE SLAYER

Waycross, Ga., January 31.—(Special.)—C. W. Worten, 35, who is faced with a charge of murder in Ware county, is in "more trouble." He has too many wives, according to authorities. He has been carried to Woodbine, in Camden county, to be held there for trial on a bigamy charge.

Alleged to have shot and killed Fred Layton here on December 19, 1927, Worten faces a murder charge in Ware county superior court. He was out under bond until the new charge was lodged from Camden county, when he was rearrested and delivered to the Camden sheriff.

QUESTIONING SELF, NORTHCOTT TAKES STAND IN DEFENSE

Riverside, Calif., January 31.—(AP) Taking the witness stand today and as his own attorney, interrogating himself, Gordon Stewart Northcott, on trial for the slaying of three boys told vividly of physical mistreatment and "rough methods" at the hands of California officers.

The testimony of the defendant was given after he had withdrawn Mrs. Sarah Louisa Northcott, who has been known as his "mother," from the stand. Mrs. Northcott, brought here from San Quentin prison, where she is serving a life sentence for the confessed murder of young Walter Collins, had admitted under Northcott's questioning that she was not his actual mother.

The youthful defendant, testifying, declared he had been the subject of physical violence at the hands of James R. Quinn, formerly special investigator of the Riverside county sheriff's office, and Captain William R. Bright, of the Los Angeles county homicide squad, when he was being brought by them to California after having been extradited from Canada.

QUEEN ARRANGES FOR VISIT OF KING TO SHORE RESORT

Bognor, Sussex, England, January 31.—(AP)—Queen Mary paid a visit to Bognor today to look over the arrangements being made for King George's period of recuperation in this seaside resort.

Accompanied by Princess Mary, the queen arrived in a motor car shortly after midday and went to Cragwell house, Aldwick, in Bognor suburbs, where rooms are being prepared for the reception of the king.

There were few people at the crossroads where the royal motor car left the main road to proceed to the beautiful residence of Sir Arthur Du Cros, and the only greetings came from a party of school girls, who halted to wave their hockey sticks.

DIXIE FUND MEASURE VOTED WITH CHANGES

Washington, January 31.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—Despite the opposition of the bureau of the budget the house agricultural committee today ordered a favorable report on the Smith-Fulmer bill providing funds for the relief of farmers in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina who suffered injury to crops because of storm and hurricane conditions of last year. Passage has already been effected in the senate.

Two important changes were made in the bill, however, one reducing from $15,000,000 to $6,000,000 the appropriations called for. The second revision limited to $2,000 the amount which any farmer or citrus fruit grower may borrow for financing this year's operations, as against the $3,000 limitation imposed in the original measure. Both changes were made in an effort to compromise the objection of the director of the budget, who recently declined to approve the fund.

Following passage of the measure in the senate members of the congressional delegations of the three southern states called on President Coolidge and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine in an effort to have them recommend the fund. It was stated at the time that unless federal aid were forthcoming to producers of the section many of them would be unable to go ahead with their spring crops.

STATENVILLE, GA., SCHOOL WRECKED BY EARLY BLAZE

Statenville, Ga., January 31.—(Special.)—The Statenville school house was totally destroyed early today by fire of unknown origin. A passing motorist discovered the blaze. At that time most of the roof was a roaring furnace. The school was a large two-story wooden structure.

VIADUCT COMPLETION SEEN BY FEBRUARY 15

City Officials Are Planning Great Celebration in Honor of Event.

Formal opening of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts by February 15 was seen Thursday by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, following promise of Georgia Power company and MacDougald Construction company officials to work night and day and Sunday shifts whenever feasible to rush the projects to a speedy completion.

Mr. Ragsdale wrote letters to Alexander MacDougald, president of the construction company in charge of the construction contract, and Frank Lee Butler, vice president of the power company, requesting them to push the work with all possible speed.

Anxiety on the part of the mayor to open the structures to traffic at the earliest possible moment led him to write the letters, which commended both organizations for their efforts and suggested that they go even further within the next few days in prosecuting it night, day and Sundays.

Will Celebrate Opening.

Members of the bridge committee, headed by Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, of the seventh ward, are expected to lay preliminary plans at a meeting of the bridge committee at 11 o'clock this morning to fittingly celebrate the opening of the city's greatest civic improvement.

Mr. Dobbs and Frank H. Neely, chairman of the Atlanta bond commission, compose a committee in charge of arrangements. Mr. Neely is out of the city but will return within a few days, and Mr. Dobbs has begun working on a tentative program. Civic and political leaders will participate in the affair. High state, railway, city, county and other officials will be invited to fill places on the program.

While Mr. MacDougald is in charge of construction activities, Mr. Butler is directing installation of track and other power company equipment on the structures, and the mayor is asking both to rush the work, and has been promised they will "do everything possible." The contractor already is 90 days ahead of schedule, according to estimates.

The bridges were constructed at a total cost of approximately $2,400,000. Railways operating from the Union station, the power company, the city and Fulton county combined in contributing to the cost.

Letter From Mayor.

"I am so exceedingly anxious to get the viaducts opened in the near future that I wonder if you could work your forces day and night, weather permitting, until completion of your work," the mayor said in his letters, explaining that he had just completed another inspection of the work.

"While I do not ordinarily believe in working on Sunday, if Sunday should happen to be a pretty day, wouldn't it be fine for your people to put in a full day, as the traffic and everything that goes to hinder you would be so much less?

"Completion of the viaducts will mean much in improving traffic conditions.

"It will also mean much to property owners in the section in adjustment of their buildings that they may obtain tenants."

DEATH SENTENCE OVER SLAYER MAY BE LIFTED

Valdosta, Ga., January 31.—(Special.)—When Judge W. E. Thomas, of the superior courts of the southern circuit, sentenced James Crumardy to death in Moultrie last week it is believed to have been the first time a prisoner received the death penalty without being present since the famous Leo Frank case.

It will be remembered that in that sensational case sentence was pronounced without the prisoner being at the bar in open court, and the supreme court later ruled that such action on the part of the court was legal. This decision of the supreme court made it a law. So far as the legal fraternity here recalls no other court has ever found it expedient to follow that famous case until Crumardy was convicted of murder in the Colquitt county last week. The case was one which had many provoking features and while the jury was making up its verdict the doors of the court room were locked by order of the court and the prisoner in the meantime removed to the county jail. After the verdict was reached it was not deemed expedient to bring the prisoner back into court and Judge Thomas, recalling the supreme court decision in the Frank case, proceeded to sentence the man to death.

Since that time the attorneys representing Crumardy have made a motion for a new trial and this will be heard before Judge Thomas at an early date, in the meantime the motion acting as a stay of the death sentence. It is not believed, however, that the absence of the prisoner from the court room will be argued as a ground for the new trial.

Sprague Appointed.

THE BOND COMMISSION.

Mayor Ragsdale has appointed an advisory board of city councilmen and citizens to assist the finance committee of the city council in framing a budget based upon the desired $8,000,000 bond issue. With his usual acumen the mayor has chosen men well qualified for the delicate work and in whose reasoned conclusions the majority of the citizens will repose confidence.

The selection of Alderman Claude Ashley to head the advisory board is a happy one because of his experience in city government relations and his reliable progressive spirit, which moves but does not run wild.

In this time of reenforcements all along the line of southern progress it would be an ineffable blunder for Atlanta to stand still. Such has never yet been her attitude and must not be hers now.

The fermenting forces of today which control the currents of capital, population and productive industries have to find points of major concentration. They find them in cities that show growth, enterprise, civilizing progress, and the spirit to operate on the high levels of civic pride and modern conduct.

Atlanta cannot afford to rest upon the many laurels she has plucked from opportunity with the hand of courage in the past semi-century. She must add to her proud record by yet larger visions and concrete achievements. The judicious and economic expenditure of the money from an $8,000,000 bond issue will strongly corroborate her title to high civic rank and supply to her citizens of this and future generations monuments of both utility and honor.

The public improvements and betterments that are pressing for realization must be met by a bond issue large enough to allow reasonable allocations to all of the desired objects and functions. The maximum additional bond limit permissible is $8,000,000 while the interested municipal departments are calling for $13,000,000. Hence the need for a careful, conservative, and constructive pruning of the demands to the city's possible resources, yet obtaining the maximum benefits to the people and their essential institutions.

ECONOMY OF HARD ROADS.

All across the continent the states in which a state highway system has not been already brought to near-completion are moving strongly to accomplish that necessary objective.

In Texas the debatable issue pending in the legislature is whether the state bond issue for good roads shall be $225,000,000 or $300,000,000, with the state system experts contending for the latter sum. It seems to be uncontested that in either case the bonds can be marketed on a 4 per cent basis and be fully retired, principal and interest paid, in 30 years and from the road revenues, including gasoline taxes at 3 cents per gallon.

In Tennessee the house of representatives has just passed the bill to increase the gasoline tax from 3 cents to 5 cents per gallon for the increase of state road funds, and ancillary to that the highway commission will very likely be authorized to market road debentures, or short term notes, for $25,000,000 to carry on the state road construction. Already there are three fully paved state highways athwart the commonwealth.

Experiences in other states and expert testimonies have about worn down the old voodoo superstition that a bond issue for good hard roads is a fearsome burden upon the taxpayers of a state. That is clearly shown to be a fictitious and untenable dread, a hang-over from the times when there were no calculable recoupments from state expenditures.

Curiously enough those who used to kick most strenuously, and too often successfully, against all avoidable state expenditures seem now avidly willing to issue bonds provided they can be given shares of the proceeds with which to improve their "political fences" in their home counties. To them the "fences" are more important than the roads.

But the people, now convinced that good roads redeem their costs without direct taxations, are determined to have the roads. So much so that there are less than a third of the states that have not made bond issues to build state highways and that near to 50 per cent of the total funded debts of the states are for highways and bridges.

Of course, the people of any state—Georgia, for a glaring instance—have the right to travel in mud rather than on concrete and tarvia if they prefer the mud and the self-imposed taxation of higher costs for vehicular repairs and replenishments. But let no Georgian flatter himself that in fighting a good roads bond issue he is escaping taxation, for every rut and mudhole in an unpaved road is a tax-collector from the wagon, the automobile and the truck.

The sooner Georgia builds a self-supporting state-wide system of hard roads the sooner will her people escape an enormous toll of taxation.

SURGEON-GENERAL RIGG.

The designation of General C. E. Rigg to be surgeon-general of the United States army, in succession to Major-General Ireland, whose term in the office is expiring, brings to the head of that service one of its ablest and most efficient men.

That the president and the secretary of war should have chosen him from the many eligibles in the medical branch of the army for this chief office is warrant enough that he possesses all the essential qualifications, personal and professional, for its far-diffused functions.

The post of surgeon-general is one of the most important and constantly active of all those in the army, for the health interests of the army personnel, the sanitation of army posts, the equipment and operations of all the army hospitals, and a large list of other imperative duties are imposed upon the incumbent.

The fine abilities and his passion for effective service will be conspicuous in General Rigg's career as surgeon-general. His comrades in the service will welcome him with all confidence and cordiality, and the country will warmly approve his selection as the head of this important branch of the federal service.

Not only did California loose its football prestige to the south but Florida has as its guests Coolidge, Hoover, Smith, Firestone, Ford, Edison, Rockefeller, Dempsey, Work, Mellon, Kellogg and ninety per cent of the federal office seekers.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

One on the Censor.

Although soviet newspapers are inclined to condemn "Scarlet Island," a play running in Moscow, as dull, the house is sold out for days in advance, says the Paris Times. The opening scene is laid in the office of a Moscow theater. The director informs the censor that the theater wishes to produce a new play, fully sound from the political point of view. The rehearsal is then shown. "Scarlet Island" is a remote and undiscovered spot where a clique of "white Araps" oppresses the aborigines, who are red in political color if not in skin. A British ship appears in the offing and the owner, Lord Glenarvon, concludes a deal with the Arap king, buying up all the pearl treasures of the island for a cask of rum and a thousand pounds. The play reaches its humorous climax when the censor appears on the scene. He is conducted to a place of honor on the stage ship which is bearing Lord Glenarvon and a crew of British sailors off to the final conquest of the island. The leader of the "red aborigines" proves a thorough-going rascal and casts in his lot with the invaders; but the attack is triumphantly repulsed, the British retire without a pearl, and a huge red sun rises to typify the victory of revolution. Yet the censor is not satisfied. To the horror of the director of the theater, the author of the play and the actors, he announces that the performance is forbidden. When the director plucks up courage to ask for the reason the censor replies: "Who are the British sailors in the play? Proletarians. But do they show any sympathy with the natives? I regard the play as definitely counter-revolutionary, because it has in it no element of international solidarity. Perhaps the citizen-author does not desire the victory of the world revolution." Once this hint is given the end of the play is changed with alacrity. A timely mutiny, among the British sailors, dispels the frown from the censor's brow.

Russians In Paris.

The death of Nicholas Nicholaivitch, Russian grand duke, revealed the fact to me that there are still many Russians who pray for the czar. In a poor quarter near the Butte Chaumont in Paris, on the eastern slopes of the city, is a little church, full of ikons and bizarre Byzantine paintings of saints, where crowds of Russians followed the one service after the other, just before and after the grand duke expired at Antibes. The church, I was told, by a most amiable sexton, has a membership of nearly a hundred thousand. Most of these adherents are nobles. But I noticed that a good many of the folks at prayer were extremely humbly dressed. Some wept, no doubt stirred by the memory of better times under more beloved skies in their own land. The service was interminable. Long prayers were recited for the health and prosperity of the "little father" and the imperial family. Certain French dailies of a rather callous type, saw fit to poke fun at what they were pleased to call "the church of disinherited snobs." We know, and the late grand duke often agreed, that the Russian noble classes largely brought on the disaster that overtook them themselves. Nobody was more to blame than the ruling class, he said once. "We loved our lives of pleasure, with never a thought of the future. It was the old story of 'after us the deluge.'" But that doesn't take away the fact that the victims were human beings, who underwent all the rigors of the degradation and humiliation of the red terror.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

FOR THE SAKE OF THE CHILDREN.

A New Jersey correspondent contributes this item:

Dear Dr. Brady:

I believe your articles in the paper in which you gave full instructions in artificial respiration for the resuscitation of victims of submersion, and characterized as criminal negligence the conduct of anyone who would stand by and let such a victim die while waiting for a machine or an intelligent person to arrive, were a great factor in the saving of the life of my little "Buddy" who fell into an open, disused well in an empty lot. He was dragged out neither conscious nor breathing, but when I arrived he was already making his first efforts to breathe as a result of artificial respiration. His rescuer remembered your articles, and although the movements were carried on at a too rapid rate for natural breathing, thank God the child did breathe. Buddy was just two years old in August.

Please say in the paper whether the prone pressure operator should turn the victim over to the pulmotor operator if a machine arrives before breathing has been reestablished. Am I mistaken in the impression that prone pressure is always best, and that it should be continued without interruption even if a machine is brought to the scene?

—(Mrs. H. Y.)

This is almost a gold star letter. I published here last year a gold star letter, with the writer's name and address, of course with her consent. She told how the knowledge she had gained from one of my descriptions of Schaefer's prone-pressure maneuver enabled her to save her son's life when she dragged the child from a pond.

Now I want to wish everybody who doesn't know how to apply this life-saving method, some unhappiness. I hope every parent, particularly, and everybody else who cares for children, may suffer terrible nightmares in which they see a loved one dying merely because of the criminal ignorance and unpreparedness of a bystander. A few bad nights like that may cause many a culpable culprit to busy himself or herself enough to learn how to be of any earthly use in an emergency.

Here I want to give an answer to the question the correspondent asks. If the victim were a loved one of my own I should feel murderous toward anyone who dared interfere with the prone-pressure maneuver in order to attempt any monkey business with any kind of machine. And I tell you I know whereof I speak.

Once more I warn all parents particularly, and for that matter everybody else who may wish to be prepared to resuscitate a victim of drowning, not to mention electric shock, gas asphyxiation, smoke asphyxiation or other cause of cessation of breathing, to beware of the false teaching of the American Red Cross and numerous organizations about this maneuver. Do not permit these incompetent instructors to teach you to put anything under the subject's head. That is a grave mistake, and was never advised by Schaefer who gave the world this method of artificial respiration. Place the subject's head on the ground, the face turned to one side, and in no case allow the subject's hand or arm to rest under the head.

IDLE MINERS' BRAVERY STRIKES WALES DEEPLY

Newcastle-On-Tyne, England, January 31.—(AP)—Heartsick and sometimes horrified at the conditions which he has found in his three-day tour of the northern coal fields where unemployment is rife, the Prince of Wales has been deeply touched by the bravery and patience of the suffering workers.

Winding up his visit to dozens of mining villages where poverty and hunger struck him at every turn, the prince seemed to sum up his impressions in a remark which he made this afternoon to the mayor of Durham, to whom he said:

"I have been deeply touched by what I have seen of the bravery, patience and hope of these poor people. It has been very difficult to know what to do to solve this most pressing problem. I am sure things will be righted, but I'm afraid it must take time. The people I have met during this tour could not have been nicer to me personally. It was wonderful."

Cheered By Crowds.

When the prince left the station hotel here this morning to visit the Bishop Auckland area of County Durham, he was cheered by crowds gathered in the streets outside. He appeared tired, but acknowledged the cheers smilingly as his automobile left Newcastle for the stricken districts.

Just before leaving the hotel the prince greeted the newspaper reporters who have been accompanying him on his tour with a cordial "good morning, gentlemen." Then he added: "I want to thank you very much for your kind cooperation without which this tour would have been much more difficult."

When the prince left for the coal fields three days ago he was suffering from a severe cold but although tired by the ordeal of his trip he has not been neglecting his health and last night ended a 10-hour day by playing a game of squash racquets before piling into bed.

It is now understood that at the conclusion of his tour in the mining districts he expects to catch a train for Grantham, changing for Melton-Mowbray for a week-end in the hunting field as a relief from his trying excursion into the coal fields.

Shakes Hands With 50 Men.

Stopping off at Jarrow, the prince inspected conditions among the steel workers and shipyard men. He shook hands with 50 men there, many of whom have been without work for eight years.

As he rode through Durham towns made desolate by the spectre of unemployment, people crowded to see him. When his car stopped in the main streets of Jarrow, where there has been great poverty and sickness, people surged around him and above the crowd came the distressed cry of a woman pushing her way through. "Let me just touch him," she cried. She was Mrs. Annie Smith, who is blind. The prince heard her cry and raising his hat requested the crowd to make way for her. He shook her hand warmly and talked quietly and sypathetically with her for a few minutes.

SPANISH TROOPS HELD PRISONERS IN QUARTERS

Gibraltar, January 31.—(AP)—Infantry regiments stationed in neighboring Spanish towns were confined to barracks today on instructions from Madrid.

The Spanish government yesterday announced the suppression of a revolt which centered around Ciudad Real. Border advices today said stringent censorship prevailed.

Ciudad Real, Spain, January 30.—(AP)—(Delayed.)—Colonel Castro has been appointed president of the military court which is to fix responsibility for the abortive revolt of local garrison troops. It was stated that no summary judgment would be made but that the sedition would be investigated in strict accordance with the law. Colonel Castro has already begun to take statements from the persons arrested here.

The people of this city gave an enthusiastic reception to the loyal troops who came from Madrid in military busses. These troops, under orders of General Orgaz, are holding in barracks the men of the rebellious artillery regiment.

Officers and men of the loyal troops have been quartered in the homes of citizens. The city has resumed its normal life with shops operating on regular hours.

COX SAYS JUTE HEADS DECEIVE ABOUT TARIFF

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, January 31.—Representatives of the jute industry were charged today by Congressman E. E. Cox, of Georgia, with an attempt to mislead the public in an effort to have the house ways and means committee continue jute on the free list in the new tariff bill being drafted for consideration at the next session.

In a statement intended as a reply to testimony recently made before the house committee, Judge Cox challenged the assertion of jute manufacturers that substitution of cotton bagging for jute in covering the American cotton crop will operate against the cotton producer. On the other hand, he declared that such a substitution would have the opposite effect.

Southern cotton producers, he said, would gain a direct advantage of at least 80 cents per bale by the elimination of jute as bagging, while indirect benefits resulting from the use of cotton instead of jute in the manufacture of other fabric products would increase the advantage materially.

Congressman Cox now has an amendment pending which would impose a duty of 8 cents a pound on all jute imported from abroad. The amendment also calls for substantial increases in tariff duties on manufactured jute products.

"The jute trust," said the Georgia member, "is again at its old trick—misleading the public as to the practical effect of shutting out importations of jute products.

"I wish to refer to but one of the arguments they make, which is the strongest they have, and that is that the substitution of cotton bagging for jute bagging in covering the American cotton crop will operate against the cotton producer.

"What are the facts? It requires six yards of bagging to cover a bale of cotton. Six yards of jute bagging, weighs seven pounds more than six yards of cotton bagging. The price of cotton bagging made of four cents linters sells to the farmer at 60 cents per pattern. Bagging made of low grade 15 cents cotton sells to the farmer at $1.25 per pattern. We take the higher grade bagging for comparison. Jute bagging in 1926 sold at $1.24 per pattern, but this is higher than present price. Let a pattern of jute bagging represent a cost of 84 cents. The farmer sells his cotton on gross weights. Therefore, in selling a 500-pound weight bale at 20 cents per pound he gets $1.40 for the seven pounds excess weight of jute over cotton. His cotton bagging cost him 40 cents more than jute, an apparent advantage of $1.80 in favor of jute bagging. This, however, is not the full story.

"It would take 200,000 bales of cotton annually to cover the American cotton crop, and the taking of this much cotton from available supply would increase the price $2.50 per bale, an advantage to the farmer of 80 cents per bale. But 200,000 bales is not the total added use of cotton that would result from excluding jute. There comes in annually a billion pounds of jute. If there was substitution of cotton, pound for pound, 2,000,000 bales would be absorbed, increasing price of cotton $20 to $25 per bale.

"It is laughable for the jute manufacturer and dealer to say that it is for the farmers' good that they oppose shutting out jute. With jute excluded the farmer could wrap his cotton in silk and still profit from substitution."

POLICE RADIO AIDS IN THE CAPTURE OF ONE BANDIT

Detroit, January 31.—(AP)—A bulletin broadcast from the police radio station last night, warning cruising police cars to watch for two bandits in a taxicab, resulted in the fatal shooting of one of the pair in a gun battle and the wounding of a policeman.

The dead man was believed to be Harlin Vance, 27, of Detroit. The policeman shot is John Lockridge, 28.

Police were placed on the trail of the bandits by an 11-year-old boy, Steven Thomas, who slipped out a side door while the men were holding up Theodore Artopolides, in his drug store. The men after taking $35 and a pad of express company checks, fled to a taxicab waiting outside. The boy obtained its number and reported to police.

About ten minutes later, having been told of the robbery through their portable receiving set, officers in a police cruiser car saw the cab and pursued. When it ran into a blind street the occupants opened fire on their pursuers. One escaped.

TESTS SHOW COTTON ELECTRIC INSULATOR

Washing of Product in Pure Water Produces Effect, Engineers Told.

New York, January 31.—(AP)—Discovery that washing in pure water makes cotton as good an electric wire insulator as silk was announced today before the meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The discovery was announced by R. R. Williams, E. J. Murphy, H. H. Glenn and E. B. Kood, of the Bell laboratories technical staff.

Long research showed that salt water is the element causing electricity to leak through ordinary insulation. The salt comes from various solid saline elements in the insulating fabrics, which are turned into minute portions of salt water by moisture absorbed from air.

Having discovered that the principal source of leakage is something soluble in water, the engineers proceeded to get rid of it by plenty of washings in advance.

"Cotton," they announced, "can be substituted for silk, or less silk be used. One type of wire widely used in the Bell system can now be insulated with two instead of three coverings of silk. By water treatment the electrical resistance of the textile can be increased about 50 times."

MRS. RUTH M'CORMICK ANSWERS CHARGES

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—Ruth Hanna McCormick declared today that all the points made against her in a statement by Lottie Holman O'Neill, of Downers Grove, Ill., were incorrect "except the statement that I am Mark Hanna's daughter."

Mrs. McCormick issued a prepared statement in response to the charge by Mrs. O'Neill that she was dictating appointments "at the expense of Illinois women."

"I have been resting in Battle Creek, Mich., for 10 days, and naturally was surprised on my return to my Washington office this morning when Mrs. O'Neill's Springfield interview was called to my attention by the newspapermen," the representative-elect said.

"Mrs. O'Neill has been misinformed, it seems. I have not been familiar with the developments in Illinois state politics since Governor Emmerson's inaugural and obviously the assertion that I have been 'dictating appointments by telephone from Washington is incorrect. I have not been here and as a matter of fact I have been taking a vacation and have no information about recent developments at Springfield.

"So far from having interfered with Mrs. O'Neill's effort to obtain the chairmanship of the committee on education, I did not know she wanted it. I regret she was not appointed as I believe she would ably meet the requirements of such a position. I have no lieutenants in DuPage county working 'with a promised list of patronage.' As a congressman-elect, I have no patronage to offer and after I take my seat as congressman-at-large I will have no patronage to offer. I find that Mrs. O'Neill was misinformed on all the points raised in her interview except the accusation that I am Mark Hanna's daughter."

NAVY BILL CONCERNS U. S. ONLY, SAYS LORD

London, January 31.—(AP)—W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, speaking on disarmament today, expressed complete confidence in the United States as a peace-loving nation and told his hearers that the bill for new cruisers now before the American senate was no concern of Great Britain's.

"I don't wish to criticize the numbers or size of anything America thinks necessary in the matter of cruisers because I believe that the future peace of the world will be much safer in the hands of countries who have a generous confidence in each other than in the hands of scaremongers who try perpetually to make us believe there is grave risk of war," he said.

On the general subject of disarmament, Mr. Bridgeman remarked that Great Britain was prepared to go still further if other nations were prepared to do the same.

He said it was a fallacy that Great Britain had started a race in building 10,000-ton cruisers. He caused a laugh when he said that it was not until 1924, long after the Washington conference, that any of these cruisers was laid down in Britain. "Then, it was by a socialist government." This referred to the labor government of Ramsay MacDonald.

Oxygen Treatment Puts Kansas Girl Out of Danger

Perry, Kans., January 31.—(AP)—Two Topeka firemen who for 12 days nursed the spark of life in 7-year-old Margaret Brown by the constant administration of oxygen were relieved from duty today when their little patient, suffering from a lung infection, was pronounced almost out of danger.

For the first time in 13 nights Margaret slept without the aid of oxygen and her physicians said this morning her condition was good.

The child asked for her dolls and also talked about school and her playmates.

Without oxygen and the blood transfusions from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, the physicians said Margaret could not have survived the crisis.

American Heiress Weds Italian Baron In Rome Ceremony

Rome, January 31.—(AP)—Miss Josephine Cowles Pomeroy, of New York and Cleveland, and Baron Luigi Filippo Marincola di San Floro, were married with great pomp and ceremony in the Church of the Holy Apostles here today. It was the first society wedding of any consequence this year and the church was filled with Roman aristocracy and leaders of the American colony.

The bride was dressed in white velvet and old lace worn by her grandmother when the latter married George P. Pomeroy, then secretary of the American legation in Paris. The bridesmaids' frocks were of orchid velvet, extending down to the ankles. They wore tricorn plumed hats to match.

Miss Ruth McConnell Weds Kenneth Coulter At Indianapolis Home

Indianapolis, January 31.—(United News.)—Miss Ruth McConnell, 27, who attracted nation-wide attention by fleeing across the continent in an airplane dash, was married at her home here today to Kenneth B Coulter, 43, Clifton Falls, N. Y., capitalist.

The flight, in which Miss McConnell was pursued from Rochester, N. Y., to San Francisco by Dr. D. O. Meeker, a friend of Coulter, was the first disclosure of the strange romance between the Indianapolis art student and the capitalist.

The Opinion of a Giant Depends On Whether He Serves Us or Threatens Us

By Robert Quillen

When volunteers were enrolled for the civil war, regiments in the north elected their colonels. In many instances, the man who had the most money to spend for whisky got the most votes and became the leader.

But the privates recognized their own folly, and at least one Illinois regiment refused to march with the colonel it had elected. The privates believed in self-government and majority rule in time of peace, but when their lives were at stake they demanded a competent leader.

During the world war, also, democracy was shelved by common consent and the people clamored for a dictator who could save them.

The rule of the able is the only sane rule, and this truth is recognized by the people in time of emergency.

The only reason the people demand the right to rule themselves is because able men in times past have exploited them.

They know a government by the people is wasteful, cumbersome and inefficient, and they would prefer government by superior men if they could find leaders wholly unselfish.

These United States have just emerged from a predatory age in which the shrewdest and strongest got great fortunes at the expense of the people and spent their gains like Oriental potentates.

Because the big men were selfish, greedy and heartless, the people were suspicious, resentful and afraid. They demanded a greater voice in government; they clamored for laws to thwart and curb the rich.

That age is finished. Mr. Ford does not regard his profits as personal gain, but as a trust fund still belonging to the public. Mr. Rockefeller finds ways to use his millions for the public good. Scores of rich men, having won the game, find no joy in selfishness and use their fortunes to benefit the world.

The strongest survive, and the people will not hinder them if they will use their power unselfishly.

The new era of service, ridiculed by the cynics, promises the one solution of the world's problems.

The strong nations may rule by common consent when they are willing to rule for the good of all instead of exploiting the weak and ignorant for the gain of a favored class.

Now as always the people desire a leader. Give them one they can trust and they are content.

The able may build and govern unhindered when they learn how childish and foolish greed and selfishness are.

The people resent and covet the fortune of a rich idler who makes a vain and silly show of his wealth. They respect and trust a rich man who labors as they do and uses his profits to build or to benefit mankind.

The dog's strength is admired while he guards the sheep; it is dreaded only when he begins to kill them.

SENATE FAILS TO ACT ON RULE CHANGE PLEA

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—The proposal of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, to amend the senate rules to permit discussion of executive nominations in open session, was forced back to the calendar today after two hours of debate had forestalled a vote.

Senator Jones and Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, and Heflin, democrat, Alabama, advocated the amendment, contending the secret sessions were contrary to the principles of democracy.

Senator Bingham, Connecticut, and Shortridge, California, republicans, said there was good reason for secret sessions in the case of some nominations. Shortridge asserted that the constitution never would have been framed had the sessions of the constitutional congress been public.

Senator Norris declared that all public business had been conducted in the open, and, together with Senator Jones, contended that the rule of the senate forbidding any senator to divulge what goes on in a secret session worked a hardship upon members.

DISARMING SEEN BEST WAR CURE BY VATICAN PAPER

Rome, January 31.—(AP)—Discussion of the Kellogg pact by Osservatore Romano, the newspaper used by the vatican for its public announcements, led that publication today to say that the real way to secure peace is to start disarming.

"If all countries armed according to their respective necessities those countries whose needs are the greatest would be the most fully armed," said the article. "Then according to the principle of relativity of armaments, the others would have to arm beyond their proper necessities. The single law of peace is disarmament, the unique law of war is armament."

VISIT OF PRINCESS SAID TO INDICATE SHE WILL BE QUEEN

Sofia, January 31.—(AP)—Indications that Princess Giovanna of Italy would visit Sofia convinced many Bulgarians today that she would be their queen.

Preparations at the Italian legation for visitors were understood in well informed circles to concern the Duke and Duchess of Aosta and their niece, the princess. Bulgaria, therefore, was awaiting announcement that King Boris, 35, would have the 21-year-old princess as a bride.

VESSELS THROUGH PANAMA CANAL SET NEW RECORD

Panama, January 31.—(AP)—Up to 3 p. m. yesterday 593 commercial vessels had passed through the Panama canal since the first of the year, establishing a new high record for monthly transits. The previous record was 579, established in December, 1927.

The figures do not include the passage of 102 units of the United States fleet which passed through the canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific for maneuvers with the Pacific fleet.

FORMER PRINCESS PLANS TO BECOME AMERICAN CITIZEN

New York, January 31.—A former daughter-in-law of Wilhelm Hohenzollern intends to become an American citizen. Princess Alexandra Victoria Ruemann, self-supporting artist, now makes her home here with her husband, Alexander Ruemann, former commander of the German navy. He also plans to be naturalized. In 1920 his wife divorced Prince August Wilhelm.

TROTZKY IS REPORTED ON WAY TO TURKEY

London, January 31.—(AP)—Leon Trotzky, once powerful Russian leader, was reported in dispatches today to be on his way to Turkey as an exile. The Turkish government agreed to give the former leader of the red army shelter in Angora.

A Jewish telegraphic agency dispatch from Berlin quoted a "leading soviet official" as saying that rumors prevalent in Moscow indicated that Trotzky had been seen in Tiflis on his way to Batum. From there he will be transported to Constantinople and presumably later to Angora.

Decision to exile Trotzky was taken by the politbureau, the most important branch of the soviet government. Five members voted to banish him, one abstained from voting and four, Kalinin, Rykov, Bucharin and Tomsky, voted against banishment. The resolution was proposed by Trotzky's principal foe, Joseph Stalin, secretary of the communist party and iron man of Russia.

An exchange telegraph dispatch from Riga said that it was first proposed to courtmartial Trotzky but that this idea was dropped because of the exile's popularity in certain circles. Those who opposed banishment were understood to consider it almost as dangerous as putting Trotzky before a firing squad.

The Berlin dispatch added that after the decision of banishment had been reached the Turkish government was approached and Mustapha Kemal Pasha informed Stalin that admission of Trotzky to Turkey would involve many delicate problems. He agreed, however, to admit the exile to Angora provided that Trotzky were kept strictly within the grounds of the soviet embassy and was accompanied on visits to the city by one Russian and one Turkish guard.

The soviet government has declined to issue an authoritative statement on the whereabouts of Trotzky.

SENATOR FLETCHER PRAISES FRIED IN SENATE TALK

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—Tribute to Captain Fried, Chief Officer Manning and the crew of the America, who rescued the crew of the Florida, was paid today by Senator Fletcher, of Florida, ranking democratic member of the commerce committee.

"That achievement," he said, marks Captain Fried as an outstanding seaman and establishes his fame. It proves the high standard of his seamanship."

He obtained permission to have printed in the Congressional Record an article on "American valor on the seven seas," appearing in the December issue of the merchant fleet news and suggested that the "great achievement" of Captain Fried be included as a part of the article.

OBREGON'S SLAYER APPEALS FOR STAY OF HIS EXECUTION

Mexico City, January 31.—(AP)—The appeal to the supreme court by Jose De Leon-Toral for a stay of execution from the sentence which condemned him to death for the assassination of General Alvaro Obregon likely will be decided in about a week. Information obtained at the court today revealed that the appeal has been in the hands of the court for about two months.

If the writ of amparo is denied Toral's only hope of escaping execution will lie in a possible presidential pardon.

MEXICO OCCUPIES 4TH PLACE AMONG OIL PRODUCERS

Mexico City, January 31.—(AP)—Mexico occupied fourth place among oil producing countries of the world in 1928, said a report made public today by Ramon De Negri, secretary of industry, commerce and labor. He announced that the Mexican production totaled 50,150,610 barrels. The United States, Venezuela and Russia exceeded this total in that order.

The monthly production of Mexico last year dropped gradually from 4,769,000 barrels in January to 3,748,000 in December.

BILL IS PASSED FOR MARINE BAND TO ATTEND MEET

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—The senate today passed a house bill to permit the United States marine band to take part in the Confederate Veterans' reunion to be held at Charlotte, N. C., June 4 to 7. The bill now goes to the president.

LOCAL RETAIL TRADE HIGHEST IN DISTRICT

Volume Over 1927 Increases by 9.7 Per Cent, Bank Review Shows.

Increase in retail business in Atlanta was greater in 1928, as compared with the 1927 figures, than any other large city in the sixth federal reserve district. Figures released Thursday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta show that the gain in the retail trade volume over the preceding year totaled 9.7 per cent, according to reports made by five Atlanta stores. The 45 reporting stores throughout the district showed an average increase of 6 per cent.

Chattanooga showed a decrease in retail trade volume of 4.7 per cent, and New Orleans showed a decrease of 4.4 per cent. Birmingham showed an increase of 4.1 per cent and Nashville showed an increase of 5.3 per cent.

Atlanta Leads District.

Atlanta led all cities in the district in increased number of building permits issued in December, as compared with the same month in 1927, the report showed. Atlanta, with permits totaling $7,463,751 in December, 1928, registered an increase of 929.9 per cent over the December figure in 1927. Mobile showed an increase of 555 per cent, while Birmingham and Jacksonville showed decreases of 72.7 and 30 per cent, respectively.

All Atlanta January building permit records for six years were broken, according to figures disclosed at the office of Charles J. Bowen, city building inspector Thursday. It was indicated that the figure for last month will reach the $2,000,000 mark, as the construction total for permits at a late hour Thursday amounted to $1,985,722. January records of recent years are: 1928, $1,396,000; 1927, $1,066,385; 1926, $1,483,998; 1925, $1,463,667; 1924, $1,440,561; 1923, $3,310,111.

Other Reports.

Other Georgia cities making building permit reports included: Augusta, $104,641, increase of 120 per cent; Columbus, $78,382, increase of 133.4 per cent; Macon, $29,795, decrease of 83 per cent and Savannah, $240,500, increase of 385.9 per cent. Atlanta was one of six cities showing an increase for the entire year.

The total value of Georgia agricultural products showed a decrease of about $27,000,000, but the state still led five other states in the district with a total value for crops of $223,815,000. Georgia cotton showed a decrease of nearly $16,000,000; corn about $4,000,000, while sweet potatoes, pecans and apples showed increases.

Discounts Increase.

An increase of nearly $5,500,000 in discounts for member banks in the sixth federal reserve district was reported for the four-week period ending January 9 in the monthly review of conditions released by the Federal Reserve bank.

Commercial failures in the sixth district numbered 85 in December, compared to 69 in November and with 131 in December a year ago. Liabilities for December showed a decline of 16.2 per cent, compared with November, and were less than half as large as in December, 1927.

Cotton cloth and yarn mills showed production for December at a higher level than in 1927, and increased production of coal in Alabama and Tennessee and pig iron in Alabama, compared with December, 1927, was also reported.

WORLD WAR VET REGAINS HEALTH AFTER TEN YEARS

"Sargon Is Wonderful—There's No Doubt About That," Says Well-Known Atlanta Railroad Man.

"Since my return from the World War I have hardly known what a well day was, and my condition was steadily getting worse until I began taking the Sargon treatment. This wonderful medicine has made a new man out of me, and I feel that the luckiest day I ever had was when I found Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills," said E. A. Adams, of 836 Dixie avenue, Atlanta, recently.

E. A. ADAMS.

Mr. Adams is in the employ of the Atlanta Joint Terminals, is a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the Masons and the Presbyterian church.

"About three years ago my condition began to grow worse," continued Mr. Adams. "I had reached a point where I could no eat anything without suffering with indigestion. I was troubled greatly with gas, bloating and dizzy spells. Frequently my food would not stay on my stomach, and I was so nervous I could not get a good night's sleep. The misery that I would go through was awful, and I was not able to retain enough food and get enough sleep to keep up my strength. I was also losing weight, and a man who has my kind of work to do can not keep going long with such a condition of health.

"I cannot say too much for Sargon. When I started taking it I only weighed 132 pounds. I have only taken two bottles and have gained four pounds, and the aches and pains that bothered me so much are gone. I can eat anything I want without it hurting me in any way. And sleep! Why, I sleep fine and wake up in the morning feeling as good as I used to when I was a boy. That certainly is worth a great deal to a fellow, who before taking Sargon, would roll and toss most of the night and get up feeling as tired as when he went to bed.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills are the best laxative I have ever taken. They cause no sickness and bring about a perfect bowel movement. I started with three pills at a time, but now I need only one and they keep me as regular as a clock. The Sargon treatment is wonderful; there's no doubt about that."

Scores of people are calling daily at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, where a special representative of the Sargon laboratories has established headquarters and is explaining the merits of the celebrated medicines. Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills, which may also be obtained at the other Jacobs' stores all over Atlanta.—(adv.)

Atlantans Await Concert by Hayes With Anticipation

BY RALPH T. JONES.

There is something peculiarly poignant about a concert by Roland Hayes, the negro tenor. It is with unusual anticipation that tonight's recital at the auditorium is awaited.

The fact that half of his audience tonight will be people of his own race adds, of course, unusual interest. But that is not all. It is something about the singer, added to the exquisite beauty of his voice, that makes his singing so intriguing.

Personally, I am convinced that the answer is to be found in the intellect of the man. This is said without apologies. And if any take exception I refer them to the opinion of the vast majority of critics both in Europe and America.

Hayes' voice is ineffably sweet. It is one of the truly great tenors of the day. His vocal gifts alone, however, do not account for the witchery of his art. It is, rather, the wonderful artistry with which he sings his songs. Behind such singing there must be years of studying and training that bespeak not only untiring patience but also a splendid intellectual grasp of music. Only a magnificent intellect brings any singer up to the standards reached by Hayes.

You find this perfect artistry in not many singers. Schumann-Heink has it. So has Florence Easton. Antonio Scotti has it par excellence. And Guiseppe DeLuca. But it is easy to name five famous singers who lack in this respect to one who does not.

Added to the charm of Hayes' own performance is the rare opportunity his concert tonight affords to hear a man, only one generation removed from slavery, sing those delicate traceries of minor melodies we know as spirituals, before an audience of his own people, with the same background.

Incidentally, it must have been a marvelous occasion when Hayes sang his spirituals last year in Moscow before an audience of 10,000 Russian peasants—gathered there by the soviet—10,000 moujiks themselves closer to an actual slavery than Hayes, a slavery worse in most respects than any that Hayes' antecedents knew.

It will be a wonderful occasion tonight at the auditorium, both musically and in other features. I would not miss it for a lot.

OCEAN STEAMSHIP CO. MOVES TO NEW PIER

The Ocean Steamship Company of Savannah, popularly known as the "Savannah Line," has just moved into its new and permanent home, New Pier 46, North river, which it has leased from the city of New York. The terminal used by this company in New York from 1872 to July, 1922, was Pier 35, North river, which it was compelled to vacate on the latter date to make way for construction of the New York-New Jersey vehicular tunnel. From July, 1922, until the present move, the line has, through courtesy of the Southern Pacific company, used for its business Piers 50 and 52, North river.

The new pier, which is to be known as New Pier 46, North river, and which is located at the foot of Charles and Perry streets, represents the last word in pier construction. It was designed and built especially to meet needs of the "Savannah Line." It is 844 feet long and 100 feet wide, of steel and concrete.

Styles of 1929, to charm and glorify the feminine figure, have replaced the cumbersome costume of milady's wardrobe of a few years ago. Motor car manufacturers have also wrought their handiwork of style while all the nation, in every phase of activity, is keeping pace in style with the trend of times.

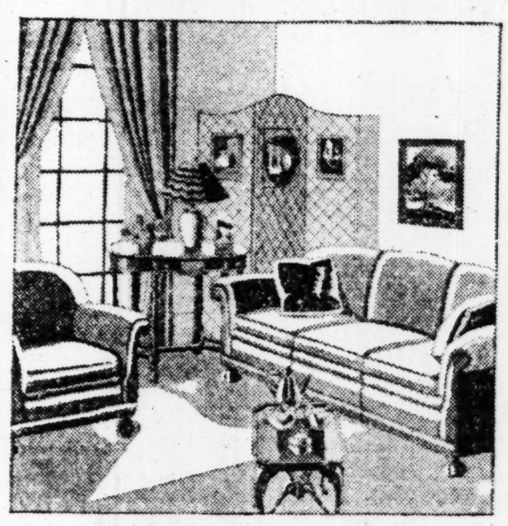

A vital part in this scheme of style development is in the making of furniture and home furnishings. It has evidenced itself to a high degree, for the modern demands and interests in the home have brought modernized furniture requirements to be fulfilled.

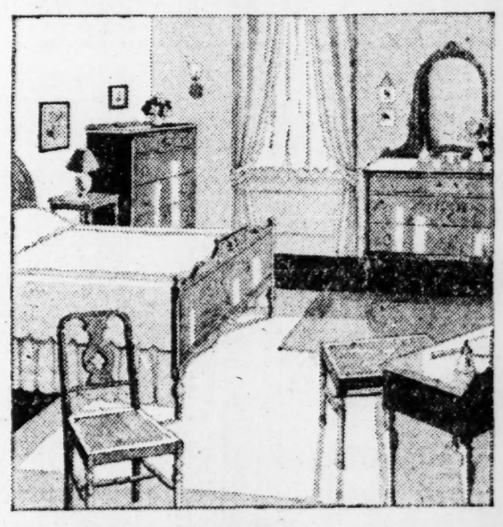

Compactness, simplicity, splendor, quality and value all were to be satisfied in the replacement of old oaken sideboards and obsolete pieces. In satisfying these demands the furniture industry has done its part, for today it offers the most beautiful and diversified styles that meet the needs of the modern home, whether it be humble or elaborate.

Deny your home of proper furnishings and you have overlooked the true meaning of home environment and influence. Furniture styles have in the past and will continue in the future to guide American homes to a higher level—to greater comforts—to more complete happiness and to the development of the finer characteristics within ourselves.

Hoover Democrats in Va. Can Vote in Aug. Primary, Attorney General Rules

1928 Presidential Election No Qualification Test, Saunders Says in Official Opinion.

BY FRANK H. FULLER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Richmond, Va., January 31.—(AP)—Virginia democrats who cast their ballots against the democratic national ticket last November, if otherwise qualified, are entitled to vote in the August, 1929, democratic primary, Attorney-General John R. Saunders held today in an official opinion given at the request of the democratic state executive committee.

The right of a democrat to participate in the democratic primary this year is not to be tested by the vote of such person for presidential electors in the 1928 election, the attorney-general said. He added that the chapter of the primary laws requiring participants in the primary to have been supporters of democratic candidates in the last preceding election in which they were eligible, did not apply to the presidential election since it refers only to those candidates nominated by direct primary. The presidential candidate and electors were chosen by convention.

The ruling was being considered in political circles tonight not only as a gesture extending the olive branch to the anti-Smith democrats but also as ending discussion of a state nominating convention rather than a primary. A proposal for a democratic platform convention, advocated by State Senator John W. Chalkley, of Big Stone Gap, did not come up at the meeting of the executive committee today but will be before the state central committee when it meets here later.

MERCER PICKS ATLANTA BOY AS 'MOST POPULAR'

Students Honor L. Y. Bryant, Non-Fraternity Man in Annual Campus Election.

Macon, Ga., January 31.—(Special.)—L. Y. Bryant, of Atlanta, was elected the most popular non-fraternity student at Mercer university in a ballot recently conducted by the Stray Greeks club, an organization of members of fraternities which does not have chapters at Mercer. Announcement of the results of the balloting was made today by Hugh Kelly, of Thomaston, president of the club.

L. Y. BRYANT.

W. A. Mommack, of Harrison, was chosen the most popular fraternity member. He belongs to the Sigma Pi fraternity. Others receiving a large number of votes in this division were John Gilbert, of Brunswick; Buford Boone, Newnan; Jack Gregory, St. Petersburg Fla.; Will Ed Smith, Fitzgerald, and Hugh Kelly, Thomaston.

Placing near the top in the non-fraternity division were Clifton Fite, of Resaca; Eugene Eller, North Wilkesboro, N. C., and George Potts, Newnan.

AMERICUS HOTEL SOLD AT $100,000 PROFIT

Americus, Ga., January 31.—(Special.)—Announcement was authorized here Wednesday of the sale of the Windsor hotel property to the Interstate Trust company by L. G. Council, of Americus.

The trust company paid approximately $200,000 for the property, which is purchased as an investment, and the hotel was immediately leased to the Cannon & Farmer interests, it is stated, for a term of ten years.

Mr. Council purchased the hotel property about 18 years ago, paying approximately $60,000 therefor, since which time he had expended about $40,000 in the installation of machinery and other equipment, and the sale just consummated netted him an estimated profit of $100,000, thus reflecting the increase in realty values in Americus.

Sheriff's Wife Stops Escape Of 2 Prisoners

Lafayette, Ga., January 31.—(AP)—A courageous deputy sheriff's wife armed only with a brickbat prevented the escape of two prisoners from the Walker county jail yesterday.

While alone at the jail, Mrs. E. C. Whitlock, wife of the jailor, discovered that the two inmates had wrested a piece of iron from their cot and made an opening in the side of the wall of their cell on the first floor.

Picking up a brick, she telephoned police headquarters here, and then calmly told the prisoners that if they attempted further to escape one of them likely would get hurt. She then stood guard over them until a squad of police arrived.

THREE GEORGIANS WILL SPEAK AT TEXAS FARM MEET

Fort Valley, January 31.—(AP)—Three Georgians will appear on the program of the Houston meeting of the cotton states branch of the American Association of Economic Entomologists February 6 and 7, according to a program of the meeting announced by Oliver I. Snapp here.

G. F. Moxnette, of Albany, will discuss "Airplane Dusting of Pecans and Results Secured for the Pecan Leaf Case-Bearer," and the results of further investigations with paradichlorobenzene around peach trees, with special reference to injury, will be discussed by Mr. Snapp and H. S. Swingle.

The cotton states branch of the national organization embraces the states of Georgia, the two Carolinas, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

VOLSTEAD MOVES TO PUT TEETH IN STATE DRY LAW

St. Paul, Minn., January 31.—(AP)—Andrew J. Volstead has joined Governor Theodore Christianson in an effort to make prohibition enforcement laws in Minnesota a positive deterrent to lawbreakers.

Volstead, who is legal adviser for the northwest prohibition enforcement bureau, conferred yesterday with the governor, who plans the drafting of more effective enforcement measures. Federal Judge Sanborn, S. B. Ovale, prohibition enforcement director, and Attorney-General Youngquist also attended the conference.

"The system of imposing fines," Governor Christianson said, "is proving to be much the same as granting licenses." It was the general opinion of the conferees, according to the governor, that jail sentences should replace fines for some types of violations.

"We also felt that there might be more severe penalties enacted for those guilty of repeated offenses," he said.

The attorney-general's office today began the drafting of the proposed measures.

Naval Hero Is Reconditioning Atlanta's Only "Steamship"

CAPTAIN TRANTER CROSSED OCEAN IN 30-FOOT BOAT

BY T. K. JONES.

Atlanta's only passenger steamship and probably the only one of its kind in existence anywhere is undergoing a complete overhauling in the deft hands of a celebrated marine architect, skipper extraordinary and self-styled "old salt."

The architect-skipper is Captain Ernest W. Tranter, of Miami Beach, Fla., famous world war naval hero, who gained international recognition in 1922 when he crossed the Atlantic ocean alone in a 30-foot sailboat, from Gloucester, Mass. to Gloucester, England.

The "steamer" referred to is a 1,600-pound replica of the old S. S. St. Paul, noted for its spectacular sea engagements in the Spanish-American war, and it can be seen at any time at the offices of the Holland-America steamship lines at 68 North Broad street, where Captain Tranter is giving "her a thorough rerriggin' and polishin'"—a task that requires skilled wormanship because the replica is intricate and exact in detail. Incidentally, it is the first reconditioning "she" has had during "her" six years here.

Guest of Atlantans.

The colorful skipper has been in Atlanta for several days as the guest of John T. North, southern district manager for the Holland-America lines, and Wesley Hirshburg, local photographer, who is to accompany him on an expedition in the Florida keys and the Bahamas next summer for the National Geographical magazine. He will return soon to Miami Beach, where his yacht, "Kayjean," is in harbor.

During his long career as a seaman, Captain Tranter has accompanied many expeditions—the most widely-known ones being the Roosevelt expedition into South Africa and South America, the Smithsonian Institute into Peru, and a Stanford university expedition into Alaska.

Born on High Seas.

Born on the high seas, some 700 miles from Cape Race, Labrador, Captain Tranter, after he reached the age of 15 years, sailed with his father's fishing smacks and whalers to all parts of the world, until 1894 when he entered the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, and was graduated four years later with honors.

Immediately after graduation he was assigned to the gunboat "Yankton" in Chinese waters, where he served for several years. He then was ordered to the Philippines for a period of three years, and on returning to the states he accompanied many various expeditions until the outbreak of the war.

CAPTAIN ERNEST W. TRANTER.

Virtually all of his wartime duty was spent in command of submarine chasers and destroyers in the Asiatic service. He was severely injured three days before the armistice was signed by a premature depth charge, while his craft was overtaking and sinking an Austrian U-boat off the Italian coast.

Returned to Native Heath.

After spending a year in government hospitals, Captain Tranter, on receipt of his naval discharge, returned to the city he calls home—Gloucester, Mass. Being still unable to walk he would sit in a wheelchair on the docks, watch the ships at sea and chat with his sea-going friends. Every one pitied and petted him, and eventually he grew tired of so much sympathy, and resolved to leave Gloucester.

One day he saw a particularly beautiful sloop put into the bay and without delay he bought it. Shortly afterward he started alone for England and arrived at his destination 85 days later, a feat that only two other men have ever accomplished.

Frigidaire Convention Closes With Big Banquet

Climaxed by a banquet attended by 700 of its sales representatives in the southeast, the annual sales conference of the Frigidaire corporation came to a close Thursday night at a banquet on the roof of the Ansley hotel.

At this time J. A. Harlan, sales manager of the Frigidaire corporation, introduced E. G. Biechler, president of Frigidaire, as toastmaster, and speakers were J. E. Hauser, chief inspector; H. F. Lehman, service and installation manager; "Dusty" Miller, Ohio newspaperman and humorist, and Mr. Harlan, who dismissed the meeting with a final word of sales counsel.

An elaborate dinner was served, and a special Broadway show, which is a part of the convention program, was staged for the benefit of the Frigidaire sales representatives of the southeast.

Price Cut Announced.

Another price reduction in the regular Frigidaire models "in line with the General Motors policy of mass production and low costs to the consumer" was announced at business sessions of the convention held during the day Thurday. At the same time, two new products were introduced. They are an electric room cooler operated on the electric refrigeration principle, and a device for regulation of low temperature in Frigidaires.

Officials said that the electric room cooler is adapted to use in the average room or office. It is a development of the large cooling systems now in use in theaters and other buildings and is said to produce immediate and satisfactory cooling.

By use of the device for regulating temperatures, officials pointed out that temperatures may be lowered or raised according to the wishes and needs of the individual user. In addition to these two innovations, several other new devices were shown and a complete line of electric water coolers for use in homes, offices, factories and public buildings were displayed at the Ansley.

The Atlanta Frigidaire district since January 1 has gone over its sales quota by 231 per cent, it was announced at the morning meet, and it was added that similar records are being reported from other territories.

Biggest Year Seen.

The year 1921 is expected to be the bigest year in Frigidaire history, officials' speeches showed. A significant statement made at the morning session was announcement by E. D. Doty, advertising manager and one of the speakers, that the biggest and most aggressive advertising campaign ever undertaken by the company is to be put into effect.

In addition to Mr. Doty, speakers included Mr. Biechler, president; C. F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors, in charge of research; R. S. Keilholtz, chief engineer; R. F. Callaway, vice president; Miss Verna Miller, home economist, in charge of the research kitchens of the Frigidaire organization; G. A. Ames, of the General Motors Acceptance corporation; T. B. Fordham, works manager; A. J. Harrison, educational supervisor; Ralph L. Lee and J. J. Nance, of the sales promotion department.

Outstanding Frigidaire salesmen in the Atlanta region were each presented with $100 in gold at the morning session. Each also was awarded an emblem of membership in a national club composed of the most successful salesmen in the entire Frigidaire organization. Those winning recognition included: J. A. Woodliff, W. E. Hudson, R. W. Goodrich and Allen Stewart, Atlanta; B. P. Mays and J. O. Mathewson, Augusta; E. T. Watson, Macon; M. W. Baird and J. O. Brown, Columbus; A. J. Winegar, Knoxville; J. E. Douglas and George Crumbliss, Chattanooga; G. W. Trask, J. L. Fahey and E. P. Nixon, Nashville; R. F. Newton, Gastonia; R. H. Dillon, Goldsboro; D. L. Brock, Greenville; J. W. Durst and J. Craig, Greenwood; S. O. McConnell, Spartanburg; W. J. Reusing, Asheville; T. R. Yarborough, Tampa; Ralph Holgerson, Jacksonville, and F. A. Correa, Miami.

ARMY IN LITHUANIA EXPECTED TO REVOLT

London, January 31.—(AP)—A message to the Daily Mail from Warsaw states that the entire Lithuanian army is hostile to Premier Waldemaras. It says that an open insurrection is expected hourly.

The Daily Mail's Kovno correspondent reports that President Smetona, of Lithuania, is suspected of aiding General Plechavitschius. The president and the chief of staff, says this message, are thought to have planned with the aid of the Kovno garrison to remove Waldemaras. Plechavitschius has been compelled to resign and is under arrest at his home.

President Smetona and Plechavitschius, says the Daily Mail dispatch, accused Waldemaras of being a "puppet of the bolsheviks."

The correspondent says that Waldemaras discovered the plot at the last moment and called upon any officers in the aviation corps still loyal to him to arrest the guilty ones. The premier defended his action, saying that a coup in Lithuania at this time would give Poland an opportunity to annex the country.

Kovno is described as being in a state of great excitement.

INFLUENZA CASES FROM 42 STATES SHOW DECREASE

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—Reports on influenza from 42 states and the District of Columbia to the public health service today showed a total of 55,000 cases for the week ending January 26, compared with 89,000 cases in the same territory for the preceding week.

The census bureau said the general mortality rate for the latter period, however, was 17.9 per thousand population, compared with 13 for the corresponding week of last year.

Cities reporting to the census bureau recorded 783 deaths from influenza and 1,996 from pneumonia during the week ending January 26, compared with 1,033 from influenza and 2,362 from pneumonia during the preceding week.

Public health officials said influenza prevalence continues to decrease in all states except Montana and New Mexico, where there is still a slight increase.

1929 AUTO TAG SALES TOTAL $2,285,857.53

Final Day of January Hangs Up Another New Mark for 24-Hour Sales.

Sales of motor license tags Tuesday showed another record total for a single 24-hour period, according to Secretary of State George H. Carswell, who announced the total as being $223,097.40, of which $151,097.40 came through the mails and $72,000 was taken in at the windows.

These figures brought the total 1929 sales to date to $2,285,857.53, mail orders totaling $1,516,607.55 and window sales $769,249.98, or nearly twice January receipts in 1928, which went to $1,319,074.98. Mr. Carswell explained the difference in sales for January of the two years by saying that the law this year fixed a shorter time in which the plates must be put on automobiles. This year the time closes a month earlier, February 1, instead of March 1. With but one day remaining, Mr. Carswell said, the indications were that more money will be taken in, including Friday's sales, than thoughout the longer registration period last year, during which the total reached $2,451,702.03.

Mr. Carswell had already announced that the law this year gives him no authority to make any extension of the time in which automobiles may be driven without the new tags, and that no such extension will be made.

Erlanger.

The concluding performances of "Night Hostess," as presented by that most popular organization, the Charles L. Wagner Producing company, will have its final performances at the Erlanger theater tonight and tomorrow, with matinee Saturday. "Night Hostess" is without question one of the most perfectly produced dramas seen here in many a day. The sterling work of all the players in the company, together with a most elaborate scenic environment, mark it as one of the outstanding successes of the Wagner season. Do not fail to see one of the remaining performances. Seats are on sale at the Erlanger box office and at Phillips & Crew Piano company.

Coming to Erlanger.

In commenting upon a recent performance of St. John Ervine's gripping drama, "John Ferguson," which will be given here on Friday night, February 8, by the New York Theater Guild Repertory company, during its engagement at the Erlanger theater commencing Thursday night, February 7, a well-known critic has the following to say: "John Ferguson" is one of the comparatively new dramas of marked power which adds to our English tongue literature in this generation, and those who wish to see and hear drama that comes nearer to greatness than most that has reached our stage in this century should not miss the opportunity of seeing it.

Keith's Georgia.

Anatole Friedland, for ten years famous for his girl revues, has outdone himself in his latest revue, now playing at Keith's Georgia theater. His Night Club Revue features a brilliant array of talented artists including LeBlanc and DuCharm, adagio team; Al Jockers, musical director; Belle Davey, who is said to be the only living rival of Gilda Gray, and numerous others. The feature picture for the week is, "Blindfold," taken from the story by Charles Francis Coe, starring Lois Moran and George O'Brien.

Loew's Capitol.

There's a great show on the program at Loew's Capitol. The vaudeville bill is headed by Lieutenant Gitz-Rice and his Northwestern Mounties in a beautiful singing act. The picture is the famous "The Flying Fleet" with Ramon Novarro taking the leading role in an epic of the air. Other acts are Jack Conway & company in a comedy sketch; Wells and Hawley, singers and comedians; Jackie Goldie, black face comedian, and the Alpine Troupe, acrobats.

Howard.

One of the most highly acclaimed talking pictures yet made is playing at the Howard this week. "The Doctor's Secret" it is, featuring Ruth Chatterton, H. B. Warner, Robert Edeson and John Loder, each a well-known stage actor. The story depicts a woman's secret, which is shared alone by a doctor. It takes a slice of life and vividly brings it to the screen in a highly entertaining fashion. This is Paramount's second all-talking picture. Also on the bill are Borrah Minnevitch and his Musical Rascals, who are now appearing in "Good Boy," a Broadway show.

Metropolitan.

Thrills and mirth galore are offered in "Synthetic Sin," Colleen Moore's latest production, now being shown at the Metropolitan. In it Colleen Moore is shown as a girl who is gifted with a supreme ambition to become a great stage star, but who is sadly lacking in the worldliness and experience necessary, and who sets out to get it by the quickest route. Fox Movietone News and Jack North, Vitaphone star, are the other highlights of this very entertaining program.

Loew's Grand.

The big favorite, "The Singing Fool" with Al Jolson, continues to win enormous favor at Loew's Grand theater this week where it is playing to large crowds. This is easily the best picture ever made by Al Jolson and it is now playing its first return engagement here at popular prices.

Rialto.

Screen version of Rex Beach's popular novel, "The Mating Call," is being shown at the Rialto this week to enthusiastic audiences. This dramatic story is laid in Florida and depicts a romance of a man with two women, one of whom leaves him for wealth, while the other he chooses from the immigrants to be his wife. Renee Adoree and Evelyn Brent play the roles of the two women. There are many interesting and dramatic situations in this picture which marks it as one of the finest offered in Atlanta theaters this week.

Cameo.

Jack Holt and Baclanova, the talented Russian actress, give a spirited and convincing performance in the new Zane Grey picture, "Avalanche," showing at the Cameo Friday and Saturday. Jack Holt alone has won universal favor with motion picture audiences in the western roles which he plays so well.

Empire.

A novel plot idea and new story twists combine with an aggregation of favorite screen players to account for the excellent entertainment value of "Heart to Heart," which is showing at the Empire theater for today only. Starring Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes, "Heart to Heart" is a film for the whole family to enjoy, for it is packed with clean fun, appealing love interest, no little drama and pathos. And even sophisticates will get a chuckle from its delicious satire.

Ponce de Leon.

Many of the laughs in "The Patsy" at the Ponce de Leon today for the last time come from the subtitles, with about half taken verbatim or with slight changes from the play. The picture follows the general story of "The Patsy," that of a younger sister who is imposed upon by an older sister and her mother, who favors the butterfly daughter. Pop takes sides with The Patsy, being somewhat of a Patsy himself. Toward the end, with a generous employment of screen liberty, Miss Davies does a series of imitations of Pola Negri, Mae Murray and Lillian Gish. The imitations are great and reveal Miss Davies as a skillful mimic.

DRUID HILLS ACTS FOR FIRE PROTECTION

Civic Group Names Committee To Study Remedy and Taxation Problem.

BY C. B. McMILLAN.

Considerable disturbance over the fire situation among the residents of the Druid Hills section was evidenced Thursday evening at a meeting of the North Druid Hills Civic club, composed of a large number of prominent citizens of the community.

The meeting was called to consider means of securing fire protection for the more than a thousand homes of the prominent residential section, following the announcement by the Atlanta fire department that it would discontinue service in that section after February 15.

The action of the fire department came as a result of orders issued from the board of firemasters instructing the Atlanta fire department not to go outside the city limits in DeKalb county after the date mentioned. Most of the Druid Hills section lies in DeKalb county and is not incorporated in the city of Atlanta, thus being affected by the orders.

Under the temporary chairmanship of Harry Gershon, who presided in the absence of the president of the civic body, Bruce Moran, the citizens of Druid Hills entered into a lengthy discussion of the possibilities, and named committees for immediate investigation of several phases of the situation, these committees to report to a mammoth mass meeting of the citizens of that section at a meeting to be held in the community Thursday, February 7.

The committees named were as follows: One committee composed of V. V. Evans, Frank Harrison, R. S. Sims and F. Wade Vaughan, was to investigate the taxation situation which might exist under various circumstances of changes that might be made. This investigation included the present taxation rate of both DeKalb and Fulton county, an inquiry into what the tax rate would be should the community be incorporated into Atlanta, and the other expenses that might be included in a change.

The second committee, composed of Dr. J. Sam Guy, R. G. Peeples and F. L. Smith, was instructed to inquire into what DeKalb county proposed to do, if anything, to relieve the situation.

The third committee was instructed to take up the immediate situation of lack of fire protection in the section, to treat with the Atlanta officials regarding temporary relief, until something definite can be decided. On this committee was named Charles Howard Candler, president of Druid Hills, Inc., who was absent from the meeting, and to act with him, W. B. Schwarts, Dr. J. J. Clark and J. C. Loeb.

No definite action can be taken until these committees report, which will be done at the next meeting. In the discussion of the matter, however, the citizens expressed surprise at the action that the city of Atlanta has taken toward the section, declaring that it was entirely unexpected. They concurred generally with the statement issued by Mr. Candler regarding the situation. The statement follows:

"Impressions that the sections outside the city limits have been receiving protection free are erroneous ones," Mr. Candler said. "It has been the understanding that persons served would pay the cost of any calls answered outside the city. I have never heard of any complaints being made over charges for such service. All the city must do is submit bills to those who have been served.

"We understand, of course, that the city of Atlanta has first claim on the department. But if the apparatus is is not in use, and a call comes from outside the limits, we see no reason why the aid should not be furnished and a bill submitted for the cost."

The section comprises approximately a thousand of the most beautiful homes with a population of over 3,000 people. It has no corporate organization, and has never been incorporated into the city of Atlanta.

This section, according to reports at the meeting, pays 75 per cent of the total county taxes of DeKalb county, this property being of tremendous value, and the Druid Hills organization felt that they were being sadly neglected by DeKalb county. A movement was begun, though no official action was taken, to have the section of the county taken into Fulton county at the meeting of the state legislature next summer. The chairman stated that such a movement would be looked into just as soon as the committees could report on the exact status of the locality.

Considerable indecision was evidenced in the meeting concerning the desirability for the Druid Hills section to seek entrance into the city of Atlanta, chiefly because of a fear of the tax increase. It was felt, too, that no satisfactory situation could be arrived at if the section should be incorporated with Atlanta, so long as it remained in DeKalb county, chiefly in the matter of taxes.

GOV. JOHNSTON PLEADS; TRIAL SET FOR FEB. 11

Oklahoma City, January 31.—(AP)—Declining to seek the advantage of technicalities, Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, through his counsel pleaded not guilty today before the senate court of impeachment on charges preferred by the house of representatives, and the date of his trial was set for February 11. It previously had been announced that demurrers to the house charges would be presented to the senate court.

After the brief hearing today, however, Johnston revealed that he had opposed this plan of his counsel and insisted that the eleven charges be heard on their merits. By common consent, the charges were consolidated, although Johnston was not scheduled to plead to three of them until February 5, and the trial was set.

"This case has reached a stage where the issues are bigger than my own personal welfare," said Johnston in a statement explaining why his attorneys had not demurred to the charges. "The people themselves are entitled to look behind the closed doors of the committee which brought forward these charges. Not only the senate but the people of this state are entitled to full information on the motives and methods of the actors on both sides.

"I want mine to be known and I intend some of these masquerading inquisitors shall make their's known."

In another statement the suspended governor propounded a panacea against further impeachment cases against Oklahoma governors. One of its chief ingredients was recommendation of a constitutional amendment shortening gubernatorial terms from four to two years.

Oklahoma's last three elected governors have been impeached, although J. C. Walton is the only one yet who was removed from office. If the two-year term were in effect, the suspended governor explained, the chief executive would be forced to render an accounting of his administration to the people for that time, and each two years would become a standard of the campaign together with such issues as the two years had caused to develop."

SENIOR ROCKEFELLER ENTERS OIL BATTLE

New York, January 31.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., today issued a statement through his New York office saying that he agreed with his son in the latter's efforts to oust Colonel Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

"The press has several times reported a statement from Colonel Robert W. Stewart to the effect that Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Sr., would be pleased by the reelection of Colonel Stewart as a director of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana," the statement said.

"Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., has been informed that many people in the west have been misled by this report. For this reason Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., thinks it necessary to make this statement.

"Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., owns no stock in the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. He feels that his son has proceeded only with the earnest desire to do that which will be best for the truest welfare of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and for large corporate interests in general. Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., agrees with his son and does not see how his son could have done otherwise. He has proceeded with deliberaton and patience and with the utmost consideration for the feelings of all parties concerned. It has been an unpleasant duty for him, but one which in all good conscience he could not shirk."

MIDNIGHT FROLIC TO DRAW CAPACITY AUDIENCE TONIGHT

Everything is all set; the S. R. O. sign is dusted off; only a few choice seats remain and the comedians, singers, dancers and musicians of what promises to be the biggest midnight frolic seen by an Atlanta audience yet, are all ready to swing into the opening bars of the whirlwind musical comedy show, "Dominoes of 1929" at 12 o'clock tonight at the S1 theater, at the midnight frolic for white people only.

One of the most promising casts offered by a colored show this season is to be seen in "Dominoes of 1929" and everything seems to point toward a real big time for all seekers of entertainment at the witching hour tonight.

The few choice seats which remain unsold after an unusually heavy demand which began the instant they were placed on sale last Monday morning are to be had at Jacobs' pharmacy, at Five Points, until the hour of the show, when they will be transferred to the theater box office, 81 Decatur street.

Manager Tom Bailey has just announced that "Dominoes of 1929" is, in his opinion, one of the most enjoyable shows he has seen, and when it comes to colored shows, he sees 'em all.

The time is 12 o'clock tonight.

The members of the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech, champions of the land, so far as gridiron activities are concerned, Thursday afternoon were given a taste of what the upper regions are like, the opportunity being supplied by Edgar LaParle, pilot of the big Fairchild monoplane, "Parker Duofold." The players were taken up in groups of four and were given flights over the city and its suburbs as the guests of the Parker Pen company. The Fairchild, which arrived in Atlanta Monday from Florida, has carried aloft more than 200 local dealers of the company's products and is expected to leave Sunday for Montgomery, continuing its tour of airports.

A Stearman, Wright-powered biplane, in use by the department of commerce in its periodic inspection of southern airports and southern flying conditions, arrived Thursday afternoon at Candler field for a brief visit. A "Fledgling," an army training plane from Birmingham, Ala., also called at the airport Thursday and will return to its home port today.

Louis Bleriot, the daring Frenchman, who startled the world a few years before the world war when he became the first person to fly the English channel, is building a huge trans-ocean flying boat in his factory near Paris. Bleriot's cross-channel plane, which he built himself, weighed only a little more than 500 pounds and was powered with a 23-horse power engine. The new ship has a wing spread of 91 feet, is 52 feet long and has four engines capable of developing 3,200 horsepower. It is to carry 30 passengers. A flight over the Atlantic is planned in the spring.

Antony Fokker, who started building and flying his own planes at about the same time Bleriot began, is soon to turn out a 32-passenger land plane at his factory in New Jersey. It will have four powerful engines and will be fitted up with all the comforts of a luxurious Pullman.

PECAN INDUSTRY GETS BIGGER FUND IN BILL

Washington, January 31.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—Following final approval by the senate of the agricultural department annual supply bill, W. J. Harris, senator from Georgia, today called attention to the several important items carried which are of peculiar interest to the state. Senator Harris is a member of the appropriations committee which handled the legislation.

The bill provides an appropriation of $105,000 for the pecan industry, representing an increase of $20,000 over the amount granted last year. An increase of $10,000 was made available also in the experimental work of producing paper out of Georgia pine, making the total for this fund $25,000.

The fund for development of naval stores was increased by $22,000 or a total of $80,000.

One of the most important increases granted was $100,000 for eradication of the "phoney" peach disease, which was sponsored by Senator Harris.

Other items include the usual $30,000 for the coastal plain experiment station at Tifton; $20,000 for tobacco inspection work and an appropriation of $50,000 for market service for Georgia farm products.

The bill carries items made upon recommendation of Senators Harris and Keyes of New Hampshire, as members of the national forest reservation commission, to increase funds for the purchase of lands for national forests by $1,100,000, bringing the total to $3,000,000. It is the belief of Senator Harris that a part of the fund will be spent for additional land in Georgia.

Downing was arrested on a charge of reckless driving, with bond assessed at $500.

Police reports of Call Officers Ginn and McGarrity, said Hardin, alighting from an outbound Highland avenue car at Highland and Cromwell avenues, walked into the path of the oncoming machine and was struck down before the driver could stop.

Watson, of 139 Varnoy street, was treated at Grady hospital for injuries received shortly after noon when he was struck down on Fair street by an automobile. Police have no report of the accident. The boy was badly bruised about the head but barring a possible brain injury his condition was not regarded as serious.

Catarrh is Serious Handicap on Victim

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with chronic catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that catarrh interferes with natural breathing thus preventing proper oxygenation and purification of the blood by the lungs and also absolutely prevents restful, refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to all germ infections such as colds, flu, pneumonia, etc.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remedies that have been tested for the relief of catarrh, none has given such uniformly successful results to the physician or attained such popular favor as the prescription of Dr. Runion, known to your druggist as Runion's White Wonder Salve. Applied in the nostrils, morning and night, "White Wonder" gives quick and most delightful relief. Clean, greaseless and absolutely stainless, White Wonder is a perfect example of the finest pharmaceutical art—a joy and comfort to everyone who suffers with nasal catarrh.

Ask your druggist for WHITE WONDER today or mail thirty-five cents for a family jar, postpaid. White Wonder Chemical Company, 50 Greil Bldg., Montgomery, Ala. Our slogan—"Perfect satisfaction or your money back."—(Adv.)

Camp Fire Report Given at Meeting.

The Toccoa camp of the Camp Fire Girls was the outstanding feature of the report given by Mrs. Tom Brooke, president of the Camp Fire board of directors, at the city federation meeting Wednesday. "We were very highly complimented," said Mrs. Brooke, "by our national field director, Miss Edith Kempthorne, on the high standards which the camp has maintained in its location, buildings and equipment."

The board of directors and camp committee met last Friday and authorized S. B. Carter, chairman of the Toccoa camp committee, to place the contract for the building of the dam, which will flood an area of about five acres and afford swimming and boating next summer.

The members of the federation were invited by Mrs. Brooke to become guardians. She told of the urgent need for leaders and asked that they interest themselves in the Camp Fire program. Mrs. Brooke pointed out that even though educators throughout the country recognized the program as being educational and character-building, it is primarily recreational in its appeal to the girl; and affords a world of romance and adventure.

Mrs. Brooke concluded her report with a brief summary of the most outstanding work done by the Camp Fire Girls during the past year. Her report was as follows: The Camp Fire Girls originated the "Lighting of the Living Christmas Trees" in Atlanta, and through the splendid publicity and cooperation of The Atlanta Constitution have seen their idea grow each year. A truck load of toys, repaired, painted and made almost new by the Camp Fire Girls, were distributed among the poor of the city by the Community Chest agencies. Four hundred and thirty-five dolls were dressed and given through the Community Chest agencies to the poor. A rolling chair was given to the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital. Pine-needle baskets were made, filled with candy and fruit, for each of the ladies in the Old Ladies' home at Christmas time. Scrapbooks were made for children in local institutions and many hours were spent telling stories and singing songs for the children. The Camp Fire Girls were given credit for doing the most outstanding work of any of the junior organizations in the Needle Work Guild.

He is a graduate of the University of Georgia and a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

HOW SPOOKY WAS FOOLED.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Even those in wisdom schooled
At times will be quite badly fooled.
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy called Spooky the Screech Owl the "policeman of the barn," which was a very good name. You see, Spooky was spending the cold weather in Farmer Brown's barn, and he was keeping the rats and mice out of mischief there. Spooky had learned all the places where the rats and the mice were likely to be seen and he kept a sharp watch on those places. It was seldom that Spooky swooped down in vain. Some of those rats and mice were very quick, but after all, the best thing to do was to run, and Spooky knew just how to catch them.

But one evening Spooky was fooled. Yes, sir, Spooky was fooled. He had to admit it to himself. It was this way. He was sitting up on his favorite perch on a rafter up in the roof of the barn. It was a good place from which to watch. He could see all over the barn. He had been watching the grain bin down below, for it was around that grain bin he had caught most of the rats and mice on which he had been living. They just couldn't keep away from that grain bin. So when Spooky felt it was time to eat, he would watch sharply that grain bin.

On this particular evening, Spooky had been growing more and more hungry and hadn't seen a single mouse or young rat. So he had kept his eyes most of the time on that grain bin, hoping and hoping that he would see his dinner down there. But once in a while he would turn his head quickly from side to side for a hurried look in other directions. It was during one of these hurried looks that he caught sight of a small form moving along on one of the big beams of the barn. Instantly Spooky spread his wings. That small form was too big for a mouse, so it must be a young rat.

"He hasn't got a chance," said Spooky to himself. "He's way out on that beam and he can't get back to a hiding place. He is as good as mine right this very second."

You know that Spooky makes no sound when he flies. His wings, like those of other members of the Owl family, are noiseless. So there is nothing to warn those he is hunting, unless they happen to see him sailing like a soundless shadow. Spooky flew high until he was right above the young rat, as he supposed it to be, who was half way across one of the beams of the barn. Then Spooky darted down with his claws reaching to seize his victim.

Then Spooky darted down with his claws reaching to seize his victim.

It was at that very second that his intended victim happened to look up. It was the next second that Spooky was completely fooled. He had expected that if he were discovered, that rat would scamper across the beam as fast as his legs could take him. He was prepared for this. He was ready to follow and seize his dinner before it could get to the other end of the beam. But nothing of the kind happened. Instead, his intended victim did a most surprising thing. Instead of running, he jumped. Yes, sir, he jumped right off that beam and went sailing out into space across the barn.

This was so unexpected that it took Spooky a minute to get straightened around and fly in pursuit. By that time it was too late. His keen ears heard a soft little thud down below on the wall of the barn, and then that dinner he had been so sure of had disappeared. Spooky turned in midair and flew back to his perch. He was very much out of sorts to have been simply fooled, but to be fooled and lose a dinner at the same time was, you must admit, enough to put any one out of sorts. He snapped his bill angrily.

"Timmy the Flying Squirrel!" he exclaimed. "What business has he here in this barn? And I thought it was a young rat! Well, he won't fool me again! One of these days I'll catch him. But that doesn't help me out any now. Ha! There is a sure enough young rat down there!"

Once more Spooky took to his wings. A few minutes later he was sitting on his perch, a picture of contentment, with the tail of a young rat hanging from a corner of his mouth.

OUR CLUB — By Seckatary Hawkins

"WE HUNG AROUND THE SHANTY-BOAT FOR A WHILE TODAY. THEN WE CRAWLED OUT ON IT AND LOOKED IN A WINDOW. IT WAS ALL DARK INSIDE AND FULL OF WATER.

"THE WATER WAS SWASHING AGAINST THE SIDES AND EVERYTHING WAS COVERED WITH WATER. CAPTAIN JOHNNY SAID WE HAVE TO SCOUT AROUND AND SEE IF WE CAN FIND THE SKINNY GUY.

"WE HUNTED FOR THE SKINNY GUY ALL AFTERNOON, THEN WE CAME DOWN TO HOLD OUR MEETING. WE JUST HAD THE FIRE STARTED WHEN BRIGGEN AND TWO OF HIS PALS CAME OVER.

"BRIGGEN THINKS WE TOOK HIS TREE-HOUSE. BUT, SHUCKS, HE WOULDN'T HAVE ANY KICK COMIN' EVEN IF WE DID, IT WAS MADE OUT OF OUR LUMBER. HE ASKED US DID WE SEE THE SKINNY GUY.

"THEY DIDN'T WAIT FOR ALL OF MY ANSWER. 'DO YOU THINK HE WAS IN THERE?' ASKED BRIGGEN. I SAID, 'HOW SHOULD I KNOW? YOU WERE THERE WHEN IT HAPPENED.' BRIGGEN HUNG HIS HEAD AND LOOKED SORRY."

RADIO-ING THE AIR-WAVES

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

The American Singers, known and loved by thousands of radio listeners, will be regular features of the radio program of the Hudson-Essex Challengers at 9 o'clock each Friday night over WSB and the blue network of the N. B. C.

This well-known quartet made its first appearance on a Hudson program Friday, January 18, and a week later its four members furnished a background of melody for the appearance of Walter Winchell, noted Broadway columnist and humorist, in a program about his beloved Broadway. They will continue to share with the Hudson-Essex Challengers orchestra, directed by Josef Pasternack, the musical honors of the Challengers programs, and will be known as the Challengers quartet.

Josef Pasternack, conductor.

An instrumental group consisting of violin, trumpet and guitar will be heard for the first time during the program of the Armstrong Quakers, to be broadcast through WSB and the the N. B. C. this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The trio, which will be a regular feature of future programs by the Quakers, will present its own arrangement of the waltz, "On Miami Shore."

Other instrumental selections during this program include the fox-trot, "Harold Teen," and the characteristic selection, "Kiddie Kapers," both by the orchestra under the direction of Bert Hirsch.

The Quaker Girl will sing "One Alone" from "The Desert Song" as a soprano solo and will join with the contralto in a duet, "La Paloma." Two selections will be sung by the male quartet—"Let's Sit and Talk About You" and "If I Had You," and the mixed vocal sextet will also present two numbers: "Headin' South" and "That's What I Call Heaven."

* * * *

Selections that will please everyone will be heard in the Wrigley Review, broadcast through WSB and a coast-to-coast network of stations associated with the NBC System this evening at 8 o'clock.

Opening with Burleigh's "Village Dance," played by the orchestra, the Wrigley Spearmen romp with gay insouciance from an English shire to Broadway; to Russia via Hawaii and back again, playing selections that are bound to meet the demands of every musical taste.

Kreisler's "Schoen Rosmarin" will be rendered as a violin solo by M. Rosenker, while Smalle and Robertson, the Shenannigan Duo, will sing "I Wanna Be Loved By You," from "Good Boy," interpreting it with their customary patter. Marjorie Horton, soprano, will be featured in a solo, "When Summer Is Gone."

The orchestra will play Brahms' second "Hungarian Dance" and will close the program with "L'Automne et L'Hiver."

Uncle Bob Sherwood, one-time star of the sawdust ring, will talk of housekeeping for the menagerie during the Dixies Circus program to be broadcast through WSB and the NBC System this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

The varied duties of the menagerie superintendent who, with his assistants, acts as chef, janitor, chamber maid and even family doctor for the animals in his care, make a fascinating yarn for the uninitiates who listen to this tale of circus days.

A clown band vies with a circus band and a calliope in the musical background.

Mary and Bob are in Florida this week and it is from St. Augustine that they will be heard when the True Story hour presents its broadcast over the Columbia system tonight at 8 o'clock.

While in St. Augustine Mary and Bob will visit all points of interest in this antique city, and will make a special tour through the famous old prison.

It is in the old prison itself that they hear the true story that they will retell to their radio audience. "Through Prison Walls" is the tale of the problems in love and life confronting a man after he comes out of prison, and how these problems are solved by him constitute a story that Mary's and Bob's large radio audience is bound to find interesting.

FOCH HAS SETBACK; DOCTORS ORDER COMPLETE REST

Paris, January 31.—(AP)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, who has been slowly recuperating from an illness due to a heart attack and kidney complications, suffered a setback today when Dr. Davenieres, his attending physician, discovered what he described as a slight pulmonary congestion.

The marshal was taken ill on January 14 but had so far improved that he had hoped to receive visitors tomorrow for the first time.

His physicians, however, ordered complete rest, and the generalissimo, much against his wishes, was obliged to sumbit to the order and to give up his daily periods of sitting up.

AMANULLAH READY TO ATTACK KABUL

London, January 31.—(AP)—Advices from Russia today described Amanullah's efforts to regain the throne of Afghanistan as involving a battle for control of Kabul, the capital.

His followers were stated by the Afghan minister to Moscow to have surrounded Kabul.

They were planning to drive from the throne Habibullah Han, who forced Amanullah's brother to abdicate. The minister expressed confidence that Amanullah would soon be back in control.

Another tribal leader was stated in a dispatch from Peshawar, India, to have joined in the fighting. He was Malik Ghauseddin, leader of the Ghilzai tribes in an expedition against royal troops. His followers claimed he had supreme power in Knost province.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, speaking in the house of commons, said that Amanullah had formally announced his abdication to the British government. Consequently until it was clear that in spite of his abdication Amanullah was regarded as their king by the people of Afghanistan, the British government would be unable to regard Amanullah's government as the rightful government of Afghanistan.

Sir Austen said that Great Britain had no intention of interfering in the internal affairs of Afghanistan, by supporting or assisting any of the parties at present contending for power there.

The foreign secretary read a message from the German ambassador expressing warm thanks for the rescue of German women and children from Kabul by British airplanes "under the most difficult circumstances." He said he understood that the press bureau of the foreign office at Berlin had communicated with the German press in regard to this message. He thought it regrettable that the German press had paid so little attention to the incident.

$47,000,000 NETTED BY NAVY IN OIL CASES

Department Amplifies History of Deals in Supply Bill Testimony.

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—The navy department today amplified the history of the government's oil cases which was made public yesterday in testimony on the annual navy supply bill now pending in the house.

This testimony disclosed that the Wyoming Teapot Dome naval reserve case had resulted in a return of $12,156,246.66 to the government and today the navy said the cash and property from all reserves recovered had amounted to $47,137,696.28.

It was said the largest item was $34,981,449.62, representing the total recovered in connection with the petroleum reserve No. 1 in California.

The balance, $12,156,246.66, was realized from reserve No. 3 in Wyoming. Of this amount, however, $3,053,512.39, due the government for oil taken from the reserve prior to receivership, together with interest thereon, has not been collected. This item was tied up as a result of the Mammoth Oil company's objection to the payment of interest on $2,294,000, and the subsequent institution of suit for the interest against the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company.

An itemized account covering reserve No. 1 follows:

Cash and bonds turned in by receivers $11,224,189.29; cash turned in by Pan-American Petroleum company $13,013,151.76; improvements and fuel oil received by the government which cost $10,744,108.57; total $34,981,449.62.

The third item in the above account consisted of tanks and other improvements made by the Pan-American company at Pearl harbor and 1,500,000 barrels of fuel oil stored there.

COUNTY IS RICHER BY $25 FOLLOWING ATTORNEY'S BOUT

Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, Thursday was cast in the temporary role of referee during a brief but exciting one-blow fisticuff in his court room, while the county pocketed the proceeds.

H. W. McLarty, an attorney, was in the course of his argument to the jury in a case involving title to a diamond ring and a gold wrist watch found in a local hotel two years ago. McLarty represented the hotel clerk, who claimed the property. Attorney Ernest Bentley, who claimed the property on a bill of sale from a client whom, he said, had lost the jewelry, was said to have taken objection to the tenor of certain remarks made by McLarty in argument, and also took a healthy swing at McLarty with his fist, it was said.

Judge Humphries promptly called Bentley up before the bar and ordered the sheriff to collect a $25 fine for contempt of court.

Celebrities Feature Programs Of Writers' Club for Spring

The Atlanta Writers' club, through its president, Daniel Whitehead Hicky, announces a number of celebrities who will be honor guests at its spring dinners. Roselle Mercier Montgomery, an Augusta poet who has resided in New York for many years and won instant fame with her poetry the world over, will be guest of honor at the February meeting February 22. Mrs. Montgomery's poetry first appeared in the New York Times several years ago and since that time, her work has been sought by leading editors. She is considered one of the foremost poets of the time.

Julia Peterkin, famous novelist of South Carolina, whose two novels, "Black April" and "Scarlet Sister Mary," have won her an enviable place among the country's leading novelists, will be guest of honor at the March dinner of the Writers' club. Mrs. Peterkin's novels are best sellers and her writing has been hailed by critics throughout the country as among the most brilliant fiction of the day.

In May the Writers' club will bring to Atlanta a New York author and poet, Theda Kenyon, whose novel written around the life of Jeanne d' Arc, has just been published on both sides of the Atlantic. Miss Kenyon is a poet of note, her work appearing in foremost magazines, and she is at present at work on another novel which promises to eclipse the high mark set by her first work. Miss Kenyon gives exquisite monologues in fanciful costumes of the period which she represents in her vivid portrayals, and is most popular in contemporary literary circles."

THE
of FLU are more dangerous than flu itself

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is AFTER Influenza. Then, more than ever, colds attacking the weakened system may lead to bronchitis, pneumonia, sinus trouble, abscess of the ear, mastoiditis, or even the dread meningitis. This is especially true of children or old folks.

After A Flu Attack

Do these 3 things until you regain your full strength:
1. Exercise moderately outdoors; get eight hours sleep with the bedroom well ventilated.
2. Avoid overwork, sudden chills, and all excesses which may lower the body-resistance.
3. Above all, stop every cold at the start.

At First Sign of a Cold

Put some Vicks up each nostril and snuff well back. At bedtime, apply hot wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread it on thickly and cover with warm flannel.

Vicks acts 2 ways at once (absorbed and inhaled) and often checks a cold overnight. If by morning the cold still lingers, stay in bed and repeat the treatment every 4 hours.

Avoid Too Much "Dosing"

A peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset.

Constant "dosing," especially in the case of children, still further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite, just when the body needs nourishment more than ever.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable here because it is applied externally, and so can be used freely at the first sign of every cold, without upsetting the most delicate digestion.

1918 - and now

In the present epidemic as in 1918, Vicks is proving to be the family standby in millions of homes. In spite of increased equipment it is again necessary to run the laboratories night and day.

The Strange Case of the Promissory Note

NUMBER 27

When Richard Mannington died in 1902 he left to his widow a fortune of $1,200,000 and his famous collection of porcelains. Scarcely ten days after Mannington's death the widow received a bombshell in the form of the following letter from one Philip Renoir, of San Francisco:

At this time of your sorrow, I hesitate to speak of a matter which goes back more than twenty years, when your late husband and I had our unfortunate disagreement over the Ming vases, of the details of which you are undoubtedly, to some extent, aware. I had thought never to be obliged to advance my claim, but circumstances now compel it in justice to myself and others.

In June, 1882, I had just returned from a five years' stay in China, when I became acquainted with your husband at the home of the Levericks, in Washington square. I had brought with me 17 pieces, including the two vases of the Ming dynasty, which today form the basis of your late husband's celebrated collection. Mannington was at that time interested more as a speculator, attracted by the chance of profit in the purchase and sale of Chinese art, than he was in collecting for art's sake. To make a long story short, he purchased from me at that time the pieces enumerated upon the attached separate memorandum, and at the prices named. He paid me then, according to our agreement, $5,000 in cash, and gave me his promissory note for $32,000, $37,000 being the total amount of the transaction.

It is one of the regrets of my life that out of this transaction grew the serious misunderstanding between us which resulted a year latter in a rupture of our friendly relations. You probably are aware that soon after the making of our agreement several experts, undoubtedly bribed by envious dealers, declared the vases counterfeit. Your husband ultimately refused point-blank to pay his note.

Perhaps you are not aware that after violent disputes on the matter the authenticity of the pieces was established beyond a doubt only six months ago. Until this had occurred I did not care to press my claim against your husband, although personally I had never doubted that the vases were genuine. I had written several times to your husband since then but received no reply whatever. Three months ago I was on the point of bringing suit against him when I was taken seriously ill, an illness from which I have only just recovered.

I repeat that it gives me pain to force the issue at this time, but circumstances compel me to do so. I am sure we both wish to avoid the unpleasantness of a suit, and I have determined to throw myself upon your sense of justice, even though the technicalities of the law might seem to make resognition of the debt unlikely in view of the lapse of years.

I inclose a photostatic copy of your husband's note. The original is in the possession of my attorneys, McArthur, Longdon & McArthur, First National Bank Building, San Francisco, from whom any further details may be had. I trust, however, that we may settle the matter between ourselves rather than between attorneys.

Mrs. Mannington had been married to her husband for only ten years. He was a man who had never discussed business matters with his wife, and she could neither deny nor affirm the justice of the claim. The note, according to what was said to be a photostatic copy of it, bore Mannington's distinctive signature. The formal text of the note, duly couched in the correct legal language, was typewritten. It was turned over to handwriting and typewriting experts, who pronounced it authentic. The handwriting experts, and some of Mannington's old friends, advised the widow that the signature was not only undoubtedly that of Mannington but that it was characteristic of Mannington's signature at that particular period of his life. And the typewriting experts pronounced the type characteristic of the machines used in the early eighties.

No record of the transaction could be found in the papers of the deceased, but the details regarding the authentication of the Ming jars proved to be true. A complete report of the authentication had recently been published by the Ceramics Journal. Of Philip Renoir, the claimant, Mrs. Mannington knew only that he had, indeed, been an old friend of her late husband, and that Renoir was the brother of Adele Renoir, now deceased, who had been a sweetheart of Mannington in the early eighties. It was known that Adele Renoir and Mannington had once carried on an extensive correspondence.

This was not the first time that Mrs. Mannington's faith in her late husband's integrity had been disturbed. Before her marriage she had heard ugly gossip of the methods by which he had gained his fortune. She knew that throughout her married life he had been almost jealously devoted to his valuable collection. Had he in his earlier years stooped to dishonesty in assembling it? To her any threat of stain on her dead husband's reputation was terrifying. Anxious to avoid publicity she directed here attorney to accompany her to San Francisco to examine the original document and settle the matter at once.

At the ensuing conference with Renoir and his lawyers, Mrs. Mannington and her attorney were favorably impressed by the claimant. Philip Renoir was a large, suave, courtly gentleman, apparently of the greatest sincerity. His attorneys were among the best known in the city, and had been established for years. The original note, slightly yellowed with age, was produced. Mrs. Mannington and her lawyer compared it carefully with the photostatic copy which had been sent to them. They were obviously identical.

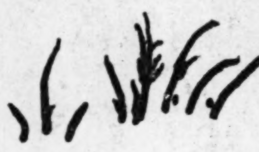

Anxious to settle the matter and feeling financially able to do so, the widow announced frankly her willingness to take up the note. Everyone was pleased. The lady was about to draw the check, and the lawyers were congratulating each other upon the happy settlement of the affair, when suddenly Mrs. Mannington's eyes fell upon the back of the note which bore her husband's signature.

It was about six inches wide and a little less from top to bottom. Mannington's signature, directly under the typed lines of the promise to pay, fell in the center of the paper (from side to side), a quarter of an inch above the bottom of the paper.

Turning the note over, Mrs. Mannington examined what had caught her eye on the back. This is what she saw along the bottom margin in a spot almost coinciding with the signature on the reverse of the sheet: and ink, were the only markings on the back of the note.

Mrs. Mannington looked at them carelessly and handed the note back. She then said that she had not brought the right check book with her and would have to return to her hotel and get it. She departed with her lawyer at 5 p. m. But she never returned.

Early that evening Mrs. Manington's lawyer called hastily on Mr. McArthur, senior member of the firm of lawyers representing Renoir, and warned him that Philip Renoir was in all probability a clever crook. Shocked, Mr. McArthur demanded the reasons for the charge, and when he heard them he paused in dismay. In the presence of the Mannington lawyer he telephoned to Renoir's residential hotel.

"Mr. Renoir was called out of town suddenly just before supper," he was informed by the hotel clerk.

And San Francisco never heard of Philip Renoir again.

What had aroused Mrs. Mannington's suspicions and what had Renoir done? Had you been a detective assigned to the case, what would you have made of the mystery?

The questions to be answered are:

1. Why did the strange markings on the back of the yellowed document lead Mrs. Mannington to suspect that something might be wrong?

2. Where had Renoir probably obtained the piece of paper which bore Mannington's signature?

Note: The solution to the above problem is printed herewith upside down, so that the reader will be enabled to follow his own deductions, before referring to the published answer.

SOLUTION TO NO. 27.

The Strange Case of the Promissory Note.

1. The markings on the back of the yellowed document led Mrs. Manningham to suspect that something might be wrong because they were obviously part of some design which had been cut off of the sheet of paper. And if something has been cut off, it was reasonable to suspect that it might have been cut off for the purpose of concealment.

Mrs. Mannington noted especially that the only part of the mysterious markings remaining on the back of the piece of paper almost coincided with the position of the signature on the reverse side. These markings had to remain on the back if the signature on the reverse side was to remain. She suspected that otherwise they would have been cut off also.

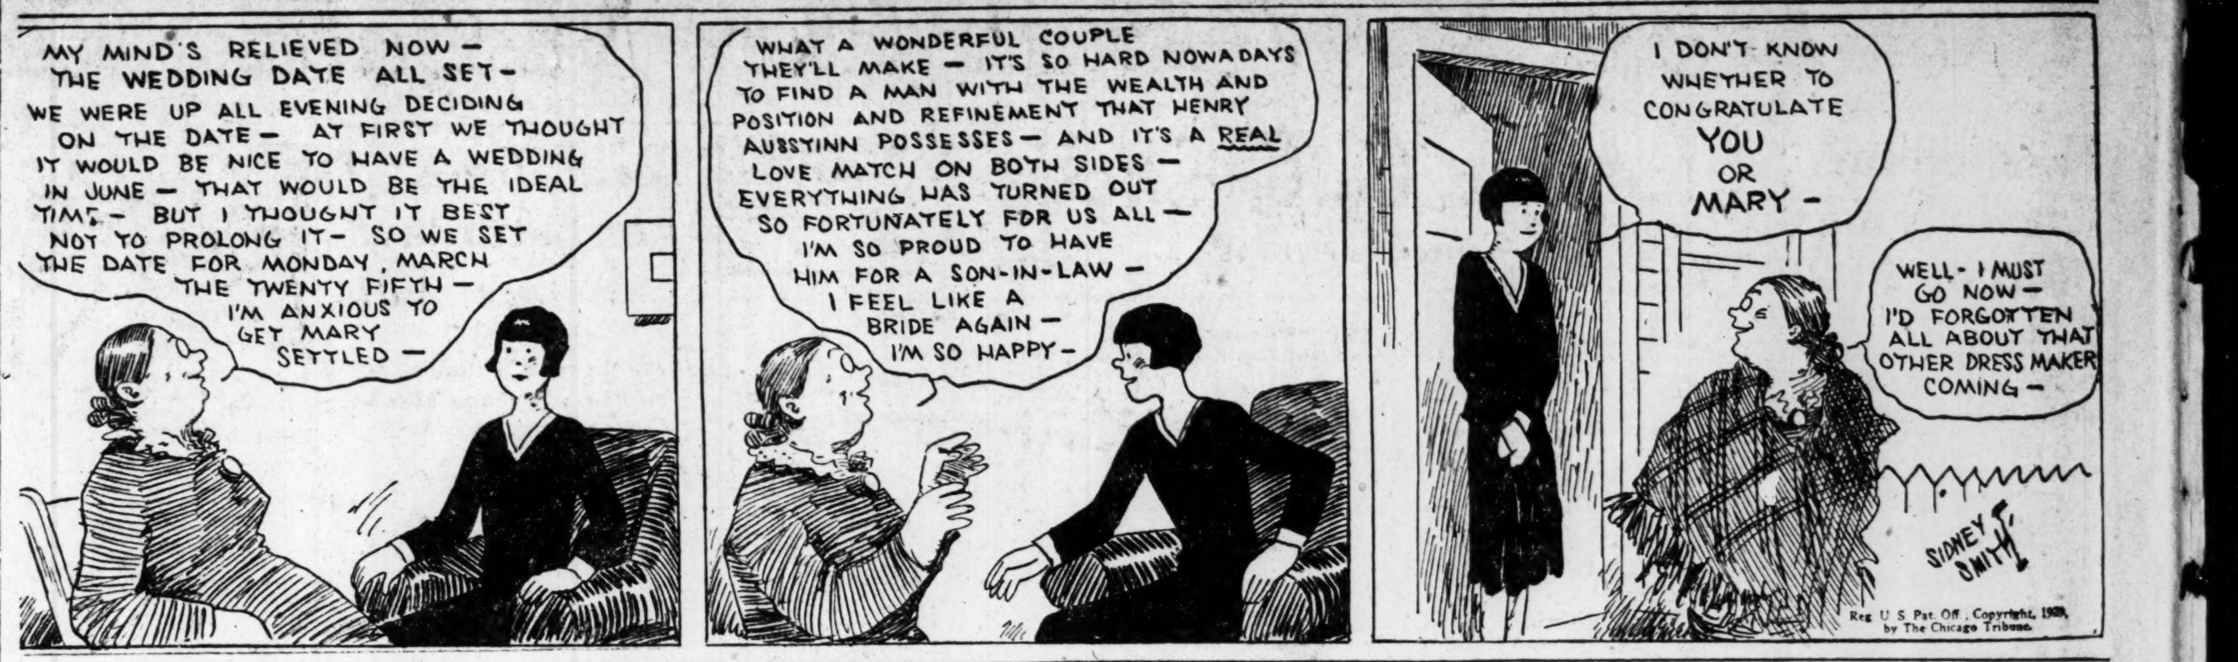

2. In the opinion of all the lawyers and of Mrs. Mannington, Renoir had probably obtained the piece of paper from his deceased sister's autograph album which Mannington had at some time undoubtedly signed.

This they deduced cogently from the strange pen-and-ink markings on the back of the sheet on which the alleged promise to pay had been typed. In these finely-stroked lines they recognized ends of pen strokes such as were used in making the elaborate "flourish" designs often inscribed in autograph albums in the latter part of the last century. In such albums some wrote verses; some "flourished" intricate designs of birds, flowers, etc.; some even painted little water colors; and those of lesser accomplishment merely signed their names, with date. Richard Mannington had been of this latter class. He had probably signed his name and the date in the center of a page in the album. The person next invited to inscribe in the album had "flourished" a design on the other side of the sheet, and it happened that the fringe of one side of the design nearly coincided with Mannington's signature on the reverse.

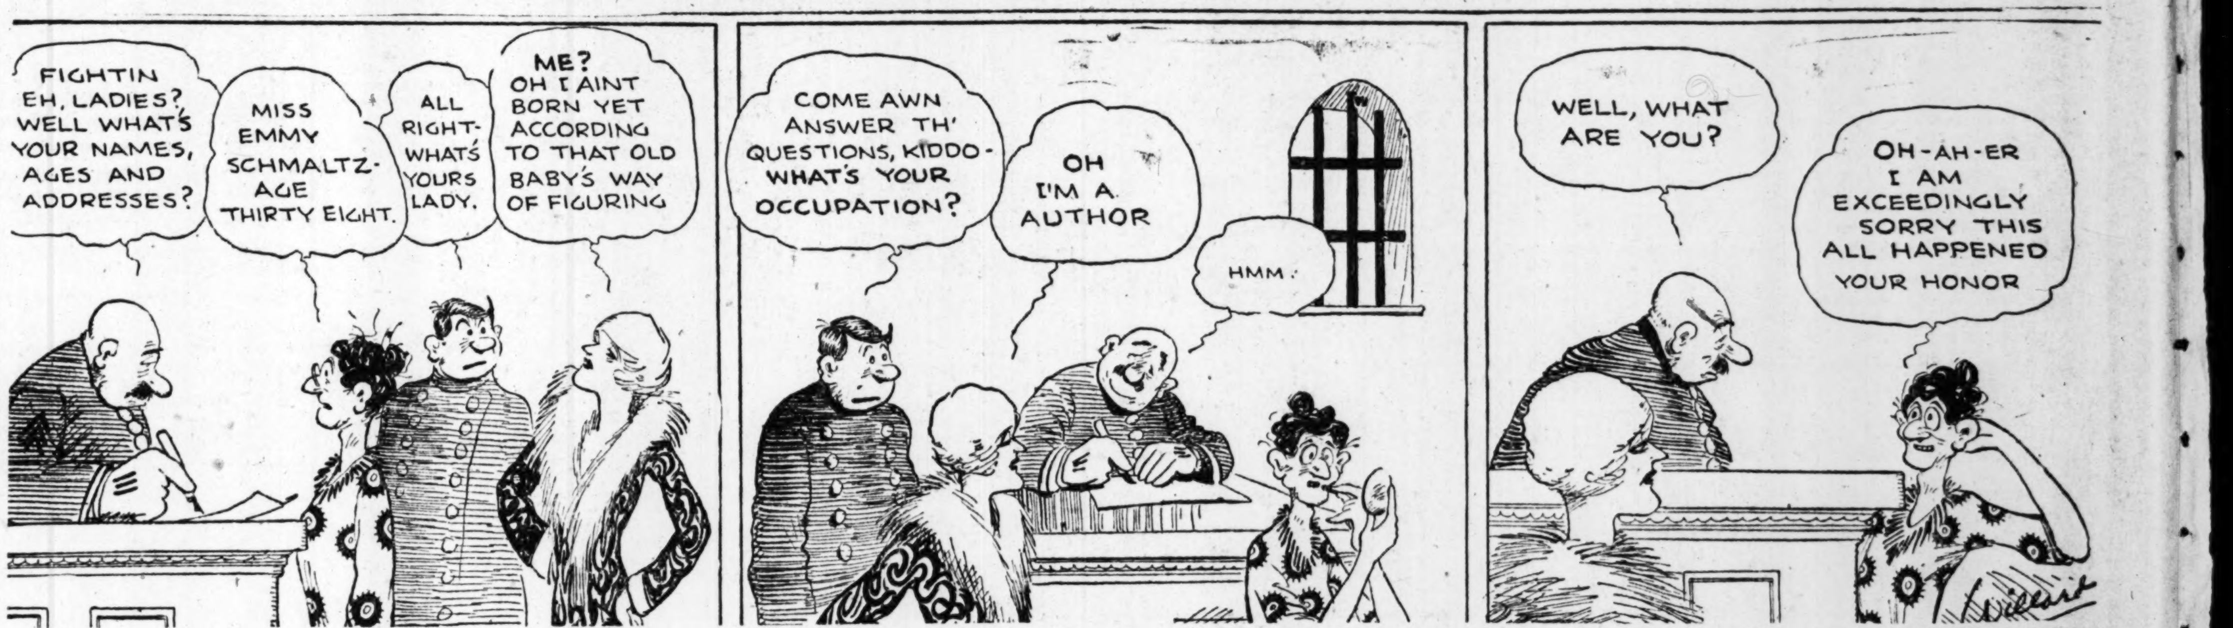

When Mr. Philip Renoir fell into possession of the album upon his sister's death, he probably saw in it an opportunity to forge a note over the signature of Mannington now grown wealthy. When Mannington died, the opportunity to prey on his widow became obvious to him. He clipped the page from the album and trimmed it down as much as he dared; then he typed in the "note."

Renoir was never caught. The San Francisco police department detective assigned to the case found that Renoir had consulted typewriting experts some months before as to the characteristic type on typewriting machines used in the early eighties. He had bought an ancient machine from one of the experts, saying that he desired it for his private museum of business appliances. With this Renoir undoubtedly forged the type lines of the "note."

Rosenblums Down 'Nooga Five by 39-26

Cleveland Professionals Give Dazzling Exhibition of Basketball at Auditorium.

A marvelous passing, dribbling and goal-shooting basketball team, the Cleveland Rosenblums, flashed their well-assorted wares before a crowd of several thousand at the city auditorium last night and trounced the Chattanooga Penn-Dixie team, 39 to 26.

The score doesn't tell the story—doesn't give even a suspicion of a tenth of the true tale. The Rosenblums didn't score more because they didn't shoot, being content to pass the ball about the court in dazzling formations or to exchange it on the dribble. The Penn-Dixie scored as much as it did because the Rosenblums didn't care. The score at the half was 21 to 8 in favor of the Rosenblums.

Led by the easy-moving Dutch Dehnert, guard, and the tall center, Lapchick, the Rosenblums raced about the court and passed the ball as though in practice. Penn-Dixie swarmed about, vainly seeking the ball and seldom getting it. When the Cleveland team tired of the sport, a pass would always find a man clear under the basket.

The dogged playing of Chattanooga was unavailing against the powerful professionals but Harmon got away on several occasions for crip shots in the second half. McArthur at center scored three field goals in the second half and two in the first to lead his team in the scoring department.

Lapchick, sleight-of-hand artist, who twisted the ball about in his one hand, led in point making with 11. Lapchick time after time stood under his own goal and fed the ball to waiting teammates instead of shooting himself. As for the husky Dehnert, he was everywhere on the court, passing mostly but shooting at the basket when near the center of the court. He sunk two of this type, the only long ones made by the winners during the game.

In the preliminary test the previously undefeated Western Heights team, of Atlanta, suffered a setback at the hands of the Elberfeld sisters, Edith, Ruth, Nan, Marion, and Dot, of Chattanooga. The score was 17 to 14. The Atlanta quintet staged a rally in the second half to threaten but seven foul shots out of eight attempted gave the Chattanooga team the winning margin.

GOTHAM EXPERT TRAINING STILES ATTAWAY FOR GO

A specially imported trainer, Charlie Wilson, here for the express purpose of whipping Stiles Attaway into shape not only for the Ted Goodrich match Tuesday night, but for others, perhaps in b: eastern rings, has been signed by Eddie Hanlon.

Wilson, from Stillman's gym, New York, has been in the city for several days, it was learned Thursday, and has been working diligently with Attaway with a view toward shaping him up properly for his return fight with Goodrich, which promises to see the fur fly in t: city auditorium.

"He's one of the best two-handed prospects I've se n in years," said Wilson Thursday. "He reminds me greatly of old George (K. O.) Chaney, of Baltimore, and their fighting style is very, very similar.

"If I'm not badly mistaken, Attaway will be boxing the finest boys in the east in a few months. He has been laid up recently with a lame arm. Hanlon tells me, but he is completely recovered from that ailment, and I expect him to whip Goodrich unmercifully."

Big Timers.

Wilson says he has been in the training camps of Benny Bass, Benny Leonard, Jack Dempsey, Tommy Loughran, Jimmy Delaney and Jack Sharkey, among others, and Hanlon declares he is one of the outstanding trainers of the nation.

"I want to : e Stiles given the right opportunity," said Eddie, "and I believe Wilson is the man to put him in top-notch condition and teach him a few tricks of the trade that he doesn't kno already."

It was also learned that Wilson is working with Sid Lucas and Young Jack Dempsey, other brilliant young Georgia fighters who will appear on the Tuesday night card.

Attractive Battles.

Hanlon, matchmaker for the Tuesday night show in the auditorium, has worked up a highly attractive series of battles, to be offered at popular prices, and the attendance is likely to be his largest yet.

Besides the Attaway-Goodrich fight of 10 rounds—they fought but six in their first meeting—Young Dempsey meets Marshall Cardwell, of LaGrange, for eight rounds; Lucas tackles the sailor boy, Lou Kelly, for six, and Mickey Fo: : : he pitted against Jo: ay Chevrolet for four. One other event will be added and it will be six rounds, which gives an aggregate of 36 rounds.

Babe Is En Route To St. Petersburg

New York, January 31.—(AP)—The mystery of the whereabouts of Babe Ruth has been cleared up by Secretary Ed Barrow, of the Yankees. He was on his way to St. Petersburg, Fla., today. His program calls for a few days of loafing before he starts light workouts in preparation for the coming campaign.

Famous Golf Shots of 1928

Nine Feet of Worry---Bang!

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON.

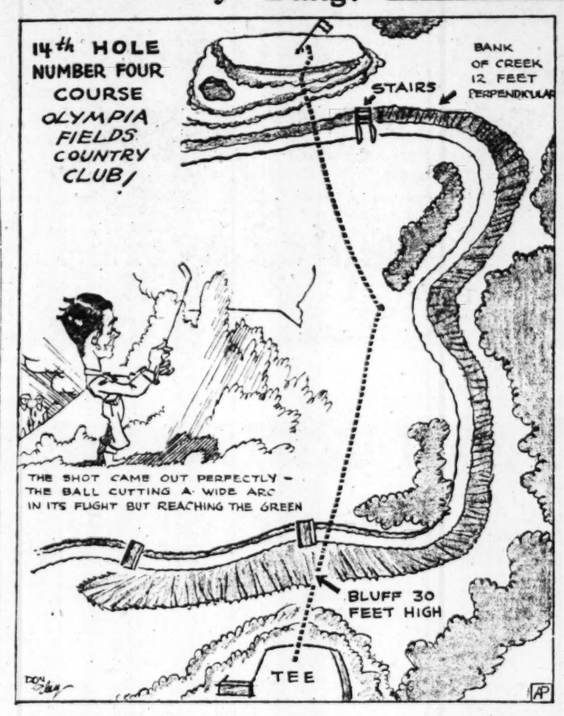

JOHNNY FARRELL felt his greatest golfing thrill when he sank that famous nine-foot putt on the 36th green to defeat Bobby Jones for the national open championship, but the shot he credits for his triumph was made with a spoon.

The shot was made by the smiling Irishman on the thirty-second hole—a 445-yard stretch—on the Olympia Fields course, where the play-off was held.

Johnny just had squared the match with the Atlanta shotmaker when they tackled the thirty-second hole. Both played good woodens well down the fairway, but Bobby's ball stopped to the left, giving him an open shot to the green, while Farrell's was to the right with a heavy willow bush between him and the green far up on the slope. Jones dericked his ball nicely and it landed 15 feet from the pin for an easy four.

Realizing a straight shot to the pin might land in the bush and an iron might find the hollow approaching the green, Farrell decided to risk a sliced spoon shot, letting the drift of the ball take it around the bush and up on the green. The shot came out perfectly, the ball cutting a wide arc in its flight, but reaching the green where he was able to halve it in four to keep even with Bobby.

"That was probably the best shot I have ever made in competition and the shot that won for me," Farrell said. "I got my greatest golfing thrill when I sank that long putt on the final green, but that spoon shot kept up my courage when just one bit of faltering would have lost everything for me."

Stribling Takes First Workout for Sharkey

Georgia Ringman To Spend Week in Acquiring Coat of Tan—In Good Shape.

Miami Beach, Fla., January 31.—(AP)—Young Stribling today went through his first training paces for his battle here on the night of February 27 with Jack Sharkey, who is due to arrive in Miami Beach tomorrow.

For the benefit of photographers and news cameramen, Stribling today skipped the rope and performed other training duties at his headquarters at Hardie's Casino. An admiring throng watched the Georgia boy go through his workout for approximately an hour, and applauded him as he performed in the ocean side and open air arena.

"I feel fine," he said after his workout. "I am in pretty good shape now, and will not do much work for a week, to guard against going stale, but when I do get down to work it will be with the idea that I will finish with enough of an edge on Sharkey to beat him."

Seeks Coat of Tan.

Stribling is more interested in getting a good coat of tan this week than in any other feature of his training, he said.

"I want to get tanned so that any possible sunburn will not interfere with steady workouts next week," he asserted.

The Georgia boy is planning to do his road work at night, he said today, so that he can top off his day's work with a jaunt over the Miami Beach landscape and then take a shower and get under the covers.

He will probably do the road work on one of the Miami Beach golf courses, he said, since the ocean front does not provide the most desirable facilities for such training.

Work On Arena Progresses.

Work on the Flamingo Park arena was progressing today, and according to Jack Dempsey the 40,000 capacity structure will be completed in ample time for the fight.

Dempsey spent the day locating approximately $50,000 worth of ticket reservations on the plan for the arena. He also superintended the opening of a ticket office in Miami.

Everything is in readiness for the reception tomorrow night of Jack Sharkey upon his arrival from Boston. The sailor, it is expected, will receive a welcome similarly effusive to that accorded Stribling last night.

SHARKEY STARTS WORK FEBRUARY 10.

Richmond, Va., January 31.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, Boston ex-sailor, who fights W. L. (Young) Stribling in Miami on February 27, said here this afternoon during a train stop that he plans to play around Miami until February 10 before starting serious training.

He gave his weight as 193 pounds and said that he was in perfect condition.

SCHMELING GETS BIGGEST CHANCE AGAINST RISKO

New York, January 31.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight importation, will get the biggest chance of his career to climb into the front rank of contenders for the title tomorrow night and he will be in better shape than he has been for any of his previous American engagements. In his ten-round battle with Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, in Madison Square Garden he will weigh 186 pounds, having put on five pounds in three weeks.

For the German, who bears a marked facial resemblance to Jack Dempsey and looks a little like him in action, it is the biggest chance of his career. A year ago Risko, with decisions over Jack Sharkey, Paulino Uzcudun and George Godfrey, was considered in the top ranks of heavyweights. Since then he has slipped back considerably, losing recently to Jimmy Maloney and Ernie Schaaf, but he has yet to become the victim of a knockout and a knockout is just what Max is going after.

DempseyHandsOut Statement Saying Fight Will Be Held

Miami Beach, Fla., January 31.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, promoter of the Sharkey-Stribling fight, tonight issued the following signed statement:

"Many stories have been published about the Sharkey-Stribling contest being abandoned or being taken to another part of the country for promotion.

"All of these stories are without foundation and are not authentic. This contest will positively be held at Miami Beach, at the Flamingo Park arena on Wednesday night, February 27.

"There is nothing I can add to this statement to make it as emphatic as I would like to have it. I have the cooperation of the state, county and city officials, the American Legion, the different chambers of commerce throughout the state, railroad heads, hotel managements, steamship lines, and the many local organizations who have banded together as a body of one to make the Sharkey-Stribling contest the major sports event of all time.

Advance Sale Strong.

"The construction of the arena is well under way, some 200 men are at work, and the structure will be completed on or about February 22. Our advance sale is well over $125,000. Tickets are in our hands and will be mailed within the next 24 hours. Sale of tickets from our box office windows has already started and a steady stream has patronized our windows all day.

"Requests by wire and telephone from all over the United States and Cuba are piling in every hour. The railroad companies are running special trains from almost every large city of the United States at a reduced rate. I might add in conclusion that any attempt to convey to the sport loving public throughout the United States by either press or person that this contest will not take place as scheduled is without foundation.

(Signed) "JACK DEMPSEY."

STATEMENT ISSUED TO SPIKE RUMORS.

Rumors were prevalent throughout the country Thursday that because of action taken by Governor Doyle E. Carlton, of Florida, ordering the sheriff at Miami to strictly enforce the state anti-gambling law, that the Stribling-Sharkey fight would not be held but transferred to a city in California. One press association Thursday afternoon quoted Dempsey as saying that the fight would be called if gambling were banned, but later corrected the statement.

Deputy sheriffs were placed at all the horse racing and dog track plants in Dade county, of which Miami is the seat Thursday afternoon but no arrests were made because of violation of the anti-gambling law.

To correct the mistaken impressions caused by the rumors Dempsey issued the signed statement published above, thus assuring the fight for Miami.

RUMOR SAYS BELL MAY GO TO BRAVE LIST

New York, January 31.—(AP)—The New York World says today that Lester Bell, third baseman of the Boston Braves, will be traded to the Chicago Cubs at the annual schedule meeting of the National league here Tuesday. The Braves will recive cash and probably a player or two.

Since the Braves claimed Joe Dugan from the Yankees by the waiver route some sort of a deal for Bell has been expected. With his former teammate Rogers Hornsby, Bell is counted on to give the Cubs one of the strongest infields in the circuit. Third base was one of the weak spots in the Chicago machine last year, with Clyde Beck, who occupied the position most of the time hitting only .257.

First Petrel Scrimmage Booked Today

Robby Pleased With Progress Team Has Made in 10 Days' Work.

BY DONALD GRAY.

Coach Harry Robertson, assisted by his able assistant, Nutty Campbell, has spring football well in hand out on Peachtree road and will scrimmage his team this afternoon. The boys are in first class shape after going through ten days of limbering up exercises, signal drills, running back punts and the like. Coach Harry is well pleased with the progress the team has made this early in the season.

This afternoon will be the first call for the real showdown of the knowledge gained by the Birds in their recent practice. The scrimmage will be held at 3 o'clock.

There has been a greater amount of interest shown in football this year than ever before because Oglethorpe stands a better chance of having a championship team this year than ever before. Losing only four men by graduation is enough to make the outlook better than usual, and besides next year the Petrels will play their home games in their own back yard. A section of Hermance stadium, which when completed will cost approximately $100,000, will be ready by the season's opening next year.

The freshman squad of last season is a big asset to the coach, as it was one of the best teams in the country. They are all working hard for a berth on the next year's squad and it seems that some of them at least will make the grade. If no more handicaps fall from now on the Stormy Petrels will be champions in the coming season.

Mercer Defeats N. C. State, 39-31

Macon, Ga., January 31.—(AP)—Mercer university's Bears defeated the North Carolina State Wolfpack here tonight by the score of 39 to 31 in a basketball game replete with thrills. The Bears took the lead at the start and maintained it throughout, the Carolinians threatening only in the last few minutes of play.

Mallard and Campbell, forwards, led the Bear offensive, Mallard compiling 16 points and his running mate accounting for an even dozen. Johnson, North Carolina State's whirlwind guard, led his teammates in scoring honors, getting eight markers.

The Carolinians played their second string men for the first seven minutes and sent in their regulars after the Bruins had swept into a 20 to 7 lead.

Phil Scott Wins Bout on Foul

London, January 31.—(United Press.)—Phil Scott, heavyweight champion of England, won on a foul in the fifth round of a scheduled 15-round bout with Ted Sandwina, Jewish-American heavyweight, before a crowd of 8,000 in Albert Hall tonight. The match was advertised for the heavyweight championship of Europe. The state money and purse amounted to $17,500.

Sandwina was pummelling Scott's body with both fists in the fifth when the fighters went into a clinch. Sandwina shot his left out and it struck the British heavyweight low. Referee Norman Clark disqualified Sandwina and awarded the victory to Scott.

Charging Desertion Hagen Seeks Divorce

Los Angeles, Calif., January 31.—(AP)—Charging that his wife had deserted him nearly two years ago, Walter Hagen, noted golfer, filed suit for divorce here today.

The British open champion declared he had "been kind and indulgent and had always provided an excellent home and used every care for her happiness and welfare," but that his wife, Edna C. Hagen, left him March 5, 1927, at St. Petersburg, Fla., and had refused to return.

Tech Preps For Saturday Vandy Tilt

Jacket Coach Fighting Over-Confidence Among Cagers; Frosh Play Saturday.

BY HERB CLARK.

Roy Mundorff's cage squad, which bears the name of the Yellow Jackets, with just half of its collegiate schedule completed, and ruling the conference heap, is spending as much time as possible in preparing for the coming of Vandy's Commodores, who will appear at the flats to do battle on Saturday.

The Jackets are at the top of the conference listings in percentage, having gone through six games without the loss of a single one. They are feared now more than ever since their hard-earned victory over Georgia's Bulldogs last week in a game which saw Mundorff's crew overcome a nine-point lead to send their own colors out in front, only to see the Georgians come back and win a three-point advantage. The Jackets refused to be licked, however, and a last-minute spurt gave them a one-point lead at the final whistle.

Still Lack Polish.

In that fray the Jackets showed that they were a powerful but not a polished quintet yet. Their victory was won by an irresistible drive.

And Mundorff now faces a dual task. He must work overtime in an effort to convert his squad of fighters into a smooth running machine, in itself a difficult job with the material on hand, which still shows its greenness, and at the same time he must keep up a strong fighting spirit. A team which has not been conceded much of a chance for fame at the start of its season, and which then goes on through half of its schedule without dropping even one game is apt to grow a bit cocky. The uprooting of this cockiness, so that it may not cause a defeat, is the Tech coach's second job, and it is by no means the least important.

The Jackets, too, are working at all hours. They must put in their time on the court, and at the same time save out plenty of odd moments for study to the end that the faculty will see fit to be generous with passing grades at the end of this final exam period at the flats.

Numerous Scrimmages.

Scrimmages have been the order of the day at the Jacket gym lately, and particular attention is being paid to Red Williamson, the little spark who set off the Jacket fireworks Saturday. It is probable that the same lineup will face Vandy Saturday as that which took the court at the starting whistle against the Bulldogs.

The yearling squad at the flats has a game scheduled with Riverside for Saturday, and they have been taking part in some stiff scrimmages of their own, as well as facing the varsity when the two outfits graced the floor with their presence at the same time. It is not known at present whether Bill Fincher, freshman mentor, will play his game in the afternoon or as a preliminary to the main go, but this latter time is probably being favored.

FAMOUS INDIANS, PARKS, CHAMBERS TO PLAY SUNDAY

The famous Indian team which defeated Tubby Walton's All Stars Tuesday night at the auditorium, will perform again for Atlanta fans Sunday afternoon when it meets the Parks-Chambers five at Fort McPherson, at 3:30 o'clock.

While this game is good enough to attract a number of people, another has been arranged as a preliminary to start at 2:30 o'clock when the Governor's Horse Guard five, one of the best teams in the City league, meets the 22nd Infantry team. These two outfits are rivals of long standing and any encounter between them is always exciting.

Many persons who saw the Indians perform Tuesday night expressed a desire to see them in action again and accordingly the game with the Parks-Chambers five, of which Jimmy Harbison is manager and Howard Holt coach, was arranged. Several local stars such as Tom Angley, Nick George, Arthur McHenry, Flake Laird and others are members of the team which is yet undefeated.

The Indians, of course, have their two forwards, High Sky and Lightfoot, whom some think are the best in the game today. Their work was pleasing to fans at the auditorium and should attract a number of fans Sunday afternoon.

Basketball

CITY LEAGUE.

Pattillo Memorial girls won a close game from the Southern Railway, 9 to 7, in the opening number of the City league series Thursday night. It was the closest game played in the city loop this year, and was tied twice when the final pistol sounded. At the end of the regular playing time the count was 6 to 6, and at the end of the first extra period it stood 7 and 7. During the second extra period the Pattillo team counted two more when Holt shot a nice one, and they won by the two-point margin. R. Adams played a fine game for Southern and Holt was the main performer for Pattillo.

Gulf trimmed Southern by the comfortable score of 28 to 12. They were clicking right, and downed the railroaders in spite of the addition of Wilder to the latter's lineup. The A. A. C. Reds faced the Horseguards after a shakeUp in their lineup, and won 37 to 7. At the half they led 20 to 0, and a few stray ones in the second half was the total crop for the Horseguards.

A Few Figures.

IT'S right interesting sometimes to haul out the pencil and paper, not to mention the slip-stick and adding machine, long enough to break out in a rash of statistics. Mostly statistics don't mean a whale of a lot but, also mostly, they are interesting.

In view of the fact that rumors are going around that Atlanta may be the scene of a heavyweight fight some of these days it is interesting to guess something about how much such events mean to a community and state in the matter of income. Too often we are likely to look at the large amount of money taken OUT of the state by beneficiaries in such an event and not consider what is LEFT.

JUST for fun let's figure that Jack Dempsey is more than half right when he says there will be at least 40,000 fans at the Stribling-Sharkey fight this month in Miami Beach. To make it easier we can figure at exactly 40,000 fans. It is also safe to figure that one-half of this number or 20,000 fans will not be residents of the state. Of this number probably 10,000 persons coming into the state for the scrap will remain over for a few days. To strike an average let's make it a week for 10,000 in some part of Florida before or after the embroglio. A conservative estimate of expenditure in this case would be $50 per person or $500,000 left in the state by these. If the other 10,000 just came in for the fight and went right out again they would spend at least $10 per person with the hotels, restaurants, speakeasies and such before leaving. That's another $100,000 for home consumption.

Now the Madison Square Garden corporation is not building a huge stadium and maintaining expensive offices and a mammoth detail business in Florida without some expense. To be safe let's set that figure at $100,000 for all expenses. That makes $700,000 in total and does not make provision for the neatly polished gold bricks that will be sold by less desirable Florida citizens to certain of the pilgrims come to worship at the shrine of fisticuffs during the big passover. Ain't that interesting, now? Doesn't mean a thing but it's interesting.

Plenty of Confidence.

WHATEVER may be the weakness of the Y. M. H. A. basketball team that comes from Chattanooga Sunday night to play the Jewish Progressive club, it most certainly is not lack of confidence.

A letter reaching our desk this morning from Len Adams of Chattanooga is fairly blooming with the essence of confidence. He not only declares that the J. P. C. outfit has no more chance than a cottontail rabbit in a pack of hounds, but he says the Y. M. H. A. outfit will be glad to remain over another day if they will be given the privilege of beating the Atlanta Athletic club that night.

IN all fairness to our correspondent it should be said that some of his confidence seems to be merited. The Chattanooga Hebrew outfit beat the Penn-Dixies the other night by one point and has lost but two games this season in a rather difficult schedule. The local Hebrews may place a permanent wave in their confidence Sunday. Such things have happened.

Frank Zoeller Signs '29 Cracker Contract

Diminutive Outfielder Signs Up Following Conference With Spiller—Three More In.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

That diminutive person you'll see scrambling up and down the high bank in right field this summer at Spiller's will be Frankie Zoeller, of the St. Louis Zoellers.

This much was assured Thursday when the half-pint, following a conference with Colonel Rell Jackson Spiller, put the weight of his fist upon a 1929 contract binding him to play baseball for Atlanta during the coming summer. Zoeller is here on a few days' visit.

It is the fourth signed contract that has arrived since Colonel Spiller opened the holdout season a week ago by mailing contracts to 27 prospective Crackers. Jack Sheehan, purchased by the colonel for the purpose of playing second base, has sent in his contract. Mr. Spiller has assured us, on more than one occasion, that Sheehan is going to be an important half of one of the best keystone combinations Atlanta has ever seen. The other half will be in the person of either Johnny Jones or Leo Bader. We hope the colonel is correct.

Two Pitchers Signed.

The other two contracts, all signed and filed away in the office on Ponce de Leon, are from pitchers—Mr. "Bunkum" Morris and a Ralph Griffith. Morris, a throwing gentleman of the right-handed persuasion, was with Albany, of the Southeastern, last year. Griffith is one of the seven southpaws who'll come piling in here on March 11. He "flung" in the Eastern Shore organization last summer and since he is credited with 19 games won and six lost, then it's to be supposed that he is a right good sort of pitcher. But more of that later.

Outside of the quartet of contracts, there aren't any more. The rest are expected to come drifting in sooner or later. Baseball players, peculiar in many ways, are most peculiar about contracts. There never was one yet who didn't think that each spring he was entitled to a raise. Whether or not they are doesn't matter here. But they receive a contract and after looking at it from every angle, sit down to write the club president a letter about it and use up reams of paper in starting off, tearing that up and starting again.

And that's the way holdouts get started, for by the time the player gets his letter written it's time to report or past time.

Plenty of Time.

But there's plenty of time yet and the affixing of Zoeller's name to a contract is enough to please Spiller for another week, at least.

And speaking of Zoeller reminds us that the Crackers this year will stand distinctly apart from the others in one thing. Zoeller and Rube Robinson, both of whom came here from Little Rock, are the only two players who have been in the league steadily since 1920.

Zoeller had a good year last season and from the way he talks now, he's going to have a better one in 1929. He is in good shape and is going back to St. Louis today to take up his favorite indoor sport of handball, which keeps him in trim. After the sun begins to get really hot, along about the middle of June, then Rube Robinson will be ready to go.

Gets Big Offer.

Andy Blair, sensational hockey star with the Toronto Maple Leafs, has drawn an offer of $25,000. Already $75,000 has been realized in sales and trades.

Both Games Scheduled Out of Town

University and Marist Clash This Afternoon in Local Tilt.

Atlanta's two leading prep teams, both of them yet undefeated in the city, take to the road tonight for hard games over the week-end. Boys' High, said by some to have the best team in the city, will engage the Clemson freshmen at Clemson, S. C., tonight while in Chattanooga Tech High will play McCallie tonight and Central High tomorrow night.

There will also be two games here at home with University and Marist, ancient rivals, tangling this afternoon on the Marist court. Tonight, at Decatur, the high school team of that town is slated to meet the Marietta aggregation in a game that should prove interesting.

Boys' High has an excellent team this season but Coach Johnston's boys will be severely tested when they meet the Tiger freshmen. In addition to the natural advantage that a college freshman team has over a high school outfit, the Tiger cubs are highly rated over in their state.

Hard Tilts for Smithies.

Tech High is also expected to run into a couple of hard games in Chattanooga. Mott and English, accurate scorers of the Smithy five, will be hard put to pull their team out on top, according to all reports coming from Chattanooga. Tech High has a splendid offense and good defense, however, and is expected to make an impressive showing in the Lookout city.

University has received more than one setback this season, having gotten off to a late start, but is expected to give Bean's Marist team a hard scrap. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

COMMERCIAL FIVE DOWNS FULTON.

In a thrilling game Commercial High defeated Fulton on the Fulton court Thursday by a score of 34-25. Commercial opened the fracas but was overtaken at one time when the DeKalb county lads had a 8 to 2 lead over the Typists. At the half the score was 16-11 in favor of the Typists.

Commercial opened the second half by shooting six points in rapid succession. For the Typists, Dwoskin played a very good game, shooting 18 points and Bodne 11. The guarding of Epstein was an outstanding feature of this close battle. For the losers, Conyers and Roberts played a good game.

Nurmi Beats Fair Field at Newark

Newark, N. J., January 31.—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi threaded his way through a field of 12 lesser runners tonight to win a special two-mile handicap run from scratch in the fair time of nine minutes, 19 3-5 seconds. It was Nurmi's third start and third victory of his current American campaign.

Nurmi romped in a quarter of a lap or more than 40 yards ahead of F. C. Bayley, of the New York A. C., who had a handicap of 75 yards and finished second. Irving Totten, Millrose A. A., with 125 yards handicap, was third, ten yards behind Bayley, and Nat Lerner, of New York university, 75 yards, was fourth.

Glenna in Hard Fight.

Pinehurst, N. C., January 31.—(United News.)—Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, R. I., national women's golf champion, was given a close battle today in the first round of match play in the second annual women's mid-southern open tournament of Pine Needles Country club, finally triumphing over Mrs. J. D. Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., by a 2 and 1 margin.

COUNCIL ACTS TO CALL BOOTH OR HIS PROXY

Action Taken To Conform With Ruling in Injunction Proceeding.

London, January 31.—(AP)—The high council of the Salvation Army assembled informally at the international headquarters here today and decided to meet formally tomorrow and invite General Bramwell Booth either to appear in person or send a representative before the council within a week.

This action was taken to conform with the decision given yesterday in court by Sir Harry T. Eve, judge of the chancery division. The justice enjoined the council from proceeding further in its deposing of General Booth until he had been given opportunity to place his own case before the adjudicating body.

Tomorrow's action will be in the form of a resolution conveying the invitation to General Booth.

The American army commander, Miss Evangeline Booth, was not present at today's conference. She was suffering from a slight cold, but expected to be able to attend the formal session tomorrow. Miss Booth is considered by many councillors to be the outstanding candidate for her brother's post of command.

BUCKLEY ON STAND IN OWN DEFENSE IN DRY LAW CASE

Columbus, Ohio, January 31.—(AP)—State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley took the witness stand today in his trial in federal court for attempted bribery and conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and denied that he had any criminal connection with an alleged plot to "tip off" Cincinnati breweries of impending federal inspections.

Buckley declared that the plot which the government claims was designed to warn the breweries to get rid of their illicit beer, was suggested to him last October by John L. Eckhart, assistant federal prohibition administrator for the Ohio-Indiana district.

Eckhart is the man to whom Buckley is alleged to have offered $300 a month for advance information of federal inspection for which the breweries, in turn, were to pay $5 for each half barrel of illicit beer produced.

Contradicting Eckhart's testimony two days previous that the state treasurer proposed the scheme, Buckley said he first learned of it from Eckhart and declined to become involved. He said he suggested that if Eckhart wanted to furnish "tips" to the breweries he do it himself. Eckhart's answer, the treasurer testified, was that he believed such an arrangement would lead to detection.

Buckley admitted that he introduced two Cincinnati attorneys, named as co-conspirators, to Eckhart, and that he received $250 from them. But this money, he explained, was a contribution to his campaign fund, for he was running for re-election at the time. One of the attorneys, John L. Schrimper and Joseph Sperber, brewmaster for the Jackson Brewing company, of Cincinnati, were indicted with Buckley and pleaded guilty. The other attorney, Adolph A. Gruber, escaped indictment by testifying before the grand jury.

ISOLATED BY SNOW, TOWN GETS FIRST MAIL IN 9 DAYS

Fayette, Mich., January 31.—(AP)—Residents of this city, marooned by the blizzard that swept over the upper peninsula district of Michigan last week, yesterday received their first mail in nine days. There was no communication with the railroad 11 miles north except by ski and snow shoe travel.

Accustomed to hard winters, Fayette had stocked up on food supplies and during the nine-day period of isolation there was a shortage of nothing but incoming mail.

Fairport, at the end of the peninsula, was still snow-bound and it was problematical when the rotary plow would get through. No word has been received of conditions there as telephone lines were down.

Drifts 12 feet deep were common after the big storm and belated tales of the fight with the blizzard a week ago have been told since the road was opened. At one school farmers battled until 3 a. m. Wednesday to get their children home from the previous day's session.

ARKANSAS HOUSE BODY APPROVES SUNDAY BASEBALL

Little Rock, Ark., January 31.—(AP)—The house committee of the Arkansas legislature on cities and towns today reported the Sunday baseball bill recommending that it pass. A minority report by Neale, of Sebastian, and Windham, of Miller, also was presented.

Donham, of Pulaski county, author of the bill, said he would call it up for third reading and final passage tomorrow.

The bill would be called up today except that under the rules a bill has to be printed 48 hours before it is called up. The measure was introduced yesterday.

Donham said he did not anticipate a fight on the floor and predicted passage of the bill.

FIRE IS DISCOVERED IN VESSEL'S HOLD AT BOSTON PIER

Boston, January 31.—(AP)—Fire was discovered today in the forward hold of the seamer City of Chattanooga, of the Savannah line, while the vessel was tied up at a pier near the navy yard in Charlestown. The ship arrived here during the night with a cargo of jute.

Market Almost Completely Recovers From Weakness

New York, January 31.—(AP)—The curb market today made almost complete recovery from yesterday's weakness, but showed a disposition to swap mounts in midstream. The credit situation appeared to be more comfortable, and buyers became active again, but transferred much of their attention from the utilities to the airplane issues. Buying was rather selective, however, and there was some profit taking. Curb officials announced that beginning Monday volume of sales would be omitted from the ticker except at the opening.

To expectations of consolidations, reports of increasing business and a general development of air-mindedness on the part of the public was ascribed the sudden popularity of airplane and allied issues. Aviation corporation and Boeing were lifted 3 1-2 and 5 points, respectively, to new high, while National Aviation advanced 3 points and Fokker about 2. Douglas, Travelair and one or two others encountered profit taking at higher levels. Niles Bement Pond was among the allied issues to advance, soaring to a new high at above 239, and then breaking to close at 228 1-8, up more than 10 points net.

Kennecott, Newmont, Phelps Dodge and St. Anthony Gold were leaders in the mining group, New Jersey Zinc declined nearly 10 points. Standard of Indiana was one of the most heavily traded oils, closing up 2 points. Vacuum closed up 3 points and Penn Mex Fuel added another 4 points.

Checker Cab again led the automotives, soaring 7 1-4 points to a new high at 86. Radio shares were in demand, with Grogsby Grunow advancing 7 points.

Among industrials reaching new peaks were Alabama Great Southern preferred, Casein Co., Curtis Publishing preferred, United Shoe Machinery, International Cigar Machinery, National Family Stores, Hygrade Food Products, Goldman Sacks, General Electric of England, General Bronze, American Colortype, Aluminum Goods Manufacturing, Spiegel May Stern preferred and Pratt & Lambert.

Associated Gas & Electric warrants, with a net gain of more than 14 points, assumed the leadership of the utilities, followed closely by American Light and Traction, American Gas and Electric, the Central States Electric issues, Electric Investors preferred, Tampa Electric, Power Company of Canada and others, all invading new high territory. Electric Bond and Share was pushed down nearly 5 points net.

The Day in Finance

By R. L. BARNUM

While Rails Are Advancing on Stock Market Much Profit-Taking Goes on in Public Utility Issues.

New York, January 31.—Stocks opened irregular. Industrials were heavy the first hour. Then the rails began to get active on advancing prices, turning pretty much the whole market face about. Rails were up anywhere from 2 to 5 points or more for active shares. While these stocks were advancing considerable profit taking was going on in public utilities, which was conspicuous for strength and activity yesterday. Rails were quiter. Motors in spots were soft.

Disinterested stock market observers, meaning those not having a personal interest on either the long or short side, do not like the way the stock market has been acting for several days. Until recently all signs pointed to a continuation of the big broad bull stock market. Today there is a widespread inclination to get out of stocks that are not moving and into stocks having a wide daily price swing. Leaders of the market, taking advantage of this tendency on the part of the big outside public, are manipulating one group of tocks after another. One day it is coppers, the next public utilities, the next rails. In the meantime distribution of long stocks by large holders is going on at a rapid pace.

Interest in rails started today over widespread discussion of the first 67 December earnings statements showing aggregate gross at $424,000,000, up 9 per cent, compared with the previous year, with net operating income at $75,000,000, up no less than 64 per cent. This large gain in net was made mostly by reducing expenditures for maintenance of roadbed and equipment. However, the increase in gross is encouraging. For a year until recently the monthly statements showed a decline in gross.

But the interesting news of the day regarding the rails is found in the very successful offering of $35,000,000 15-year 5 per cent Allegheny corporation bonds at par. The opening quotation "when issued" was at 110, showing a premium of 10 points. Around noon it was announced that all of the bonds had been sold with the books closed, the offering was oversubscribed.

This is the new investment trust formed by the Van Sweringens and their associates to take over their personal holdings of Chesapeake and Ohio, Erie, Nickel Plate, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh. The company will have railroad stocks in the companies named with $84,000,000 at present open market values. It will have $46,000,000 cash when the financing now under way is completed.

This financing includes today's public offering of $35,000,000 bonds, an offering tomorrow of $25,000,000 preferred stock and later an offering of common stock. The company will have capitalization of $35,000,000 bonds, 1,000,000 shares of preferred and 7,500,000 shares of common. For the present 250,000 shares of preferred and 3,500,000 shares of common will be outstanding. In addition warrants are going with the offering of preferred and common stock entitling the holders to subscribe to common stock at $30 a share to the extent of 2,100,000 shares of common. This means that a bonus of 2,100,000 shares of common stock at $30 a share will go with the offerings of stock.

Cottonseed Oil.

NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 31.—The market for cotton oil futures ruled steady and a shade firmer in the late trading today in sympathy with cotton and firm crude prices. Prime summer yellow oil closed at 9.60, up 10 points, and prime crude at 8.75 to 9.00. Futures closed steady. February 9.65; March 9.70; May 9.80; July 9.95; September 10.08.

NEW YORK.

New York, January 31.—Cottonseed oil ruled quiet today. Prices moved irregularly lower on reselling by recent buyers and less aggressive support from refiners and packers. Irregularity of lard, decline in hogs and a sharp reaction in grains were mainly responsible for the selling. Final prices 1 to 8 points lower. Sales 5,000 barrels. Prime crude 9.00; prime summer yellow spot 10.50; March 10.57; May 10.71; July 10.93; September 11.05.

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, January 31.—(Special.)—Today's market showed a stronger tone than has been seen for several sessions, helped along by a one-point decline in the money rate.

While still recommending long pull commitments in United Gas Improvement, we note that utilities are acting "tired" and recommend closing out speculative commitments in National Power & Light, Electric Power & Light, American & Foreign Power and others which have shown advances of 25 per cent or more in two weeks time.

JACKSON BROS., BOESEL & CO.

New York, January 31.—(Special.)—The outstanding news development of the day concerns the revival of railroad unification negotiations. As stated exclusively in our letter of yesterday, the first plan to reappear for consideration is the alignment of a group of rails around the Baltimore and Ohio and Reading. We can state that conferences have been held on this subject in Baltimore during the past few days.

We anticipate that a formal application will be made to the interstate commerce commission. Wabash and Western Maryland, as well as several smaller roads, are mentioned in connection with the B. & O. unification scheme.

We, therefore, look for switching from industrials into rails and this is a development which will meet with favor in banking circles. It will have a bearing on collateral loans, the added diversification making them even more desirable to corporations and individuals who have money to loan in Wall street. We think this is a very important point.

H. & B. BEER.

New York, January 31.—(Special.)—On January 11 we called attention to the situation in the steel industry, particularly as it affected United States Steel. The stock has since responded, but Bethlehem has been lagging. The situation in Bethlehem was analyzed December 11. Essentially, the latter report is still up to date, but since that time there have been one or two new developments worth noting.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, January 31.—(Special.)—The market was under pressure from short selling and liquidation during the early trading and prices slipped a little while this selling was being absorbed.

The offerings apparently taken by trade interests fixing prices on spot cotton. Trade interests continued to buy steadily during the day and held the market steady. Its steadiness and resistance to pressure finally induced ome early sellers to cover. This covering lifted prices above the previous close.

Most of the selling was based on rumors of domestic mill curtailment and threat of strikes or lockout in Great Britain and Germany. About 350,000 German textile workers were threatened with a lockout.

Trading sentiment is largely reactionary but market is showing unexpected resistance owing to price fixing by trade interests and is absorbing the selling easily.

HUBBARD BROS. CO.

New York, January 31.—(Special.)—There was a little better demand from the trade on the opening, heavy selling being absorbed easily with prices unchanged. The continued liquidation of stale holdings continued, however, and buying was not enough to absorb the offerings and prices eased off to new lows. There was stubborn resistance around 60 for March, the market recovering the early loss and remaining quiet and steady during the afternoon, closing strong on local and uptown buying 10 up for the day.

We feel, while there might be small advances from time to time, due to the technical position, there is nothing in the present situation to cause any big change in price, and we rather expect the present easy market to continue.

Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: March 10.16, May 10.23.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orleans, January 31.—(Special.)—Following in the wake of possible labor troubles in Lancashire cotton mills, reports today of possible labor troubles in the spinning districts of Germany, depressed the cotton market in early session but good support was encountered on the dip, values recovering later in the session.

Both the continent and Lancashire are probably anxious to maintain mill activity in order to retain their trade and it is doubtful that drastic measures will be resorted to and it is possible that the labor disputes will be amicably settled.

Sentiment apparently is more bearish than otherwise because of the near approach of the season for planting for the next crop. In this connection we are disposed to entertain a favorable opinion of market since preparations for next crop are reported somewhat backward generally.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New York, January 31.—(Special.)—For the first time this week cotton closed today higher than the previous day. The net gain was of moderate proportions to be sure but it represented an advance of about 15 points from the lows of the morning on active months and demonstrated that for the moment at least buying was in the ascendency.

Liverpool at our opening was somewhat better than due but the strength there was of a corrective nature as we failed to follow their decline yesterday. There was some outside buying on the steady cables but not enough to offset liquidation. Prices soon eased to the previous lows of the month on active options but met resistance there and on trade buying and short covering rallied sharply to close at the highs of the day.

The only news of particular interest was the reported cable from the Japanese consul at Kobe to the effect that activity in Japanese cotton mills in December was higher than in November and in the corresponding month last year and stocks of cotton and yarn are well below those of a year ago.

It is believed the present order curtailing mill output by 24 per cent will be removed during the first half of 1929.

Today's rally was probably a technical one and while we expect higher prices eventually we think caution should be observed in following the advance toward the 20-cent level for March and May.

May Liverpool due 10.23.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, January 31.—(AP)—Crop-scare buying made wheat values jump today, but predictions of comparative warmth tomorrow west forced profit-taking that more than wiped price gains out. Earlier, the chief factor was fear that extensive damage to winter wheat would result from severe low temperatures and unprotected fields, especially in Nebraska.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at the same as yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-8c to 3-4c at 7-8c off. Oats 1-4c at 3-8c to 3-8c down and provisions varying from 5c setback to an equal advance.

Highest prices of the day in wheat came right at the outset, under the lowest were just at the close. Nebraska advices received during the opening transactions told of 15-below-zero temperatures and of entire absence of snow in numerous places. All over the state the crop outlook was described as very unpromising, and there was word also of frigid conditions in Kansas and Missouri, with a cold wave looked for tonight thorughout Illinois and Indiana.

Uncertainty, however, whether actual damage to wheat would prove to be severe, and the fact that this uncertainty is bound to prevail to a greater or less extent for more than a month yet was an incentive to selling as the days wore on. Especially as rising temperatures appeared probable tomorrow this side of the Rockies. On the other hand, export call for wheat from North America was better, and purchases today for shipment to Europe was estimated at 600,000 bushels. Meanwhile, too, a good deal of talk was current that the general run of crop comments from rural sources indicated much belief among farmers that crop injury this season has been more extensive than is usual.

Argentine advices of widespread rain had a weakening effect on the corn market, although drought damage to part of the Argentine corn crop was reported as beyond repair. Current estimates today put the Argentine exportable corn surplus this season at 100,000,000 bushels less than that of last season. Oats today were unsettled, but averaged lower with corn and wheat.

Packers' selling and down turns in hog values tended to ease down the provision market.

Sugar.

New York, January 31.—Raw sugar was easier today under increased offerings and moderate inquiry. Buyers showed no disposition to pay above 3.77 for spots, duty paid. Holders asked 3.80. Sales included 15,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment to a local refiner at 3.80 and 15,000 bags of Cuban for February shipment to an outport refiner at 3.78¼ delivered.

Early steadiness in raw futures caused increased hedge selling and was followed by reactions. Price movements generally were small. The market opened unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and some commission house buying. It reacted under selling by houses with trade and Cuban connections, probably promoted by increased spot offerings and a larger European beet sugar crop estimate. Final prices were at about the lowest of the session and from unchanged to 2 points below the previous close. A prominent European crop authority in his final estimate of the European beet sugar crop placed the yield at 8,337,000 metric tons, comparing with his end December figure of 8,247,000 and last year's outturn of 8,041,000. Approximate sales 42,400 tons. March closed 2.00; May 2.09; July 2.16; September 2.17; December 2.21; January 2.19.

Total bond sales (par value) $11,213,000.

New York, January 31.—(AP)—Alleghany Corporation convertible 5s, traded in for the first time, attracted a flood of buying orders in today's bond market and quickly sold at a premium of from 7 to 10 1-2 points. Other convertibles were strong, particularly the utilities, although the general tone of the market was weak. Sales totaled $11,213,000 compared to $9,839,000. Time money eased to 7 1-2 per cent for all maturities.

Oversubscription of the $35,000,000 bond offering of Alleghanay corporation, holding company for the Van Sweringen brothers' railway securities, reflected the easier money conditions and growing demand for bonds with speculative possibilities. The bonds, issued at 100, opened at 108 1-2, shot up to 110 1-2, later reacted and closed at 107 3-8. Trading in this issue accounted for approximately a sixth of the day's total sales.

Strength of coppers on the "big board" was mirrored in a 4 1-2 point advance in Anaconda Copper 7s. Other convertibles to reach new peaks were International Telephone 4 1-2s and Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s. The latter, however, lost all of their gain on profit-taking and closed 2 1-2 points net lower. Nassau Electric 4s and New Haven 3 1-2s each gained a point.

Utilities as a group were heavy, but trading was confined principally to issues with conversion privileges. Industrials showed improvement, with International Cement moving up 1 3-4 points.

Trading was dull in the foreign list. Pirelli 7s dropped 2 1-2 points. U. S. government obligations were firmer.

New York, January 31.—(AP)—After declining early under further liquidation, the cotton market rallied today on trade buying and covering. May, which sold off to 19.62 under early pressure, advanced to 19.80 and closed at 19.79. The general market closed firm at net advances of 8 to 17 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points in response to steadier showing of Liverpool and the market for Egyptian cotton at Alexandria. The demand was limited, however, the initial advance met a renewal of liquidation from Wall street, southern and local sources which soon turned prices easier. Notwithstanding Liverpool's showing apprehension of labor troubles in Lancashire may have increased the disposition of old longs to liquidate their holdings. There was also comment on reports of labor troubles in one of the textile sections of Germany.

Prices made new low ground for the present movement, selling off to 19.60 for March and 18.93 for new October contracts, or about 7 to 9 points net lower. Offerings, however, tapered off enough to suggest that liquidation had pretty well run its course around these figures, there also appeared to be more trade demand. This started some covering by recent sellers, and the market was firmer during the afternoon. March sold up to 19.79 and the new October contracts to 19.17 in the late trading. Closing prices were within a point or two of the best.

The afternoon rally was accompanied by talk of a firmer technical position as result of the recent liquidation. Part of the buying was believed to represent expectations over reaction from the decline of about 80 points from the high prices touched during the middle of the month. New crop months on which had been easy yesterday, were relatively steady today. May sold about 63 points over the new October contract at the close, compared with a difference of 71 points at the close of yesterday.

Liverpool cables reported continental buying with trade calling, and covering in the market there. The market for Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria was about 5 to 18 points net higher. Exports for the day were 61,761 and 5,623,729 for the season. Port receipts 38,409. United States port stocks, 2,252,301.

COTTON RECOVERS OVER $1 A BALE.

New Orleans, January 31.—(AP)—Good trade buying and price fixing which started covering by shorts was responsible for a recovery of over $1 a bale from an early decline in the cotton market today. Reports of labor trouble in Berlin and talk of mill curtailment caused May contracts to ease off to 18.98 but the subsequent rally carried the option to 19.18 and it closed at 19.17, net 9 points up. The general market closed steady at net declines of 8 to 10 points.

Liverpool cables were higher than due at the start here and first trades showed advances of 2 to 4 points. Prices improved a little further after the start until active positions showed net gains of 2 to 5 points but the slight bulge attracted selling which became general when a cable was received from Berlin stating that 350,000 mill workers faced a lockout as a result of labor disputes.

Before the offerings were checked March sold down to 18.94 and May and July to 18.98 or 11 to 15 points down from the early high and 9 to 10 points under the previous close. A good trade demand developed on the scale down and there was evidence of price fixing which induced covering and by mid-afternoon all the early loss was recovered.

The highs of the day were made in final trading when March sold at 19.15, May 19.18 and July 19.17 or 19 to 21 points above the lows. Final prices were at or near the top.

Receipts 29,449; for week 138,253; for year 7,916,858; last year 6,755,553. Exports 61,761; for week 130,168; for year 5,463,374; last year 4,490,575. Stocks 2,303,341; last year 2,354,972. Stocks on shipboard 149,066; last year 138,881. Spot sales 15,139; last year 19,876.

New York, January 31.—(AP)—With a sudden shift of favor from the utilities to the rails, and abetted by an unexpected ease in money rates, the bulls regained complete control of the stock market today after several days of marked irregularity. Nearly two score issues, in which rails, coppers and chemical were prominent, were bid up to record highs for extended periods.

The market opened strong on the announcement that the Bank of England had left its rediscount rate unchanged, apparently leaving the way open for further imports of gold from London. Call money held at 7 per cent all day, despite the fact that nearly $400,000,000 in interests and dividends will be paid out tomorrow.

The rate touched 8 per cent yesterday and was expected to equal if not exceed that figure today, and the unexpected easiness was interpreted as indicating that use had been made of the $7,500,000 in gold received from London this week A distinctly favorable development was an ease in time money, which was quoted at 7 1-2 per cent for all maturities

Wall street showed little concern over the brokers' loan compilation this week as a further increase was expected as a result of the heavy new financing, rather than speculative activity, which has been marked by liquidation in recent sessions. The federal reserve rediscount rate was left unchanged.

The increase in brokers' loans, announced after the close, of $116,000,000, however, execdeed expectations by a wide margin. The New York banks came to the support of the call money market for the first time since the year-end, increasing their loans by about $80,000,000. The brokerage loan total has been increased during the past three months by nearly $250,000,000, reaching a new high record at $5,559,000,000, an increase of about 45 per cent in the past year.

In its monthly bulletin the New York reserve bank for the first time called attention to the sharp increases in the account of brokers loan "for others," warning that this situation makes the future of the call money market rather precarious, as such funds have been attracted to the market by unusual conditions, and are subject to sudden withdrawal when conditions change.

The day's news generally was regarded as bullish, including a 50-cent extra dividend by Packard, institution of 1 per cent quarterly stock dividend by Studebaker, heavy buying of copper, giving rise to talk of a further increase in red metal prices, and a large increase in freight car loadings for the week ended January 19 over the previous week and the like week a year ago.

Du Pont was the day's high flier, reflecting the 40 per cent increase in earnings for 1928. The old stock mounted 70 points, and the new stock, created by a 3 1-2 for 1 split up, 20 points, both to record highs.

Buying of the rails was stimulated by formation of the new Van Sweringen holding company unconfirmed reports that the Baltimore & Ohio at its meeting yesterday drew up a petition to the I. C. C. to acquire certain other roads, the excellent December net operating income reports, averaging over 60 per cent ahead of December, 1927, and the tendency of the banks to favor rail stock collateral against loans.

Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Erie, St. Louis Southwestern, New York Central, Atchison, Rock Island and New Haven mounted from about 4 to 8 points, and several others gained 2 points and more, about a dozen recording the highest prices in years.

The utilities encountered considerable profit-taking on their striking advances of recent sessions. American Power & Light, American Water Works and Electric Power & Light lost 2 to 5 points. Pacific Gas, however, mounted about 4 points to a new top.

Motor Products jumped 14 points, but lost half of it. Allied Chemical, American Can, Kennecott Copper, Greene Cananea, Simmons, Western Union, Wright Aero, Johns Manville and National Cash Register mounted about 4 to 7 points. General Motors, Studebaker, United States Steel and Bethlehem sold 2 and 3 points higher. Columbia Carbon sold up about 11 points.

Commodity markets were irregular, grains encountering moderate selling pressure, while cotton improved about 60 cents a bale on higher Liverpool cables.

In the foreign exchange, sterling was steady, with the demand rate slightly higher, and the Spanish peseta rallied slightly, crossing 16 certs, while other European currencies were inclined to heaviness.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 23

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan of the Apes lived on in his wild jungle existence with little change for several years, growing stronger and wiser. With Tantor the Elephant he made friends. On many moonlit nights Tarzan and Tantor walked together. All else of the jungle were his enemies, except his own tribe.

At eighteen, Tarzan had never seen a human being other than himself. But as he sat one day in a tall tree, trying to solve the mystery of the cabin, the ancient security of his jungle was broken forever. A strange cavalcade strung in single file over a low hill.

In advance were fifty black warriers armed with wooden spears, long bows, and poisoned arrows. Then came several hundred women and children followed by more warriors. They were fleeing from the white man's soldiers, having massacred a white officer. They set to work to build a new village. Tarzan wondered.

A month later it was complete, and they had taken up their old life in their new home. Several moons passed before they ventured far from their safety, for many had fallen prey to the jungle animals. But one day Kulonga, son of their old king, wandered far toward the west.

Warily he stepped—his long shield grasped close to his sleek, ebony body. Night found him far from his father's village. He climbed into the fork of a great tree, fashioned a rude platform, and curled himself for sleep. Three miles to the west of him slept the tribe of Kerchak.

SINCLAIR, BURNS CONTEMPT CASES UP NEXT WEEK

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—Through District Attorney Leo A. Rover the government replied, in a brief in District of Columbia court of appeals today, to the appeal of Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and others held in contempt of court last February for their alleged attempt to influence the jury that heard evidence in the conspiracy case against Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, former interior secretary.

Argument in the case will be heard next Monday. Sinclair was sentenced to six months, Burns 15 days, Henry Mason Day, associate of Sinclair, four months, and W. Sherman Burns, son of the detective agency head, was fined $1,000. In its brief the government contended that the shadowing of the jury by detectives was alone sufficient to merit the sentences but it singled out the incident of Juror Edward J. Kidwell as an aggravating circumstance.

Kidwell was the juror represented in affidavits filed with the court as having said outside the court during the trial that he expected to receive "an automobile a block long" if Sinclair was acquitted.

General Shakeup Is Seen In G. O. P. Ranks in Dixie Over Patronage Scandal

Complete Reorganization of Party in South Believed To Have Support of Hoover.

Washington, January 31.—(United News.)—A general housecleaning in the republican organization in the south was forecast as the senate postoffice investigating committee continued its inquiry into the patronage situation.

Some political observers believe President-elect Hoover is interested in the investigation, which may cause a complete reorganization of party leadership in the south.

Justice department records on the activities of Perry Howard, colored republican national committeeman of Mississippi, made public before the committee, disclosed that Howard deposited $31,000 more than his salary in Washington banks in 21 months.

This disclosure follows indirect evidence presented to the committee Tuesday charging R. B. Creager, Texas national committeeman, with controlling prohibition raids in Texas by his patronage influence.

Evidence charging sales of postmasterships in Mississippi and Texas, as well as many other southern states, have been placed in the record.

It was postoffice inspectors who worked throughout the south last summer collecting much of the evidence given to the committee.

Howard, a former special attorney for the justice department at $6,000 a year, was prosecuted by the department last year on charges of selling federal patronage. He was tried and acquitted but was suspended from the department.

Senator McKellar, Tennessee, democrat, suggested calling Attorney General Sargent before the committee to find out why Howard was merely suspended and not discharged.

Miller E. Chilchrist, department of justice attorney who prosecuted Howard, testified the national committeeman was acquitted of one charge by a jury composed of white democrats. Another indictment against him is awaiting trial this spring.

Representative Wurzback, Texas, republican, was drawn into the investigation when Orville Bullington, vice chairman of the Texas republican state committee, charged him with accepting contributions from federal officeholders. Wurzback's 1926 campaign contributions were submitted to support the charge.

Bullington, however, defended Creager and declared he was certain the national committee had not influenced prohibition raids nor accepted money for federal appointments.

The existence of a feud between Creager and Wurzback was intimated during the hearings, which will be continued tomorrow to permit the Texas representative to file answer to Bullington's charge.

JUDGE WARNED JUROR IN AIMEE CASE, CHARGE

Los Angeles, January 31.—(AP)—An alleged threat of "you fellows lay off the Aimee case" was attributed to Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy by Robert W. Bryden, a member of the grand jury which two years ago investigated the alleged kidnapping of Aimee Semple McPherson, in testimony today before an investigating committee of the state legislature.

Bryden said the jurist addressed him with these words in July, 1926, as they were in an elevator in the Hall of Justice building.

The investigating committee is inquiring into the acceptance of a $2,500 check by the jurist from Mrs. McPherson, with the object of determining whether there is evidence to warrant impeachment of Hardy.

Bryden said he entered the elevator to return to the grand jury chambers during a noon recess at the time of the kidnaping investigation. He said he nodded a greeting to Judge Hardy and the jurist then warned him to "lay off the Aimee case." Bryden, he said, made no reply.

Asked if he thought the jurist possibly was "joking," Bryden replied that Judge Hardy appeared to be "very much in earnest."

COUNCIL HOLDS UP STRAUS' PROJECT AT PALM BEACH

Palm Beach, Fla., January 31.—(AP)—Efforts by S. W. Straus, New York financier and head of a chain hotel in Palm Beach, to construct an exclusive bathing beach and casino on ocean front property which he acquired this week, temporarily were blocked today by the town council.

The council ordered all work halted pending an investigation by the Palm Beach art jury, a body appointed to supervise all construction and development in the resort center.

The order followed Straus' purchase of the J. Leonard Replogle ocean front estate for approximately half a million dollars on Tuesday and his leasing yesterday of all beach rights at the adjoining estate of Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, New York and Palm Beach society leader.

Michigan Woman Sent Up for Life, Is Granted Appeal

Lansing, Mich., January 31.—(AP)—The supreme court late today granted Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, Lansing woman, now serving a life sentence in the Detroit house of correction on a fourth liquor conviction, a writ of error to appeal her sentence.

COMPANY HEAD SEIZED IN $500,000 SHORTAGE

Richard H. Lindsey Accused of Using Mails to Defraud.

St. Louis, January 31.—(AP)—Richard H. Lindley, office manager of the Creditors' Adjustment company, who disappeared last June when an estimated shortage of $500,000 was reported in the accounts of the company, was arrested in the home of a friend here today.

Lindley was arrested on a federal indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud. He had been sought since the company failed and an investigation into its affairs was begun by Receiver James H. Chilton.

The Creditors' Adjustment company, which dealt chiefly in the collection of delinquent accounts, operated principally in Texas, Missouri, Mississippi, Louisiana and Oklahoma. Chilton estimated that it held more than 4,000 contracts for collection of accounts. Lindley is accused of having defrauded contract customers of collections.

In a statement to federal authorities, Lindley, who also was president of the credit company, attributed failure of the concern to the missing secretary-treasurer, Leonard C. Heep, who also is under indictment. He said Heep disappeared last March and that he then discovered the company had only a few dollars in the bank. He expressed belief that Heep had gambled away money collected for clients.

"If the losses to our clients run as high as $100,000 it will be news to me," Lindley said.

Postoffice Inspector Burt said: "The losses will run between $100,000 and $1,000,000—take your pick."

Lindley denied having absconded with any funds and declared that he now is virtually broke.

STATESBORO FARMER GETS 5-YEAR TERM

Statesboro, Ga., January 31.—(AP)—Bill Allen, a farmer, was sentenced from two to five years in the state prison tonight, when a jury after deliberating all afternoon, returned a verdict of manslaughter against him in connection with the death of his stepson, Elmo Stephens, 28, January 12.

Allen was indicted for murder for the death of his stepson a week after a fight which arose over the use of the car of another stepson, Lester Stephens.

Only two witnesses were called in the trial, Lester Stephens and his sister who testified for the state.

The state contended that Elmo was killed by his stepfather in a fight that arose over the use of Lester's car. Lester and Allen engaged in a fight, it was testified, and Elmo intervened and was stabbed fatally, dying a week later in a hospital.

Allen was represented by Colonel A. M. Deal and J. M. Murphy, while Solicitor W. G. Neville prosecuted the case.

The jury was composed of M. M. Rushing, I. S. Perkins, J. C. Ludlum, J. E. Donehoom, G. W. Clark, A. L. Roughton, J. J. Thompson, J. G. Hodges, Sam Harville, Remer Mikell, W. E. Kennedy and Emory Brannen.

Thomasville Police Chief Charges No "Cooperation"

:: SAYS OFFICERS WON'T SPEAK TO HIM ::

Thomasville, Ga., January 31.—(Special.)—Lack of cooperation in the police department was discussed by Police Chief Andrew Milton with city council this week.

The chief stated that some members of the force in the past have been on such bad terms with him that they would hardly speak to him, and failed to obey his instructions.

Alderman W. T. McLean, chairman of the police committee, said his committee will hold the chief responsible for everything connected with his department, and future orders to the police will be given through the chief, and if they are not obeyed the fractious policemen will be dropped from the force.

The police chief is elected by vote of the citizens of Thomasville, while other members of the force are named by council.

2 MEMPHIS POLICEMEN WITNESS ROBBERY

Memphis, Tenn., January 31.—(AP)—Two policemen who stood with upraised hands while two men held up a drug store were under temporary suspension today.

Patrolmen J. F. Edgerly and J. B. Cummings entered the pharmacy last night to make their regular telephone report to headquarters. They were interrupted by a terse command to put up their hands, the order being backed up with a pistol and a threat that it would be used. Eight customers and clerks also complied with the order.

"This place is being robbed," one of the robbers volunteered by way of explanation as his companion rifled the cash register of $140.

The young robbers allowed the officers to retain their pistols and badges but Chief Will Lee relieved them of this equipment upon arrival at headquarters.

A few minutes later the men, who had escaped in an automobile, held up another drug store, where they obtained $151.

Meanwhile another chapter was added to what the newspapers have been calling a "crime wave" when a college girl was set upon a short distance from her home by a well dressed young man. He struck her and, holding a knife at her throat, threatened her life if she screamed. She screamed, however, and the man fled, taking her pocketbook. She escaped harm except for a bruise inflicted by the man's fist on her mouth.

MEMPHIS POSTMASTER PLUM BRINGS ON ROW

Washington, January 31.—(AP)—The fitness of Edward V. Sheely for the postmastership at Memphis, Tenn., was challenged and defended today before a sub-committee of the senate postoffice committee which is considering his nomination for that office.

Only one witness, Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, gave oral testimony, the rest of the time being spent in listening to letters from Memphis citizens and others read into the record by Senators McKellar and Moses, republican, New Hampshire, committee chairman.

The Tennessee senator lauded Sheely in vigorous fashin. He quoted from correspondence he had had with C. Arthur Bruce, Memphis lumberman. He denied heatedly that he was under obligation to Sheely, a republican appointee, as Bruce had written.

McKellar noted that one of Bruce's letters said "One of the papers here has charged you with a compact with Mr. Sheely for the employment of your brother," and characterized the writer or anyone who had made this remark as a "deliberate, malicious liar." His brother, he explained, could not possibly have been aided by Sheely as he was under civil service.

The attacks on Sheely ranged from allegations of incompentence to statements of misuse of political power by Bob Church, a negro republican leader.

One telegram from Walter L. Wellford, head of the Hoover-Curtis Non-Partisan club in the recent campaign, dated January 21, to Senator Moses, read: "Morning papers quoted Senator McKellar as urging hearing Thursday. Why this haste on his part except that Sheely is a democrat and managed his campaign for him in the seventh ward. We have a lot of evidence, partially prepared but cannot possibly get it completed before some time next week. Please do not allow hearing to be held this week."

YOUTH TAKES AUTO AND THEN USES IT IN SECOND HODUP

The holdup bug Thursday night bit one young white man, who, after holding one man up and taking his automobile, used it to carry him to the scene of another depredation.

A. R. Linscott, of 588 Park avenue, told police that as he was sitting in his roadster in front of the Cecil hotel Thursday night waiting for his wife to receive treatment in a beauty parlor, a young white man jumped into the car, held a gun on him and forced him to drive out on Howell Mill road, where the bandit told the owner he was going to use the car in other holdups.

Half an hour later, the youth drove up to a filling station at Fifth and Spring streets and held up the manager, Thomas Lowndes, of 963 Blue Ridge avenue, and took $50. He then forced Lowndes to drive him near Georgia Tech on North avenue where he put Lowndes out and drove off. The roadster and man fitted the description of the person who victimized Linscott.

AIR MAIL PLANE IS FORCED DOWN BY SNOW AND ICE

Davenport, Iowa, January 31.—(AP)—The air mail service had lost another plane today and the Caterpillar club had gained a new member.

Snow and ice, bane of all fliers, threatened to beat to earth Pilot Jack Story and his plane flying at an altitude of 3,000 feet near here last night, so Story leaped, with the parachute release cord clutched in his fingers.

His flight toward Chicago from Kansas City was a continuous fight until the weight of ice forming on the wings forced him to abandon the ship.

Over Davenport Story encountered a heavy snow and a few minutes later he jumped, after first shutting off the motor. He was taken to Moline, Ill., by automobile.

Story, who lives in Kansas City, is 24 and married. The Caterpillar club, of which he has become a member by reason of having made a parachute leap from a mail plane, includes in its membership Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

The announcement placing Georgia men says young men from eastern Georgia will go to Camp McClellan, Ala., except for the nine southwestern counties which help to fill the Fort Barrancas, Fla., quota, and 12 northern counties, from which the boys will go to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

General Davis said:

Police have no report of the death and the body is being held in the morgue of Grady hospital pending an autopsy.
